Raging Brush Fires Spread Destruction in L. A. Suburbs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Howling winds which whipped three brush fires into a destructive holocaust subsided today, giving firemen hope of getting the upper hand over the blazes.

The winds were down to around 35 miles an hour early today, with a Weather Bureau forecast of a further drop.

Fire officials said that will permit use of planes dumping fire-retardant borate solution on the hot spots north of Los Angeles. Planes could not be used Monday when the winds gusted as high as 100 m.p.h.

The fires scorched at least 10,000 acres in all.

Fire officials, rechecking the damage, said at least 23 homes were destroyed, and seven badly damaged.

No deaths were reported. Several firemen were injured fighting the blaze in the rugged canyons and ridges.

Thousands of homes were evacuated in areas near the two major blazes adjoining Burbank and Glendale, about 12 miles north of downtown Los Angeles.

Oil fields were endangered by the other fire, near Newhall.

Fire officials pinned hopes for stamping out the blazes on behaviour of the hot desert winds that have reached gusts up to 100 miles an hour since the fire started about 5:30 a.m. Monday. Sparks from power lines downed by the howling winds were blamed for starting several small fires which quickly joined and raced over the brush-covered slopes.

Officials called the blaze the worst in the area since the Bel Air - Brentwood disaster destroyed 484 homes and caused an estimated $25 million damage in 1961.

About 800 men and 175 pieces of firefighting equipment battled the blazes but crews reported they could do little except try to save homes along the perimeter.

Hundreds of dwellings were saved as firemen and residents stopped the flames just short of their property.

The flames ripping through the tinder-dry brush sent billowing towers of smoke swirling southwestward over Los Angeles and beach communities.

The turbulent winds prevented use of aircraft often used to drop fire-retarding borate solution.

One helicopter, caught by a violent gust, crashed but the pilot and two firemen aboard escaped unhurt.

One major fire burned in the Verdugo mountains between Glendale and Burbank. The other swept over the San Rafael hills between Glendale and Pasadena.

Expensive homes line canyon roads extending into the mountainous area, normally lush and green this time of year.

A near-record winter drought and the drying desert winds combined to enable the brush to burn like kindling.

Early Monday evening windblown sheets of flame whipped toward the community of Eagle Rock east of Glendale as firemen fought to save the area.

"We put 40 companies on it," said Deputy Fire Chief Don Hibbard of Los Angeles. "But we couldn't have stopped it with a hundred."

The Newhall fire, about 20 miles northwest of Los Angeles, forced closing of U.S. Highway 99—the main north-south route into inland California.

De Gaulle Scores Personal Triumph In Mexico City

By JACK RUTLEDGE

The French president's schedule included a second round of talks with his host, President Adolfo Lopez Mateos.

Newsmen estimated 700,000

Crisis of Nationwide Rail Strike May Be Avoided

WASHINGTON (AP)—A railroad spokesman who warned that the nation was possibly on the verge of a vast rail strike says the railroads now "are optimistic that a crisis can be avoided."

J.E. Wolfe, the spokesman and chief negotiator for some 200 carriers, set off the alarm bells Monday. He declared he had "unimpeachable advice" that the five operating brotherhoods planned to bypass national negotiations and strike the Southern Pacific and Louisville and Nashville lines Wednesday.

This, he added, would lead to a nationwide strike.

But after officers for two of the unions denied any strike plans, Wolfe issued a statement Monday night saying "in view of the apparent reversal of their strike plans, the railroads now are optimistic that a crisis can be avoided."

Wolfe noted rail management representatives were summoned to a meeting today by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz who had declared he saw "no reason or justification for national crisis on the railroads."

Wirtz asked the industry representatives to meet with Asst. Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds and Francis A. O'Neill Jr., chairman of the National Mediation Board. The unions were not asked to take part.

At a news conference Monday morning, Wolfe had announced he had been told the unions plan to strike the Southern Pacific and the L&N in an attempt to detour the stalled national negotiations and split the railroad's united front.

He warned that if any railroad was struck, all major railroads in the United States would immediately post proposed work rules changes that have been under negotiation.

The unions have said they would respond to any attempt to impose the work rules by striking.

Carson Soldier Held as Suspect In Holdup Case

A Ft. Carson soldier is being held in Denver as a suspect in a holdup case after the bandits' getaway car roared into a crowded intersection at 100 miles an hour and collided with another car Monday.

Spec. 5, Joel K. Whitman, 21, was found unconscious alongside the getaway car and was identified by patrolman Irv Williams as one of two suspects in the robbery of a creamery. The other escaped on foot.

Walter F. Hamilton, 47, of Littleton, was critically injured in the accident.

Police said the force of the collision scattered the loot from the robbery in bushes and trees lining the nearby Denver Country Club. Most of the $70 taken in the holdup was recovered.

Melted Silver May Be Worth More Than Dollars

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Coin collectors are hitting up Nevada's state treasurer for silver dollars just when he's trying to get more of them into the nation's only legalized gambling state.

The federal government is having trouble helping either collectors — who might soon make money by melting the coins—or Nevada—which would rather use silver dollars than chips in its slot machines and on its gaming tables.

State Treasurer Mike Mirabelli said Monday he was powerless to send money out of Nevada to satisfy coin collectors.

He expressed hope a bill now before Congress calling for the minting of $150 million in silver dollars would pass and slow down the drain of the state's hard dollar.

The U.S. Treasury, which says its stock of silver dollars is down to $25 million and dwindling rapidly, is also backing the bill. It blamed much of the difficulty on industrial demands which have sent the price of silver up.

But the chairman of a House Appropriations subcommittee, J. Vaughan Gary, D-Va., fears: "At the present market on silver, the silver content of the dollar is so close to the dollar value that if silver were to go up—and it has been advancing in price—then it would become profitable to melt down silver dollars.

"We don't feel we are justified in authorizing the manufacture of silver dollars which, in a few months or a year, might be melted down."

Some Dubliners Too Busy for St. Patrick's Day

DUBLIN (AP) — The Irish were so busy being prosperous today that some of them hadn't the time to celebrate St. Patrick's Day.

Some firms withdrew their floats from Dublin's annual parade, explaining that business left no time for frivolity.

But thousands of industrial workers had the day off, and their pockets were jingling with the fruits of this year's 12 per cent national wage increase.

The chief absentee from the Dublin pubs was the strident tenor of Brendan Behan. The 41-year-old playwright was in a hospital with diabetes and jaundice. The word this morning

Cold Air Snap Hits Midsection Of United States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold air surged into the nation's midsection today, plummeting temperatures below zero in Minnesota and North Dakota.

Colder weather also penetrated Illinois, Missouri and Kansas after several days of unseasonably mild temperatures.

The mercury dipped to —13 in International Falls, Minn. Hibbing, Minn. reported —9 and Duluth —4.

In North Dakota, Grand Forks was —3 and Fargo and Jamestown each reported zero readings.

Temperatures fell as much as 40 degrees in some areas in a 24-hour period.

Other parts of the nation basked in warm sunshine. The 70s appeared in Florida and Southern California. The mildness was accompanied by rain and strong winds.

Winds gusted up to 70 miles an hour in Ontario, Calif., 40 miles east of Los Angeles. The winds fanned brush fires in Los Angeles, burning out of control.

Traffic was halted on U.S. 66 near Seligman, Ariz., when a swirling dust storm blinded motorists. At least seven persons were injured in a 20-car pileup during the dust storm.

Federal Boost In Pay Urged By President

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson today urged Congress to give government workers a pay raise—even if it doesn't vote itself a salary boost.

In a letter to Speaker John W. McCormack, Johnson said if the House's rejection last week of a $545 million federal pay bill is allowed to stand, it would deprive two million federal workers "of fair and reasonable pay adjustments."

Johnson said it also would "make it tough to recruit top flight men and women, and impair my efforts to achieve true economy in government."

The House, in a surprise move, voted down the pay bill last week because of apparent fear of retaliation by voters to raising their own and senators salaries by $10,000. Other federal workers pay raises went down the same drain.

Hunger Strike Continued in Frankfort, Ky.

By SY RAMSEY

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Twenty-three integrationists, troubled by stomach pains and headaches, continue their sit-in and hunger strike today in the Kentucky House gallery.

"If kids can get killed in a Sunday school in Birmingham, then I can endure," said Nancy Penick, a Negro teen-ager.

The 17 Negroes and six whites from Louisville began the move to try to force passage of a public accommodations bill—either in the dying days of the Legislature or during a special session.

The demonstrators quietly filed into the gallery about noon Monday.

Frank Stanley Jr., their leader, said that aside from physical discomforts, everyone was in good shape.

The group spent the night sleeping in chairs or on the floor, then held a prayer service and what Stanley called "group therapy" as a psychological booster.

Passage of a public accommodations bill seemed distant. The House version died official-

Boom in Military Family Housing Predicted by Defense Official

John J. Reed, deputy assistant secretary of defense, Monday told a luncheon session of the President's Council, Home Manufacturing Association, of Department of Defense plans for additional military housing with the objective of supplying needed suitable living quarters for some one million eligible professional military men.

Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren, superintendent, U.S. Air Force Academy, also spoke to the association Monday night at a black tie reception and dinner in the grand ballroom at the Broadmoor. The association is convening at the Broadmoor Sunday thru Tuesday.

In an interview Monday, Reed stated, "At present, my department is responsible for the combined existing total of 380,000 family housing units. We are asking the Congress for 12,500 new units per year, beginning in fiscal year 1965," Reed said. He added that the Congress has shown a definite interest and that the measure was up for House vote on Monday.

By consolidating the family housing costs and business operation under one agency of the Defense Department, Reed stated, "Secretary McNamara put it on a business basis."

Reed outlined a continuing need for military family housing in overseas areas, with building specification restricted to factory fabrication of component parts.

In choosing prefabricated family housing units, "We have come up with a product of low-skill labor in assembling the units, a reduction in the individual unit cost, and a very fine quality product. These savings add up."

Reed estimated that assembly of the prefabricated units would reduce the foreign exchange construction cost to about 20 per cent.

Commenting on the ever-increasing public housing need, Reed said the construction boom during WW II was nothing compared to the amount of construction of family units that will be needed. "We feel that the trend in mass housing will go toward prefabricated housing units," he said.

Gen. Warren spoke on academy training and on cadet academic achievement. He also touched on the cadet wing expansion from 2500 to about 4500 cadets, which he said would start in June.

He stated, "For the next four years we will enter classes of 985 instead of our past normal of 720. This will increase the academy to 3200. In the meantime, we hope that our required construction program of around $39-million is approved so that we can continue growing to 4,417 by 1971," he said.

Walter Kiplinger, staff member of the Washington headquarters of the association, stated that proposals would be evaluated for solution to the building code controversy, which would result in a maximum good national performance standard on materials, in order to comply with differing building codes in all areas. He predicted that by 1970, three out of four family housing units would be prefabricated.

Warren Nellis, technical services manager, stated, "We are looking forward to a more complete type housing package utilizing more of the plastic film laminated product in unit components. Presently, wood is still a major building material," he said.

Scranton Insists Republican Draft Must Be Honest

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania says he would accept the Republican vice presidential nomination if it was offered as the result of a "sincere and honest draft."

Two weeks ago, in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press, Scranton had said he would reject any offer of second place on the Republican ticket.

Scranton told a panel of newsmen on a Harrisburg television program Monday night that "my feeling about this (the vice presidency) is identical to the presidency. I do not want to run for national office, and I am not interested in doing so. I have said I would accept an honest and sincere draft and that I would do."

Did this mean you would accept a draft for the vice presi-

Atomic Travel Thru Space Is Being Forecast

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Physicist Edward Teller says that someday man may travel through space in ships propelled by thousands of small nuclear explosions inside sealed combustion chambers.

The University of California physicist, speaking Monday at the Western Metal and Tool Conference, said that this method of propulsion—along with what he calls bato, for bomb assisted takeoff — depends on development of stronger steel alloys as well as other needed inventions will have to come from a new breed of inventors who will work in teams.

He said knowledge of the laws has been so extended that it is beyond the scope of a single man.

Russians Refuse To Free Downed American Airman

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BERLIN (AP)—An American flier injured in the downing of a U.S. reconnaissance bomber over East Germany last week is reported in fair condition but the Russians refuse to release him.

An Air Force flight surgeon visited Lt. Harold W. Welch, 24, of Detroit, in a Soviet military hospital at Magdeburg, East Germany Monday night. He reported Welch had fractures of the right upper arm and upper and lower left leg, as well as abrasions on his left thigh, right hip and right fingers.

The flight surgeon, Capt. John I. Monroe, 28, of West End, N.C. "requested that Lt. Welch be released from the hospital for return to U.S. control, but his request was denied," the Air Force said.

Turkey Threatens Again to Upset Cyprus Balance

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—The Turkish Parliament gave Premier Ismet Inonu full backing in the Cyprus crisis Monday night as Inonu's government stepped up military activity again after tension had appeared to be easing.

Warships and troops were on the move once more around the port of Iskenderun 100 miles from Cyprus. Inonu warned Turkey would step in if the United Nations did not protect the Turkish Cypriot minority on the Mediterranean island.

Parliament voted Inonu full powers to act in the Cyprus crisis, and his Foreign Ministry announced that Turkey will abrogate a 1930 treaty under which nearly 10,000 Greek nationals living in Turkey enjoy special

$14,000 Painting Perishes in Blaze

ONEONTA, N.Y. (AP) — A Van Gogh painting valued at $14,000 was lost, and 28 cats and 2 pet skunks died Monday in a fire that destroyed a widow's home in the hamlet of Milford, north of Oneonta.

Sarah Kiewe, 70, was unable to call firemen because the telephone line had burned. She told firemen she stood in the road in front of the frame house for half an hour attempting to flag down motorists before anyone stopped.

Mrs. Kiewe said that two years ago she turned down an offer of $14,000 for the Van Gogh original. The cats and skunks were her pets.

Study to Begin At Local Church

An interesting study begins at First Methodist Church at 7 p.m. today. Byron Cory, administrative assistant to the pastor, will be the teacher for the class which is to study "Evaluation and Solutions of Financial Problems." Each session of the course which will be continued for three nights will last approximately 1½ hours.

This evening the subject will be "Life Cycles and Spending Patterns." Thursday, "Your Income and Spending Decisions" will be discussed; and for the final session on Friday, "Money Management." Information from these three evening sessions would constitute the equivalent of a several hour college course.

Youth as well as single and married adults are invited to attend the class. A nursery will be provided for small children.

CHURCH AGAINST CUTTING AID

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United Church of Christ has told President Johnson it is opposed to drastic cuts in foreign aid.

"It is incredible that at a time when the gap between the rich countries and the poor countries is actually widening, there is no way to put more of the resources of rich countries at the service of societies trying desperately to lift their living standards," said a letter to the president from The Rev. Dr. Herman F. Reissig, international relations secretary of the Church's Council for Christian Social Action.

Wallace Faces First Primary In Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE ,Wis. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama faces his first Wisconsin audience today as a candidate in the state's presidential primary after declaring he'll "shake the eye teeth of national leaders in both parties" if he gets 100,000 votes.

Wallace opens his campaign with a news conference and a Rotary Club luncheon speech at Appleton.

His opponent in the primary, Gov. John W. Reynolds of Wisconsin, said he was having difficulty convincing some Democrats that the "Wallace threat is very real."

Reynolds, running in the April 7 primary as a favorite son pledged to President Johnson, predicted Monday that Wallace would poll more than 100,000 votes.

"If I receive any votes I'll consider it a victory," said Wallace, outspoken opponent of federal civil rights legislation.

Wallace arrived in Milwaukee late Monday and was greeted by about 25 backers carrying placards reading "Wallace for Prez" and "Welcome to Milwaukee."

"The support Wisconsin already has shown will change the emphasis of my campaign," Wallace said after stepping from an Alabama State plane marked with a Confederate flag.

"Wisconsin residents always have been interested in local government, and I plan to base my campaign on that issue and constitutional government. Personalities will have no part in this campaign."

APPOINTMENT

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Rev. Dr. James F. Hopewell, 34-year-old Episcopal minister, has been named director of the Theological Education Fund of the World Council of Churches. He will sasume his new duties in September when the Rev. Dr. Charles W. Ranson retires.

Since 1960 Dr. Hopewell has been associate director of the Fund, which was established in 1958 to strengthen theological education in Latin America, Asia and Africa.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D.,Ph.D.

Clark has a high I. Q. but poor study habits. And in college the difference between the "C" student versus the "A" student is not so much I. Q. as lack of proper study habits. Parents, send for the booklet below and start your grade school youngsters on the road to efficient studying. Note the specific example today of how college students are tested on my college textbook.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE S-414: Clark K., aged 24, was a G. I. who decided to go back to college when his term of enlistment was over.

"But, Dr. Crane," he protested miserably, "I don't know how to study at the fast clip needed in college.

"So I am barely making a 'C' average. Are there any shortcuts to improving my grades and perking up my memory?"

MEMORY IMPROVEMENT

Yes, and the first shortcuts were mentioned yesterday, make a daily "Study Agenda" to avoid wasting time.

Then "skim read" your assignments by "racing the clock" so you can give a brief "once-over" to maybe 25 or 30 pages in 10 minutes.

Then go back and "pick the meat" out of the assignment but concoct a running True-False or "multiple choice" exam as you read.

Suppose you are assigned

* * *

Chapter II in my college textbook entitled "Psychology Applied." That chapter deals with "Learning and Memory" and runs to 42 pages.

Allot yourself just 10 minutes to "skim read" it while racing the clock.

In that 10 minutes you can catch the sectional headings and the tables as well as the three basic laws of learning, plus the six "Objective Determinants of Attention" in contrast to the four "Subjective Determinants."

You will also see charts and tables, plus several illustrations. Thus, you can get a quick bird's eye view of the entire chapter in just 10 minutes.

Then go back and lift out the important items that your professor would be likely to insert in his examination questions.

They usually consist of "definitions" as well as "laws" and such items as "How Many Objective Determinants of Attention did Dr. Crane mention?"

Make a game of trying to outguess your teacher! To do this, develop your own exam as you perform your second and slower reading of the total assignment.

If your professor usually gives you a True-False quiz over each chapter (as is true of most psychologists who use my textbook) then expand your own test to 35 or 40 statements, just to be sure you overlap his 25.

It then becomes a lot of fun to see how well you can outguess the prof.

So pick out every meaty item and phrase it as a true or else a false statement, as follows:

T. Dr. Crane's text listed three basic rules for learning. (p. 52)

F. He offered eight Objective Determinants of Attention. (p. 56)

F. The first of these was "Uniqueness." (p. 56)

Keep on till you have 35 true-false statements. List the page reference in parentheses so you can quickly check back on yourself if you forget.

And list the right answer, such as "T" or "F," in front of each statement, for then you can cover up those answers and drill yourself over the entire chapter within three minutes even as you walk to the classroom.

Then keep each chapter's set of questions for use in your review before the final exam. Thus, inside of just one hour, you can review an entire textbook like mine which runs to 846 pages.

A quarter of a million students in Lberal Arts and Business Colleges have studied from my college textbook in psychology and this true-false procedure is the usual policy of their professors, so use it even in high school.

Parents, start out your grade school youngsters with these shortcuts to more efficient study habits! Now is the time to make of them college caliber.

So send for my booklet "How to Tutor Your Child at Home," enclosing 20 cents and a long, stamped, return envelope.

Fall Schedule Announced by Columbia TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System, after weeks of planning and revisions of plans, has formally announced its fall schedule. It includes 13 new programs and 11 time-changes for returning shows.

If CBS is a trend leader, next fall's schedules on all networks should be a barrel of fun: eight of the 13 new shows are comedies, and all are half-hour shows.

New programs include "Living Doll," a comedy with Julie Newmar playing a beautiful robot, and "Bill and Martha," with William Bendix and Martha Raye, another comedy. These will fill the Sunday night hour opposite NBC's "Bonanza" one of the toughest competitive spots in television.

Other comedy shows are "Man, Happy Returns" on Monday night, about a man who works in the complaint department of a store; "The Cara Williams Show" on Wednesday, a husband-wife series; "The Munsters" on Thursday, a series about a family that look like Frankenstein monsters, with Fred Gwynne and Al Lewis; "The Baileys of Balboa," also on Thursday, with Paul Ford playing a marina owner in a yachting community; "Gomer Pyle" on Fridays, with Jim Nabors, in spin-off from the Andy Griffith show, playing a Marine recruit, and "Gilligan's Island" on Saturday, about a group of shipwrecked people.

There will be three new dramatic series. "Slattery's People" on Monday evening is the story of the minority leader of a state legislature. "Yours Truly, Danny Taylor" on Friday nights is a newspaper tale. "Mr. Broadway" on Saturday nights, with Craig Stevens, is an action-adventure series about a press agent who does amateur detecting.

The one new variety show will be "The Entertainers" with Carol Burnett and Bob Newhart among the stars, on Friday nights. A documentary series, "World War I," will be seen on Tuesday nights.

"The Nurses" will be moved to a Tuesday night spot; "The Defenders" to Thursday evenings: "Password" to Thursday nights, and "Rawhide" to Fridays. A number of others will have new times.

Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps and special assistant to the President in charge of the antipoverty program, will be Sunday's "Meet The Press" guest on NBC . . . Eddie Arcaro, the ex-jockey, has been signed to comment on six of the world's most famous races on ABC's "Wide World of Sports."

CHURCH EXHIBIT

Designed to show the service and ministry of the organization, the 300 square foot booth will feature five illuminated panels with three full-color pictures each. The pictures will be explained by a two and three-quarter minute sequence of lighting and narration.

UNUSUAL SOLDIER

CAGLIARI, Sardinia (AP) — When 20-year-old Vincenza Mella got a notice to start 18-months compulsory military service she was rightfully indignant. There is no women's corps in the Italian Army. It turned out the notice had been meant for Vincenza Mella—male, and no relative.

Toy Delays Two Passenger Trains

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Two passenger trains were delayed for two hours Monday by a toy train in a suitcase.

A porter heard ticking in luggage aboard a Seaboard Air Line Railroad train bound for Miami. Police and firemen were afraid to let a northbound train pass for fear vibration would set off a supposed bomb.

Lt. Clarence T. Smith, a naval ordnance man, was called in from nearby Fort Lauderdale. The ticking suitcase was placed in a gully and covered with a tarpaulin.

Smith gingerly cut open the side of the valise belonging to Alice Goodman of Knoxville, Tenn., which had been checked through to Miami. He found the toy ticking away.

Railroad officials said Mrs. Goodman would be reimbursed.

Stone Crushers Want Refund in Taxes

ATLANTA (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service has been treating poultry grit the same as crushed stone and that sticks in the craw of the Stone Mountain Grit Co.

The company claims the depreciation allowance for poultry grit—granite ground into tiny particles for feeding chickens—should be 15 per cent.

It says the IRS has been allowing it only the 5 per cent depreciation allowance for crushed stone—chunks of granite much larger than a chicken could swallow.

In a suit filed in U.S. District Court Monday, the company claimed that discrimination by the IRS has caused it to pay $288,671 in excess taxes from 1954 to 1961, making it that much harder to scratch out a profit.

LBJ's Alliance for Progress Speech

WASHINGTON (AP)— Here is the text of President Johnson's speech today at the Inter-American Committee for the Alliance of Progress—CIAP—celebrating the third anniversary of the start of the Alliance for Progress.

Thirty-one years ago this month Franklin Roosevelt proclaimed the policy of the Good Neighbor.

Three years ago this month John Kennedy called for an Alliance of Progress among the American republics.

Today, my country rededicates itself to these principles and renews its commitment to the partnership of the hemisphere to carry them forward.

We meet as fellow citizens of a remarkable hemisphere.

Here, a century and a half ago, we began the movement for national independence and freedom from foreign rule which is still the most powerful force in the world.

Here, despite occasional conflict, we have peacefully shared our hemisphere to a degree unmatched by nations anywhere.

Here, and in this very room we have helped create a system of international cooperation which Franklin Roosevelt called "the oldest and most successful association of sovereign governments in the world."

Here, there are twenty nations who, sharing the traditions and values of western civilization are bound together by a common belief in the dignity of man.

Here are twenty nations who have no desire to impose a single ideology or system on anyone else—who believe that each country must follow its own path to fulfillment with freedom—who take strength from the richness of their diversity.

It is on this—this history and accomplishment, these common values and this common restrant—that we base our hope for the future.

John F. Kennedy has been taken from us.

The Alliance for Progress owes much to the vision of President Kennedy. But he understood that it flows from the desires and ideas of those in each of our countries who seek progress with freedom. In its councils all nations sit as equals.

That is the special significance of CIAP—the organization we honor today. Through it the alliance will now be guided by the advice and wisdom of men from the entire hemisphere.

It needs and is getting the best leadership our continents have to offer.

It has such leadership in Carlos Sanz de Santamaria—one of our most distinguished Americans.

In the last three years we have built a structure of common effort designed to endure for many years.

In those years much has been accomplished.

Throughout Latin America new schools and factories, housing and hospitals have opened new opportunities.

Nations have instituted new measures of land and tax reform, educational expansion and economic stimulus and discipline.

We are proud of these achievements. But as we take pride in what has thus far been done, our minds turn to our great unfinished business.

Only by facing these shortcomings by fighting to overcome them, can we make our alliance succeed in the years ahead.

Let me make clear what I believe them to be.

They are not failures of principles or of belief.

The alliance's basic principles of economic development of social justice, of human freedom are not only the right path, they are the only path for those who believe that both the welfare and the dignity of man can advance side by side.

To those who prize freedom there is no alternative.

There is no magic formula to avoid the complex and sometime painful and difficult task of basic social reform and economic advance.

There is no simple trick to transform despair into hope, turn misery and disease into abundance and health.

Those who think that the path of progress in this hemisphere will be easy and painless are arousing false hopes and inviting disappointment.

The criticism which can give us new vigor and which must guide us, is of those who share our beliefs but offer us better ways to move toward our goals.

We have learned much about the difficulties and flaws of our alliance in the past three years. We must now profit from this experience.

With faith in our principles, with pride in our past achievements, with the help of candid and constructive criticism, we are now prepared to move ahead with renewed effort and renewed confidence.

We will continue our efforts to protect producing nations against disastrous price changes so harmful to their economies, and consumers against short supply and unfair price rises.

We will intensify our cooperation in the use of our resources in the process of development.

CIAP itself is an important step in that direction, and it has our full support.

But other institutions as well—the Inter-American and World Banks, private foundations and cooperatives, savings institutions and sources of agricultural credit—must, in every country, focus their energies on the efforts to overcome the massive difficulties of capital shortage, hunger and lack of adequate educational facilities.

So that my own country's participation in this cooperation might receive needed leadership and direction, I have given Secretary Mann, who enjoys my highest confidence, broad responsibility for our role in the alliance.

His appointment reflects my complete determination to meet all the commitments of the United States to the alliance.

Our pledge of substantial external help has been met in the past. My administration will spare no effort to meet it in the future.

And my confidence is reinforced by my knowledge that the people of the United States also support that commitment to our fellow Americans.

But public funds are not enough. We must work together to ensure the maximum effective use of private capital—domestic and foreign. Without it, growth will fall behind. Such capital will respond to a stable prospect of fair earnings and a chance to create badly needed industry and business on a responsible basis. Those who destroy the confidence of risk capital or deny it a chance to offer its energy and talent endanger the hopes of their people for a more abundant life.

The second area of emphasis is the area of self-help.

Progress cannot be created by international organizations. It cannot be imposed by foreign countries. It cannot be purchased with large amounts of money or large amounts of good will.

Progress in each country depends upon the willingness of each country to mobilize its own resources, inspire its own people and create the conditions in which growth can flourish.

For although help may come from without, success can only come from within.

And those who are not willing to do that which is unpopular and difficult, will not achieve that which is needed and lasting.

This is as true in my own country's fight against poverty and racial injustice, as it is in the fight of others against hunger, disease and illiteracy.

By broadening education we can liberate new talents and energies, freeing millions from the bonds of illiteracy.

Through land reform, aimed at increased production —taking different forms in each country —we can provide those who till the soil with self-respect and increased income, and each country with increased production to feed the hungry and strengthen the economy.

Fair and progressive taxes, effectively collected, an provide the resources needed to improve education and public health conditions and the social structure needed for economic growth.

Measures ranging from control of inflation and encouragement of exports, to the elimination of deficits in public enterprise, can help provide the basis of economic stability and growth on which the alliance can flourish.

The third area of emphasis is the pursuit of social justice.

Development and material progress are not ends in themselves.

They are the means to a better life and increased opportunity for all.

They are the means for each to contribute his best talents and his desires.

They are the means to the full dignity of man.

For tthe Alliance for Progress is a recognition that the claims of the poor and oppressed are just claims. It is an effort to fulfill those claims while—at the same time—strengthening democratic society and maintaining the liberty of man.

No matter how great our progress, it will lack meaning unless every American, from the Indian of the Altiplano to the impoverished farmer of Appalachia can share in the fruits of change and growth.

Land reform, tax changes, educational expansion, the fight against disease, all contribute to this end.

Everything else we do must also be shaped by this guiding principle.

In these areas—cooperation, self-help, social justice — new emphasis can bring us closer to success.

At the same time we must protect the alliance against the efforts of communism to tear down what we are building. The recent proof of Cuban aggression in Venezuela is only the latest evidence of those intentions. We will soon discuss how best we can meet these threats to our independence. But I now assure you that the full power of the United States is ready to assist any country whose freedom is threatened by forces directed from beyond the shores of our own continent.

Let me now depart for a moment from my main theme to speak of the differences that have developed between Panama and the United States.

Our own position is clear and it has been from the first hour that we learned of the disturbances. The United States will meet with Panama anytime, anywhere, to discuss anything, to work together, to cooperate with each other, to reason with one another, to review and to consider all of our problems together. To tell each other all our opinions, all our desires, and all our concerns, and to aim at solutions and answers that are fair and just and equitable without regard to the size or strength or the wealth of each nation.

We don't ask Panama to make any precommitments before we meet, and we intend to make none. Of course, we cannot began on this work until diplomatic relations are resumed, but the United States is ready today, if Panama is ready. As of this moment, I do not believe that there has been a genuine meeting of the minds between the two presidents of the two countries involved. Press reports indicate that the government of Panama feels that the language which has been under consideration for many days commits the United States to a rewriting and to a revision of the 1903 treaty. We have made no such commitment and we would not think of doing so before diplomatic relations are resumed and unless a fair and satisfactory adjustment is agreed upon.

But the alliance is not here, or in office buildings and meeting rooms and presidential mansions throughout the hemisphere.

The alliance is in the aspirations of millions of campesinos and workers—of men without education and men without hope—of poverty—stricken families—whose homes are the villages and cities of an entire continent.

They asked simply the opportunity to enter into the world of progress and growth.

From their leaders, from us, they demand concern and compassion and dedicated labor.

I am confident we will be able to meet those needs.

It will not be an easy task.

The barriers are huge.

We are engaged in a struggle for the destiny of the American republics.

But it was a great poet, William Butler Yeats, who reminded us that there was "doubt if any nation can become prosperous unless it has national faith."

Our alliance will prosper because we do have faith—not idle hope, but the same faith that enabled us to nourish a new civilization in these spacious continents.

And in that new world we will carry forward our Alliance for Progress in such a way that men in all lands will marvel at the power of freedom to achieve the betterment of man.

Letter Writer Faces Obscenity Charges

Write letters, thought Michael Leigh, 52, Santa Cruz, Calif., author of "The Velvet Underground," a novel about such goings-on.

The government however, charges that six of Leigh's letters contained obscene offers and suggestions. His federal court trial began Monday.

Leigh's attorney, Victor Gladstein, indicated the defense will contend the letters were written to obtain "solid, first - hand facts" to assist in exposing anti-social conditions.

War Memorial Ship Is Being Proposed

BOSTON (AP)—A committee of former crewmen of the mothballed battleship Massachusetts have worked out a money raising plan to help bring the ship from Norfolk, Va., to Boston as a war memorial.

The group announced donors will gain commissions in the Massachusetts navy. It will cost $100 or more to become an admiral. For $1,000, the rank will be fleet admiral. For $10 you can be an ensign.

Retired Navy Cmdr. H. Leland Baskell is president of the USS Massachusetts Memorial Committee. The ship, was in 35 World War II engagements from North Africa to the Pacific.

Some Dubliners Too Busy for St. Patrick's Day

was that he was on the way to recovery.

"He keeps complaining about everything," said a doctor, "and that's a good sign with Brendan."

The day's sporting program included horse racing on Dublin's Baldoyle Course, canoe racing on the Grand Canal and people racing on the road to Bray.

This last event, a St. Patrick's Day fixture, is a tribute to the late President John F. Kennedy. It started in emulation of his keep fit campaign and it draws an entry of thousands.

For the traditionalists the day's big attraction was the dog show at Ballsbridge, once the only place in Dublin where a man could get a drink to celebrate his patron saint.

They used to tell of the man who stepped out of the beer tent at the show and stumbled over a spaniel. "What stupid idiot would bring a dog to a place like this?" the celebrant asked.

For the past three years, however, the pubs have opened for St. Paddy's Day.

Several leading members of the government spent the holiday with Irishmen abroad. Premier Sean Lemass celebrated in London. Jack Lynch, minister of industry and commerce, was in Chicago. Dublin's Lord Mayor Sean Moore is in the United States, too, on a tour including New York, Chicago and Kansas City.

Sermons honoring St. Patrick were delivered this morning in churches of all denominations.

Across the border in Northern Ireland, the archbishop of Canterbury, primate of the Church of England, made a pilgrimage to Downpatrick, where the saint died 15 centuries ago.

At a service Monday night the archbishop, Dr. Michael Ramsey, spoke of the search for Christian unity — a search of deep significance in Ireland, where religious differences have perpetuated political division between the predominantly Catholic republic and the mainly Protestant north.

Dr. Ramsey pledged that the Protestants of the Anglican Church "will continue to do their utmost to bring about the unity of Christians in truth."

Ross Proposes Positive Labor Market Policy

Attorney Hugh J. Ross has called for a positive labor market policy to reduce and eventually eradicate long term unemployment in this country.

Ross made the proposal in a speech before the Society of Metaphysical Arts here. The former county commissioner is running for the Democratic nomination to oppose Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth for the Third Congressional District seat next fall.

The attorney said that long term unemployment "now seems to be built structurally in our economy." He pointed out that unemployment has continually increased since 1953 but that new jobs have failed to keep pace.

"In the decade following Warld War II, the U.S. economy produced an average of 902,000 new jobs yearly, while from 1957 until 1962, it produced an average of only 464,000 new jobs annually," Ross said.

He said this is in direct contrast to the increase of the U.S. labor force which has increased 1.6 per cent yearly "or almost one million persons yearly from 1957 on." He said this fact means that the U. S. must produce 10,000 new jobs daily or about 10 million within the next three years.

"The failure to treat labor as capital or as human resource as a produced means of production or as a product of investment is to continue the pace we are in with ever mounting unemployment and poverty," Ross said.

"To solve these labor problems, and poverty," he continued, "we must have a 'positive' labor market 'policy.' Such a policy must include retraining, vocational education, relocation allowances and a vastly improved national employment service to assist labor mobility at all levels."

The Nation's Weather

After Monday's balmy weather over much of the nation, the departing winter season showed that it still retains vigor in its punch.

A blast of Arctic air sent temperatures tumbling to cold wave proportions this morning across the Dakotas, Minnesota, and northern portions of Wisconsin and Iowa.

For example, the early morning low temperature at International Falls, Minn., was 15 below zero.

Clear skies prevailed over much of the southern half of the nation this morning except for rain in Florida.

Sheriff Probes Five Cases Of Theft

Five cases of theft were reported to the sheriff's office Monday.

The first was reported by Mrs. Calvin Johnson, 1224 Houston Ave., who told Deputy Sheriffs Lee Quein and Bob Snuggs that her daughter had $87 in cash under some sweaters in a drawer and that it had been taken.

The money, she said, was there on Thursday. Mrs. Johnson had no idea how anyone got into the house unless thru the utility room door which does not lock sometimes.

C. Robert Walden, 1432 Wilks Place, told Deputy Sheriff Charles White that he had lost his top coat while he was at the Elks Lodge, 3400 N. Nevada Ave., Saturday night.

He had left it in the cloakroom and there is a possibility it might have been taken by mistake. It is olive green, size 40 with gloves in the pocket and worth $75.

James Gravil, 311 W. Cheyenne Rd., reported that a tire and wheel belonging to the South Suburban Water Co. truck had been stolen. The vehicle was parked outside Gravil's home at the time.

Two ski poles worth $8.95 were stolen from the Broadmoor Ski area Sunday.

Mrs. Fred Blackett, 2009 Snyder Ave., said her son had been skiing and left the poles outside for a short time. When he returned they were gone.

The final incident was reported by John Miles, 1932 S. Franklin St., who told Deputy Sheriff Bob Walters that about 20 gallons of gas had been siphoned from his two cars as they were parked in front of his home.

director. This will also be effective July 1.

Because his new contract isn't effective until July 1, Helm will continue in his present job and coach the baseball team. This is Helm's ninth season as head baseball coach and during that time he has led the Indians to four State Class-AA championships in addition to winning the Pikes Peak League title six times.

Helm also led the school to its first Class-AA football championship this past season when Cheyenne defeated Lamar in the finals.

residence and trade privileges. It said the decree would go into effect Sept. 16.

In a speech to members of his party in Parliament, Inonu assailed Greece for siding with the Greek Cypriots. He warned Turkey would intervene if the U.N. peace force being mobilized fails to meet Turkish conditions for keeping peace on Cyprus.

"Such an outcome may cause international events as well as a clash between Turkey and Greece," he said. "The Greek government's behavior, making it seem it is on the side of the Greek Cypriot bands and looters, has turned these two friendly nations against each other."

"No matter what the consequences may be, we shall use our rights of intervention should the necessity arise to safeguard the life, honor and property of our Turkish brothers."

Two submarines and three destroyers steamed out of Iskenderun Monday and air force jets roared over the port heading in the direction of Cyprus.

Informants said leaves granted two days ago to troops in the Iskenderun area were canceled and an armored brigade was heading for the port.

Two Turkish freighters which stopped loading operations Sunday resumed taking aboard military vehicles and troop rations.

Nearly 20,000 troops were said to be massed around Iskenderun.

After each flareup on Cyprus, Turkish warships loaded with troops set forth from Iskenderun. The last show of strength came Friday when Turkey warned the Greek Cypriot government it would intervene unless the killing of Turkish Cypriots stopped.

Greece has warned Turkey that if it steps in, the Greek government also will act. Greek Ambassador Dimitri Bitsios told newsmen at the United Nations that Greek troops alerted when Turkey made its threat Friday are still in a state of readiness.

No reason was given for Turkey's new show of concern. Nicosia, the Cypriot capital, was quiet Monday. Greek shops closed as the Orthodox Lenten season began. There were a few minor incidents.

Local Policeman Resigns to Enter Private Business

Police Officer William G. Clarke will resign his position as patrolman April 1 to enter private business.

"After considerable thought," Clarke wrote Police Chief Cecil J. McKissick, "I have decided to accept a position with the Big Four Auto Parts Inc., Colorado Springs.

"This position offers me a substantial increase in salary and a future prospect of perhaps a better job. I believe this move to be in the best interests of both my famliy and myself.

"I have enjoyed working on the Colorado Springs police department and am very grateful to you and members of the department for making my employment here both rewarding and educational."

Clarke joined the Colorado Springs police department Jan. 1, 1960. His leaving will leave the department one short of its authorized strength of 108.

Scranton Insists Republican Draft Must Be Honest

dential nomination? A newsman asked.

"Yes," answered Scranton.

Later in the question and answer period, he said, "I am not interested in the second spot. Well, I think I probably would on a draft basis. But let me point out that I don't think you have drafts for the vice presidency.

"In fact, in every instance that I can remember, the presidential nominee has asked the person he was thinking of first, and unless there was a very strong draft for this, I would not want to do it."

Scranton said on March 2 he would reject the vice presidential nomination. Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, a candidate for the presidential nomination, had suggested Scranton aim for second spot.

"When I'm talking about a draft, I'm talking about a very strong feeling among the delegates that this should be the person.

"Just because the presidential nominee came along and said 'I want Joe Blow to be the vice presidential nominee,' I dont' consider that a groundswell among the delegates."

Man Escapes Serious Injury When Car Rolls

A man whose car rolled after it collided with another car at El Paso and San Miguel Streets Monday afternoon was reported in good condition this morning at St. Francis Hospital.

William Oren Stratton, 31, of 1522 N. El Paso St., was taken to the hospital with a head cut and a concussion after his northbound car collided with the car of Emery H. Edwards, 61, of 2514 Summit Dr., according to a police report.

Edwards, who was traveling north at the time of the accident, was ticketed for taking the right of way at a stop sign.

After the cars collided, Stratton's car skidded around and went 44 feet north on El Paso, rolling over at least once and possibly twice, police said.

people lined the route of the two presidents from the airport.

De Gaulle was the first foreigner invited to speak from the balcony. Even President John F. Kennedy, who received a more tumultuous welcome in Mexico City two years ago, was not accorded this honor.

Both De Gaulle and Lopez Mateos talked of alliance between their countries. Both stressed that alliance would hurt no one. This apparently was intended to quiet U.S. uneasiness about De Gaulle's aims on his visit to Mexico and his projected tour of Brazil, Uruguay, Argentina and Peru in September.

"No doctrine, no quarrel, no divergent interest separate us," De Gaulle said. "Quite to the contrary, we have many reasons that urge us to draw closer to each other."

He compared Mexico's long revolutionary fight for freedom with France's own struggle for "liberty and dignity of man."

He said both are "threatened by frightful trials" but by joining hands and walking "hand in hand" a solution is possible.

Lopez Mateos said it was the greatest moment in the history of French-Mexican relations.

He said French culture and spirit had influenced Mexico, and the French Revolution of 1789 gave Mexico encouragement in its own struggle.

"Strengthening relations between France and Mexico," Lopez Mateos said, "will increase our common contribution to the fostering of peaceful coexistence between all the nations, our efforts for universal and complete disarmament, our struggle for a lasting peace and encouragement of exchange and cooperation between Europe and Latin America.

"We can envision new procedures that, while strengthening French-Mexican reciprocity, can cause Latin America to be benefited by European participation, as you have proposed."

There was no immediate editorial comment or official reaction to the American president's speech.

Russians Refuse To Free Downed American Airman

any information on Capt. David I. Holland, 35, of Holland, Minn. and Capt. Melvin J. Kessler, 30, of Philadelphia, who parachuted with Welch when their RB-66B was shot down last Tuesday.

Communist sources have indicated the three fliers might be tried as spies.

Monroe spent an hour and 20 minutes with Welch. Magdeburg is an industrial town 80 miles southwest of Berlin and 20 miles south of Gardelegen, where the plane was shot down.

Capt. Monroe and a driver made the trip to Magdeburg in a field ambulance after the Russians announced Monday that one of the fliers was hurt and an American doctor could visit him.

The Soviet announcement was the first official word U.S. authorities had received on the fate of the three fliers.

The Russians accused the Americans of spying. The United States rejected the charge and demanded return of the crew and the wreckage of the plane.

U.S. officials have insisted the plane crossed into Communist air space accidentally while on a routine training flight. They protested its being shot down by a Soviet MIG. The Russiams claim the American plane ignored a signal to land.

Money, Liquor Stolen From Las Vegas Club

Thieves stole $79 in cash and 11 bottles of liquor worth $34 from the Las Vegas Club, 703 E. Las Vegas St. the sheriff's department reported Monday.

The money was in a cigaret machine, juke box and small cabinet all of which were forced and damage to them is estimated at $120, Deputy Sheriffs Woodrow Littrell and Eldon McCune, said.

Entry was gained by knocking off the lock on the kitchen door.

ALL SET FOR OPENING—Grand opening sale signs are greatly in evidence in the shirt department in the foreground of this picture. The new Montgomery Ward retail store at 2420 E. Pikes Peak Ave., is highly departmentalized. Except for the caps and hats, this department features shirts of every style. In the background, other departments are visible, plainly marked by huge panels on the walls which prevent confusion and enable the shipper to go about his business with dispatch. Bill to Battle Poverty Thrown Into U.S. Hopper

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress trained a questioning eye today on President Johnson's antipoverty program as it began an uncertain journey through the legislative mill.

Democratic reaction generally was favorable to the plan the President submitted Monday to pick up a number of previously considered proposals, add some new ones and wrap them up into a $962.5 - million program aimed primarily at assistance to needy young Americans.

Republicans, wary of being tagged with opposition to any measures that would reduce poverty, nevertheless found little that was new in a program some of them regarded as aimed primarily at promoting Johnson's political chances in November.

Peace Corps chieftain Sargent Shriver, designated by the President as his personal chief of staff to direct "the war against poverty," was listed as the first witness as the House Labor Committee moved to consideration of the over-all presidential proposals.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Senate Democratic leader, predicted that members will cooperate with Johnson to end the "congressional delinquency" he said it had displayed in the past in attacking the problem of youths the President said now are "condemned to a life of poverty which they, in turn, will pass on to their children."

Democratic leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma urged the House to pass the President's bill and not let down the poor. He said it was an "intolerable situation" that fully one-fifth of the population is not enjoying the country's prosperity.

Nobody argued against that position. But there was so much evident dissent to the methods Johnson proposed using that it might take the full weight of presidential pressure to push through even a portion of the program this year.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, obviously voiced the view of a substantial number of colleagues when he said in an interview that the President's action in proposing the program "looks to me like a political maneuver."

Senate Republicans already are on a record against two of the major proposals in the catch-all program—a youth conservation corps, renamed by Johnson as a Jobs Corps, and a national service corps patterned on the Peace Corps. Both of these measures have encountered stiff opposition in the House, where a Republican - conservative Democrat coalition often calls the turn on legislation of this type.

LUCKY STICK?

DENVER (AP) —When the Denver Invaders of the Western Hockey League held a "shoot a goal" contest between periods, a fan, Bob Nelson, asked to borrow forward Lou Jankowski's stick.

Nelson hammered the puck into the net and collected the $25 prize. He returned the stick to Jankowski, who went scoreless for the night.

Justice Writes Its Last Footnotes to Auschwitz

By LOYAL GOULD

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Slowly but fatefully, justice is writing its meager footnote to the incredible story of Auschwitz—nearly 20 years after it became a symbol of Nazi barbarity.

New aspects of the Nazi concentration camp in Poland, where four million to five million persons perished, are being revealed bit by bit to the German people and the world.

The scene is Germany's largest war crimes trial, against 22 Germans who were SS guards or functionaries at Auschwitz during World War II.

Since it began last December the trial has boiled down to a relentless account of atrocities Judge Hans Hofmeyer often pales with revulsion.

Veteran newsmen, many of them correspondents with the allied or axis forces during World War II, have wept on hearing former Auschwitz inmates relate their experiences. Six women among the 12 jurors frequently dab at their eyes.

The defendants listen impassively, now and then scribbling notes for their attorneys. Confronted face to face with a witness who recognizes them after so many years, they indignantly insist the witness has confused them with someone else.

Their defense rests mainly on one point — "What I did in Auschwitz, I did on higher orders."

According to the prosecution, the defendants were murderers or accomplices to murder who killed in a variety of ways—by beating, torture, starvation, drowning, burning alive, gassing, shooting and injections of poison.

Former Auschwitz inmates portray them as sadists, often with streaks of sexual perversion, who killed for the pleasure kill gave them.

German historians testify that SS guards could do practically anything they wished with prisoners since Hitler's concentration camp system was built to rid the world of what Nazi ideology considered inferior people—Jews, Slavs, gypsies and others regarded as unfit to contribute to Nazi Germany's glory.

The German press has given the trial extended coverage, at times highlighting gruesome details that otherwise don't find their way into the pages of family newspapers.

Some Germans feel that amnesties should be given Germans charged with war crimes. West German Justice Minister, Ewald Bucher, disagrees.

"One cannot demand that the murder of a single individual be punished while at the same time demand that amnesties be given mass murders,' Bucher says.

Why did it take almost 20 years to get the Auschwitz trial rolling?

He says part of the difficulty in preparing the case stemmed from the early postwar period when the allied victors held war crimes trials and then shipped Nazi archives to Washington, London or Moscow.

Since this country is organized on a federal basis, coordinated work was difficult. Persons lacking enthusiasm for further exposes of the Nazi era found it possible to hamper investigation and pass the buck from state to state.

A defendant Bauer never expected to put on the stand is Emil Bednarek, 56, tracked down by chance.

Bednarek, a former Auschwitz inmate who ingratiated himself with his guards was selling sausages in a German railroad station. Three Polish professors, former Auschwitz prisoners, spotted him as they were returning to Warsaw after making depositions to Bauer.

Other defendants were located largely through patient detective work.

The trial, expected to run about a year, took four years for Bauer to prepare. During this time, 1,300 people were heard in pretrial investigations. About 300 witnesses from 15 countries are expected to testify.

Top ranker among the defendants is Robert Mulka—68, a former SS captain who was adjutant to Auschwitz' first commandant, Rudolf Hoess. The Poles hanged Hoess in 1947.

Most of the defendants look like everyday people, the type one rubs shoulders with during rush hours in any German city. All try to hide their faces when passing news photographers outside the court. One of Bauer's assistants suspects they fear that former Auschwitz inmates will recognize them and submit additional evidence.

Auschwitz covered a large swampy area in southern Poland. The area, patrolled by SS men with vicious dogs, included half a dozen smaller camps adjacent to industrial plants put up by such leading German firms such as I. G. Farben and Krupp to exploit slave labor.

Like it or not, Germans will be hearing more details of Nazi atrocities.

Max Guede, former federal prosecuting attorney and now a member of parliament specializing in legal reform, says: "In the next five to eight years, crimes will be brought to trial."

Hunger Strike Still On in Frankfort, Ky.

ly Monday after a second abortive attempt to take the bill away from the Rules Committee and get it to the floor for a vote.

Technically the Senate could pass its version by Wednesday—in time for House approval by Friday, the last day of the regular session. But the Senate has shown a similar disinclination to act.

U.S. Olympic Ski Team Set for Meet

WINTER PARK, Colo. (UPI)—Members of the U.S. Olympic ski team were back in Colorado today for the first time since departing for Europe late last year.

The team, which trained in the Colorado Rockies and at Squaw Valley, Calif., will compete in the National Senior Alpine Championships at Winter Park Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Secretary of State Byron Anderson headed a special welcoming delegation Monday and presented special outstanding citizen citations to Olympians Buddy Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colo., and Bill Marolt of Aspen, Colo.

Among the arrivals were Jean Saubert, who won silver and bronze medals at Innsbruck, and fellow medalists Jim Heuga and Billy Kidd, first U.S. men ever to place among the top three in an Olympic Alpine event.

CHILEAN REDS FIGHT CHURCH

MARYKNOLL, N.Y. (UPI) — Communist sympathizers in Chile have stepped up their attacks on priests and church property, according to Father Charles M. Magsam, Maryknoll Missioner of Fort Wayne, Ind., in a report from Chillan, Chile.

"Recently they broke into the chapel of Jesus the Worker here, stole the chalice and destroyed the cross in the steeple," Father Magsam said. He also said Communists beat up a leading Catholic layman who had built up a reputation for his ability to explain the Church's social teachings to Chilean workers.

Belli to Write Book About Trial of Ruby

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Attorney Melvin M. Belli says he plans to write a book titled "Black Date: Dallas."

The San Francisco attorney, whose client Jack Ruby was sentenced to death Saturday in Dallas, said Monday night he came to Austin "just to get out of Dallas."

Belli said he did not plan to file any appeals here before leaving for San Antonio and possibly Mexico City on his return to the West Coast.

Belli said he wondered as he left Dallas "if everyone there had a transistor in his head, taking orders from the Dallas Kremlin and oligarchy."

Some Recovery Results in Mixed Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Some recovery by rails and gains by cigarette shares and selected issues featured a mixed stock market early this afternoon.

Gains and losses of most key stocks were fractional but some railroads rebounded a point or better from losses taken Monday on fear of a railroad strike.

The threat of a rail strike abated and the carriers moved higher on balance, although several leading issues in the group continued to ease.

The cigarettes still were encouraged by the latest published report that cigarette sales were recovering from the steep decline which followed the government report on smoking and health.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .1 at 301.5 with industrials up .1, rails up .5 and utilities off .3.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .09 at 816.39.

Shamrock Oil & Gas, a St. Patrick's Day item, was up ⅛ at 33½ on blocks of 3,000 and 1,500 shares.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mixed in quiet trading.

Wife of Glenn Sparks Drive For Campaign

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — County seat kaffee klatsches, luncheons and receptions were on tap again today as Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.'s wife, Annie, continued blazing a campaign trail for the ailing Democratic senatorial hopeful.

Circleville, Chillicothe, Waverly and Portsmouth were on the timetable of Mrs. Glenn and Rene Carpenter, wife of astronaut M. Scott Carpenter.

Annie, an admitted stutterer, left the formal speaking to Rene Monday as they began two weeks of traveling the state for get-togethers with Democratic women. But Mrs. Glenn was not at all reticent in speaking personally with most of the dozens of women who turned out to get acquainted.

She declined smilingly, however, to touch on any political matters. Her husband has said he will not disclose his views on issues until he receives his retirement from the Marine Corps. This is due April 1 if Glenn recovers as expected from a concussion suffered in a bathroom fall in his Columbus apartment last month. He is in a military hospital at San Antonio, Tex.

Mrs. Glenn and Mrs. Carpenter visited Lancaster, Logan and Athens Monday. Today's route takes them through southern Ohio.

The week's schedule won't take the women into the northeastern Ohio stronghold of Sen. Stephen M. Young, who seeks re-election but first must defeat Glenn in the May 5 state Democratic primary.

Annie told a group of 90 Hocking County Democratic women at the country club near Logan that her husband is frustrated by the hitch in his plans and eager to get going.

"John is moving along very slowly," she said. "He's all right when he does this," she demonstrated, moving her head up and down. "But when he does this," moving her head side to side, "He still gets dizzy."

At Lancaster, Mrs. Carpenter in a five-minute talk said that Glenn is qualified by youth, talent and ideals to serve in the Senate.

She said letters asking such questions as why "a good Christian man like John Glenn would do a grubby thing like entering politics" only strengthened Glenn's conviction he should seek public office.

BRUSH UP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Walls painted in some yellows, greens and yellow-green reflect a most unflattering light. The National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association, which reports so, said the colors mentioned ought not to be used when redecorating a bathroom. Suggested colors; pink, rose, coral or peach, all tones which reflect a warm, healthful glow.

MARCHING FORTH—Pat Priest, daughter of former U.S. Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest, will march forth into the footlights to play Miss March in a spoof of girl magazines and key clubs. The play, "Her School for Bachelors," will be one of Bob Hope's television dramas.

Local Car Leasing Firm Joins Chrysler System

Chrysler Leasing Corp. of Detroit, Mich., has announced the appointment of Perkins Leasing Corp., 115 N. Cascade Ave. as a licensee-member of the Chrysler Leasing system.

Will G. Perkins, president of Perkins Motor Co., and an official in the new leasing corporation, said the firm will be leasing primarily Chrysler automobile products, but will have the facilities to lease any make of vehicle people might want.

He said his corporation has been negotiating for this contract since Chrysler first went into the program. The program was consummated about three weeks ago and cars are available for lease at the present time.

"Under our program," Perkins said, "we are able to do business with firms or individuals in any place in the United States. Working through the Chrysler leasing network we are able to get wide coverage and to conduct a flexible operation."

He said Perkins Leasing Corp. can offer a program of insurance or the lessee can use his own.

"The keynote of the program is its flexibility," Perkins said. He stated that leasing plans can be tailored to fit almost anyone's needs.

Perkins said there has been a tremendous increase in the leasing industry due to the fact that so many individuals and businesses have found that leasing cars and trucks releases capital for other uses.

The network of Chrysler licensees, national in scope, is being developed on a city by city basis. Perkins Leasing Corp. is the only one of the network located in Colorado Springs.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

Wayne Morse, D-Ore., blasting U.S. policy in South Viet Nam for the third time in as many days, says he will not "support the murder of American boys" in the embattled Southeast Asian country.

"We should get out," Morse said in a Senate speech Friday. He received permission to interrupt debate on the civil rights bill for his speech.

PAY RAISE: Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., leader of the fight to raise congressional salaries, said Friday he is inclined to wait until January before making a new attempt to gain passage of the pay hike.

The House defeated the proposed raises 222-184 in a roll-call vote Thursday. In addition to the $10,000 annual raises for senators and representatives, the bill carried increases covering 1.7 million federal employes.

House leaders indicated Friday that raises for postal and career government employes might be brought up for another vote. But they had decided that an election year was no time to ask congressmen to vote on raising their own pay.

TRADE: Secretary of State Dean Rusk differed with three senators Friday over the question of flexibility in trading with the Communists.

Testifying at the opening of a Senate Foreign Relations Committee review of East-West trade policy, Rusk argued that the United States should vary its trade policies according to the different situations in different Communist countries.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., said he could see no difference between Poland and Yugoslavia, and the other Communist countries.

Another Democrat, Sen. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, said trading with Red governments "is tantamount to telling the world we've gone to bed with the Communists."

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., said "a double standard of morality" had been created by the U.S. sale of wheat to Russia.

Insurance Men Honor Guests At Denver Meet

Wilbur S. "Bill" Marshall and T. Ernest Nowels, both of Colorado Springs, were honored as two of the top 25 life insurance men of Colorado at a banquet in Denver.

The banquet was given by the Denver U.S. National Bank at the Lakewood Country Club. Of the 25 selected, 15 were from outside of Denver, two of them from Colorado Springs.

Colorado Springs was the only city outside of Denver to place two members on the awards list. Each agency in the state was allowed to nominate one man. Nominations are based on quality of production and volume.

Marshall is a C.L.U. and perennial qualifier for the Million Dollar Round Table. He won out over four other members of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. and is slated to receive the award for the second time.

Nowels, of New England Mutual, was selected as the leading member of his agency in the state.

MOUTHFUL

NEW YORK (UPI)—To show children how to brush their teeth properly, a New York dentist uses a giant-size set of teeth about four feet in diameter with huge toothbrush and collapsible tube to match. The youngsters are kept amused by the out-size toothbrushing tools while the dental hygiene fundamentals are stressed.

Training of Teenagers Seen in Poverty War

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The first move to alleviate poverty under the administration's plan is to train those teen-agers who are least likely to fit into today's or tomorrow's economy. The program would aid 100,000 of them.

But there are millions of others of all ages who come under the administration's rule of thumb—a family with less than $3,000 a year income is poor. And drives to better their condition, and incomes, will be harder.

The $962.5 million President Johnson is asking of Congress to start his program is admittedly only a beginning. How much of a dent it will make is unknown. And how big the program could grow in future years is also unknown.

The causes of poverty are many. Sometimes it's sudden like the loss of a job because a lifetime of practicing a once-wanted skill is outmoded. Sometimes it's a change in direction of government spending — a number of communities where defense contracts have been canceled know about that, and others fear it may be around the corner. Often it's lack of schooling that would fit the person to learn skills now in vogue in the labor market.

But the nation's poor contain many other classifications.

Farming techniques have advanced to the point that more than a million marginal farmers have been left behind. They have cash incomes of less than $3,000 a year, often much less. In many cases they are concentrated in depressed regions, but some are found even in the prosperous areas where farms are larger and mechanized.

More than a million nonfarm, nonwhite families headed by men under 65 are poor by the $3,000-a-year standard. Much of the blame is charged to poor schooling, or hiring discrimination.

Even more families headed by women under 65 are in the poverty classification. The heads are widows, divorcees, deserted or unwed mothers. They must provide for their children while often handicapped by lack of skills or experience. And some of these also charge discrimination in hiring.

More than two million Americans over 65 classify as poor under the rule of thumb. A third have only Social Security and other pension income. For many who do have some savings, these are small because their best earning years were during the depression, or in the early postwar years when pay was smaller than today.

The President's program, while concentrating on the teenagers, urges expansion of existing programs aimed at helping others and federal aid to local programs, and loans and grants to some farmers, workers long out of work, and small businesses. This would continue and expand long-time drives on the problem of poverty.

The nation has made considerable strides since 1929. Then half of its families had incomes under $3,000 a year. By 1947 this had dropped to 30 per cent, and today is put at 20 per cent. The big gain in those years was made by families in the middle-income brackets.

All such figures are clouded to some extent by the inflation that makes a $3,000 a year income buy much less today than in 1929. They also are complicated by rising standards of living which include many conveniences and services now considered necessities that were unheard of in those days.

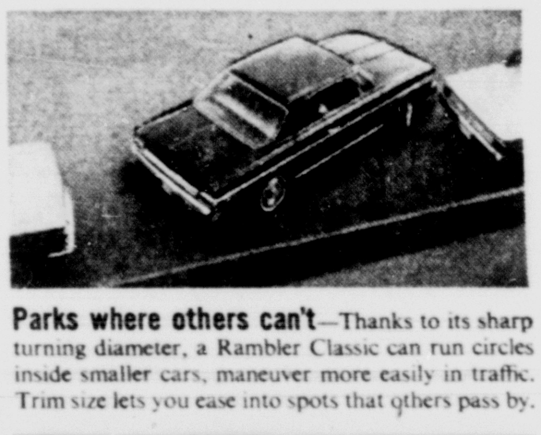
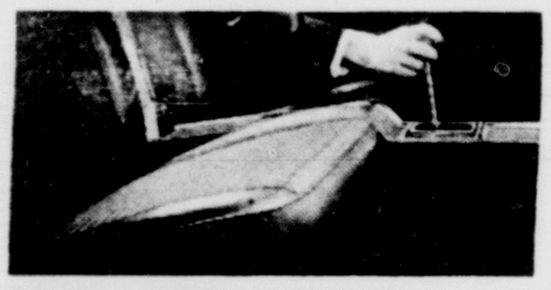
You'll never know how much a car can do for you ...until you test-drive a Rambler!

Rambler Classic gives you more useful room — Inside, the Rambler Classic is a big car, with full, uncrowded legroom, hiproom and headroom for six lanky 6-footers. Doors curve up into the roof, so you can get in and get out easily and gracefully without hunching.

Fights rust best — Only Rambler Deep-Dips car bodies up to the roof in rustproofing compound to protect nooks and crannies that spray misses.



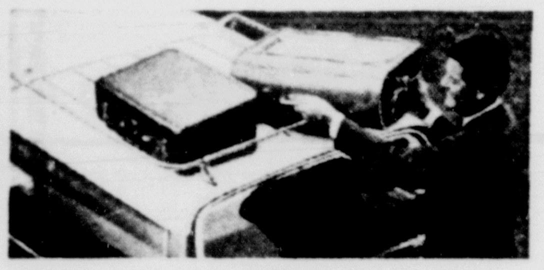
Parks where others can't — Thanks to its sharp turning diameter, a Rambler Classic can run circles inside smaller cars, maneuver more easily in traffic. Trim size lets you ease into spots that others pass by.



Out-does costlier cars in luxury — New Shift-Command Flash-O-Matic (you shift it, or it shifts itself), Twin-Stick Floor Shift, other luxury options!

Stops when others might not — All Ramblers feature Double-Safety Brakes, with separate systems, front and rear; if one is damaged, the other works to stop car safely.

Relaxes you incomparably — There is nothing like Rambler reclining seats for comfort. They're optional with regular seats, individually adjustable or bucket seats. Headrests available, too!



Offers extra features at no extra cost — Like wagon Roof Rack. Don't buy any car till you drive it—test the best at your Rambler dealer soon!

Saves on gas and upkeep — Rambler is famed for gas economy. Extended lubrication periods, lubed-for-life parts reduce upkeep.

Stays solid, silent, smooth — Rambler's Advanced Unit Construction is a major breakthrough in car building—solid, quiet. No body bolts to loosen, rattle, squeak. Precision door fit.

SURROUNDS YOU WITH EXTRA VALUES

MINE SAFETY

WAYNE, N.J. (UPI) — Mining costs have been reduced and safety increased dramatically by use of a new resin bonding agent developed by American Cyanamid Co.

The bonding agent provides a stronger anchorage for the steel rods and reinforcing bars used to support mine roofs. The resin anchorage has been found to have tensile strength 10 times greater than cement anchorage.

Jordan King Talks With Former Enemy

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—King Hussein returned home Saturday from a four-day visit to the United Arab Republic, where he had talks with an old foe, President Gamal Abdel Nasser. The king's chief of Royal Cabinet, Bahjat Talhouni, and Foreign Minister Anto Atallah described the talks as "very useful."

Commendation For Jacqueline Controversial

CORONADO, Calif., (AP) — The California State Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution adopted resolutions at the final session of its 56th annual convention Friday but the only one that raised controversy was a commendation for Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, the late president's widow.

By unanimous voice vote the DAR adopted resolutions including a call for congressional action to make non-denominational religious observances legal in the public schools; cessation of trade with Communist countries; opposition to the King-Anderson (Medicare) bill and for a united effort to stop circulation of obscene literature.

Mrs. Kennedy was lauded by the DAR convention for her efforts to refurnish the White House with furnishings of historical significance.

In a draft of the resolution, Mrs. Kennedy was referred to as "Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy" and from the floor came a suggestion that it be switched to "Mrs. John F. Kennedy."

During an ensuing debate one member said "Jacqueline" was used because "we want to keep politics out of this." The resolution was changed to "Mrs. John F. Kennedy" but about half of the original commendation was cut out.

The original draft praised Mrs. Kennedy for her "contribution to making the White House a shrine to American patriots." That was eliminated in the final version along with a reference to a booklet, "Guide to the White House," which Mrs. Kennedy and a committee working with her had printed.

The resolution as passed said the DAR has an interest in preserving, restoring and awakening "a deep appreciation of our rich heritage" and it commended Mrs. Kennedy for her "efforts toward these same goals in her refurnishing of the White House."

The resolution carried with some dissenting votes.

WASHINGTON — Special to the Gazette Telegraph — Back of the second visit to Viet Nam by Defense Secretary Robert McNamara is the new position he holds with President Johnson over Secretary of State Dean Rusk, say Washington sources. Normally the State Department would have handled the visit, but these Washington sources say that it is Secretary McNamara who is now recommending policy to the President.

Other Washington sources wonder whether this new shape up means Secretary of State Rusk may be headed out.

Army Number one man in Viet Nam is General Paul D. Harkins, who graduated from West Point in 1929. Born May 15, 1904, he is scheduled for retirement within a few months. His deputy on the staff is Lt. Gen. William C. Westmoreland, a 50-year old native of South Carolina and a Field Artillery officer graduate of the Military Academy in 1936. A former Superintendent of the Military Academy, he is expected to replace Harkins in Viet Nam and move up to his 4th star. Gen. Harkins was a Deputy Chief of Staff to General George Patton during the war.

MATS has begun solicitation of the air carriers for commercial contract airlift contracts for the fiscal year 1965. In 1963 the initial contracts totaled about $100 million for overseas and international airlift, and an additional $39 million for domestic airlift. The aircraft is also earmarked by the civilian carriers for participation in the Civil Reserve Air Fleet.

The resignation of his Reserve commission by Justice Arthur Goldberg has led to the rumor that members of Congress also holding Reserve commissions, may be violating the Constitution. The question may be headed for decision by the court. Goldberg's resignation was made to avoid any suggestion of conflict of interest.

If the case should go to the Supreme Court it is expected that Justice Goldberg will be asked not to sit since he is still entitled to his Reserve retirement pay at age 60. At that time it would have an annuity value of more than $25,000.

The Reserve Officers Association, putting up a fight in behalf of the Congressional members who are also Reserve officers, has released a public statement attacking those of the press who have written on the alleged "conflict of law," saying that the reports are "symptomatic of a sort of sickness on the subject."

While not debating the legal question involved in the alleged conflict, Senator Margaret Chase Smith told Reserve leaders here that Presidents Truman, Kennedy, and Johnson, as well as former Vice President Richard Nixon held their Reserve commissions while serving in their respective offices. The real issue, say Pentagon sources, is the possibility that congressmen will lose their Reserve retirement benefits. This is the reason they do not want the Supreme Court to pass on the matter.

While the Pentagon is making a desperate effort to sell Congress on continuation of the Civil Defense program, now loaded with political hacks, Congress is not buying it. The Pentagon is giving higher priority to the fall-out shelter program than it is to anti-ballistic missile defense, according to well placed Pentagon sources. Congress is aware of the fact that the voters are not the least bit interested in the program and will be unwilling to pass any appropriations for the shelter program.

Notwithstanding this lack of interest in the program, President Johnson has named Mrs. Jane S. Hanna as a Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Civil Defense at $20,000 a year.

Assistant Secretary of Defense for Civil Defense S. L. Pittman is resigning. This may be the beginning of an exodus of Civil Defense officials from the Pentagon.

Retired Reserve officers would like to retain their Reserve retired pay and also be entitled to veterans benefits such as disability compensation or pensions. The Reserve Officers Association has endorsed the proposal but Bureau of the Budget officials do not believe Congress would ever consider such a pork barrel deal. Retired regulars do not have this privilege.

The present requirement of the Naval Academy for two years of language instruction will be cut to one. Naval Academy authorities approved the change, effective next fall, over protests of some of the language instructors at the Academy. Program does not call for cutting back on language skills however, since the graduates will receive additional training before reporting to any overseas station.

Official White House spokesman denied an early press story which said the President would ask Congress to lower the draft age to 17.

If the next Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff is not a Navy officer when General Maxwell Taylor retires, Pentagon believes the post will go to Army Chief of Staff Gen. Earle Wheeler.

The Senate cleared a measure on health benefits for Federal employees and sent it on to the White House for approval. The bill would extend the coverage for children of Federal employes to their 21st birthday, rather than their 16th as it is now. It would also remove inequity in higher premiums charged married women employes with non-dependent husbands and also provide coverage for foster children.

Washington political sources see a new fight coming up between National Guard and Reserve leaders over a Pentagon proposal to cut costs. Informal word is that the Secretary of Defense would eliminate from eligibility for training pay all Reserve and National Guardsmen ear-marked for mobilization after war has been declared. Such a move would drop 15 National Guard and 6 Reserve Divisions. Pentagon sources have estimated annual cost of each of these 21 divisions at 7 million dollars or a total of 147 million. Elimination of the units would possibily eliminate future Reserve retirement for the officers unless they could find other means of earning the required minimum of 35 points a year.

Priest Advises Young Set on Sex Teachings

CHICAGO (UPI) — In the past 12 years, more than 150,000 parents and engaged couples have heard a Jesuit priest speak candidly on sex education of the young.

The talk, "Sex Education of Children for Parents," still is the most frequently requested one of the speakers bureau of Loyola University, where Father Francis Filas heads the theology department.

The popularity of the talk is based on frankness, says the bureau. It deals with physical differences, sex relations, physical modesty, language to use to explain sex, and what to explain at different age levels.

"Use the technical name for the parts of the body as soon as possible so as to impress in the children that there is nothing vulgar or dirty about sex," Father Filas advises.

Respected delicacy must be employed in any discussion, he says, "because sex itself is so personal."

There also is a difference between sex education and sex information, the priest states.

"Sex education basically is understanding all that is meant by male and female . . . in its full sense, sex education deals with the total character, personality and spirit of a person, as it is affected by his or her sex," he says.

It takes more than medical knowledge or "practical experience" for proper sex education, Father Filas says. Failure to include a moral and a psychological explanation results in only sex information, he says.

Some of Father Filas' ideas on introducing sex education to a child have surprised his listeners, who expected a clergyman to have a more reserved attitude.

He believes that "if your child is old enough to ask about sex, he is old enough for an answer."

Sex education ideally should come from parents, not the school, he says, "because the parents alone have the best opportunity, the responsibility, of the dignity and closeness to be able to give the children the sex education they should have."

Because of the demand for his talk, Father Filas has recorded it for parents and school groups. The album is sold by mail.

Harrison District to Vote On Bond Issue May 12

The Harrison School District, No. 2, will hold a vote on a bond issue on May 12, it was decided Monday night at the March meeting of the board.

Total amount of bonds to be voted on will be at least $1.5 million, probably more, with the money used to pay off old indebtedness and build new schools that will be needed in the near future as the district grows.

Supt. Norton Gorman reported to the board that enrollment this month is at 2,620, as compared to 2,189 a year ago.

As Pikes Peak Park and other areas within the school district become housing areas, the school population will grow accordingly so that grade school or schools, junior high and senior high schools buildings will be needed.

The board set dates for three public meetings at which members will explain to the voters in the district the facts that helped the board decided to call for the election. The dates and schools:

Thursday, April 23, at the Stratton Meadows School.

Thursday, April 30, at the Chamberlin school.

All meetings are scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

Voting will be in the Stratton Meadows school, with the polls open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The board also:

1. Heard an enthusaistic report from Mrs. Vernon Cheever on the progress of Project School Child.

She reported more than 200 parents had indicated an interest in participating in the program.

2. Accepted the resignation of Mrs. Charlotte Gessner, speech correction instructor, so that she might return to Minnesota with her husband who has completed his military duties.

3. Hired Mrs. Patricia Miller to fill the vacancy of Mrs. Carma Graham, who asked for leave of absence for the balance of this for maternity reasons.

4. Heard a report on the "Helping Hand" group formed by block mothers in the district as a protective measure to help safeguard children walking to and from school.

5. Received a financial report that showed an expenditure of $59,259.60 for February, with a total expenditure so far this school year of $575,588.08, out of a total of $903,916.39 budgeted for the school year.

Glenn Clifford Exchange Student To Holland

Glenn D. Clifford of Rocky Ford, has been elected the exchange student for the 1964-65 academic year from Colorado College here to Nijenrode College in Holland.

Nijenrode College, located 10 miles south of Amsterdam, has an enrollment of more than 250 students. It was founded in 1946

During the same period a student at Nijenrode College will study at Colorado College. Here from Nijenrode this year is Emile Duyster of Brussels.

Clifford, now studying Dutch with Duyster, plans to go to Holland in June. He wants to spend the summer working in Holland and perfecting his Dutch before classes get under way in September.

A center and defensive tackle for the Colorado College varsity football team, Clifford is interested in economics. He hopes to become a college teacher.

He also is interested in literature, linguistics, psychology and politics. He is a member of the campus Young Democrats and is the cartoonist for the college newspaper, the Tiger.

Clifford was garduated from Rocky Ford High School, where he was president of the senior class, in 1962. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Clifford of 711 South Seventh Street in Rocky Ford.

Attempt Made to Open Pop Machine at School

Police reported a burglary at the Stratton School, 2460 Paseo St., in which intruders tried to pry open a pop machine after entering the building thru a window Sunday night.

Damage to the window and the machine came to $27. Glenn Leeman, school custodian, reported the break-in Monday morning.

Service Station Pump Nozzle Lock Broken

Donald A. Dennee of Don's Phillips 66, 1310 E. Fillmore St., reported to the sheriff's office Monday that gas pump nozzle locking apparatus had been broken by someone while the pump was locked.

Damage is estimated at $25.

Teen Choir Will Present Cantata

The Teen Choir of the Southgate Church of the Nazarene will present an Easter cantata at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. The performance will be a "first" for the Nazarene church.

The cantata, "The Victorious Christ," is portrayed in song and story with music by Haldor Lillenas and text by Lora Linn. The teen choir is directed by Ora Burdue and was organized about eight months ago.

Featured in solo and duet parts will be Twyla Burdue, Karen Thanscheidt, Sandra Carter, Maureen Jones, Sharon McElroy, David Bailey, Jr., and Dick Bailey. Narrating will be Lynn Olney, Jr.

As an introduction to the cantata, Miss Twyla Burdue will play an appropriate selection on the flute.

The Rev. David D. Bailey, pastor, extends an invitation to the public to enjoy an evening of music portraying the story of the crucifixion and resurrection of Christ.

Ackerman Gets Special Tribute By Rodeo Board

Wm. Thayer Tutt, president of the Broadmoor Hotel Company and president of the Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo for the past year, has been reelected president of the local rodeo association.

In one of the board of directors' regular meetings held this past weekend, the board paid special tribute to the senior director of the group, J. D. Ackerman, by presenting him with a Spencer Penrose Silver Buckle.

The Penrose Buckle, which is awarded at each rodeo to the champion cowboy who wins the most money in two or more events, has been presented to only two special winners — Cy Taillon after his 20 consecutive years of announcing the Pikes Peak or Bust — and Gilbert Carrell, Chief of the Colorado State Courtesy Patrol which has donated its services to 23 consecutives rodeos.

After the Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo was originated by Spencer Penrose in the Polo Stadium in 1937, the citizens of Colorado Springs offered to come to the rodeo's aide with the support of a booster group called the Community Cowhands.

Ackerman organized this original group and the next year was named to the newly-formed rodeo board, along with Charles L. Tutt, father of today's rodeo president.

Ackerman has served continuously since that time and has been the rodeo's president on three separate occasions. As a director now, he is currently in charge of the production of the rodeo itself, the parade and the American Legion's associated activities.

In addition to Tutt and Ackerman, the four-man board of directors is composed of Harold Heyse and K. G. Freyschlag.

Other officers elected at Saturday's meeting were K. G. Freyschlag, vice president; Leon C. Wilmot, executive vice president, and Harold U. Littrell, secretary-treasurer. Cheddy Thompson, executive director and the general manager of the Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo and its associated events since 1956, was renamed to that position for 1964.

Palmer Lake Mayor Files For Reelection

Mayor Rogers M. McDonough has filed for re-election in next month's elections at Palmer Lake.

He will be opposed by Stanley Johnston, Mrs. Arlene Krueger, town clerk, said. She said Johnston has also filed a petition for the election.

Running for Town Trustees will be Jim Britt, Craig Burns, Dr. M. Scott Carpenter, John Edgett, Dale Hiatt, Wayne Fisher, Orville Krueger, Mrs. Alta Kendrick and Bert Tatman.

The election will be held April 7. All residents of Palmer Lake who have not voted in a town election must register with the Town Clerk for April's elections.

Wards Grand Opening Scheduled Wednesday

Grand opening of the new Montgomery Ward store at 2420 E. Pikes Peak Ave. will be held at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, according to Coyle A. Davis, store manager.

S. A. McKnight, vice president and regional manager of Montgomery Ward, and other company executives arrived by plane Monday night to attend the opening ceremonies.

The local store is one of three being opened by Montgomery Ward. The other two are in Poplar Bluffs, Mo., and Cheyenne, Wyo.

McKnight was accompanied to Colorado Springs by his wife and by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Langknecht who were instrumental in the development of the Cheyenne store for Montgomery Ward.

Also making the trip to Colorado Springs were J. B. Johnson, regional merchandising manager; and Joe Tiernan, E. M. Goode, Joe Boula, all of the regional office which is located at Kansas City.

McKnight said Monday night that he was "highly optimistic" about the future of Montgomery Ward in Colorado Springs.

"There is only one way we can go in this area," he said, "and that's up." He said Montgomery Ward had been keeping a close watch on the local market for quite some time. "We are happy," McKnight said, "that we have finally reached the point where we are able to come in here with a new retail outlet."

The vice president said the move into Colorado Springs had been delayed by commitments for stores in other cities thruout the country.

He complimented the entire community and the Gazette Telegraph for the support and cooperation Montgomery Ward has received since the announcement was first made that the store would be built here. He said he had received only good reports from local store personnel about the community.

McKnight, Davis, and other company executives will be present Wednesday morning for the ribbon cutting which will open the new store. Also invited are local civic, business and government leaders who will participate in the grand opening ceremonies.

Store doors will be open to the public at 10 a.m. and the store will remain open until 9 p.m.

Hours will be from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily until Easter.

Wards Store Has 110,000 Feet Of Floor Space

Colorado Springs' newest retail outlet department store, Montgomery-Ward, 2420 E. Pikes Peak Ave., was built at a cost of $1-million and has 110,000 square feet of floor space. The structure was built by [illegible] ald A. Phipps, general contractor.

The store, offering 130,000 catalog items, and accommodating 600 car parking, is under the managership of Coyle A. Davis, who has been associated with Wards for the past 15 years.

Some features of the modern facility includes:

Full-line maintenance and repair on all Ward's merchandise, provided thru a large repair service department.

Another facility is the customer accommodation center — cashier, credit, will-call, gift wrapping and appliance repairs — all in one location.

A telephone service for the shopper who can't make it to the store, will also be in operation. Home delivery service will be available to the in-store, as well as the at-home shopper.

A 12-car capacity auto service shop is conveniently located next to the Pikes Peak Avenue entrance to the store.

Ward's doors will open to shoppers at 10 a.m. Wednesday, with Grand Opening ceremonies scheduled for 9:30 a.m.

Defendants Have Trial Dates Vacated Monday

Two defendants had their trial dates vacated in District Court Monday at the request of attorney Dave Morris and the cases were continued until term day, July 14.

The first, Leroy Franklin Matz also known as Frank Marks, was originally charged with confidence game, but on Monday Deputy District Attorney Dick Webster amended the information to a charge of forgery.

Matz, 41, 912 N. Hancock Ave., is alleged to have issued a $225 forged check with intent to defraud the Central Colorado Bank. He pleaded innocent to the confidence game charge Jan. 14 and was scheduled for trial March 24.

The defendant will be arraigned and have trial date set July 14.

Larry Wane Newlander, 21, of Ft. Carson, had his March 31 trial date vacated and the matter continued to July 14.

Newlander is accused of attempting to commit aggravated robbery. According to the information he attacked Ray Haas, Nov. 11 with intent to rob his victim of a quantity of money. Webster amended the information to "make the charge more specific."

The judge was David W. Enoch.

WARD'S EXECUTIVE—S. A. McKnight, right, vice president and regional manager of Montgomery Ward, arrived by company plane Monday at 6:30 p.m. for the grand opening Wednesday of the new Ward's retail store in Colorado Springs. McKnight was accompanied by Mrs. McKnight, who is at his side, and by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Langknecht who joined the Ward's executives at Kansas City enroute from Poplar Bluffs, Mo. High Hilarity Provided In Civic Players Comedy

By JOHN FETLER

Members of the Civic Players are guaranteed another week of high hilarity, as they attend the production of "The Girls in 509," directed by Orvis Grout, a sparkling comedy with a few unexpected surprises thrown in extra.

With a 12-person cast, the story of the "Girls in 509" of the hotel is unreeled with some of the old-time Civic Players favorites, and with some fine new talent. Mary Cameron gives a beautifully appropriate rendition as the shy Mimsy, and Florence Jowdy characterizes old Aunt Hettie with the vigor and aristocratic aggressiveness which sets the mood for the entire play.

Then there is "Old Jim," the elevator operator-bellboy and man of the hotel, played with remarkable characterization by Thomas Fischer, thus providing, with the two women, a trio of character parts that immediately set the tone — with all the others being intrusions from the outer world.

And the intrusions from the outer world into the zebra-trap trapped situation provide the high relief of comedy for every scene with gusto and laughter.

First there appears a snooping photographer, played by Thomas J. Smith; then a certain Professor Pusey, whose low-key characterization is an excellent complement to that of Aunt Hettie, as well as to Mimsy, setting the trap for romance, even tho the story, of course, is as unbelievable as any fiction should properly be.

A most efficient, and trim social worker is Miss Freud, who next appears on the scene, played by Kay Eberhardt; then appears a politician, Allen, ostensibly a Republican national chairman, played with the proper aplomb by William Benton; followed by a milling crowd of reporters: Summers of the Herald Tribune, played by Russ Mickelson; Johnson of the Daily Mirror played by William J. Hensen; Rosenthal of the Post, played by Vincent Palmieri; and then the equally imposing (in comparison to the Republican) national Democratic chairman Nella, played impressively by Jerry Bills.

Last in order of appearance, but giving the characterization extra depth during the latter portions of the play is the attorney McKittridge, played with gusto and professional talent by Joe Carroll; in an important role, moreover, for around the attorney revolves the question whether the two girls in room 509 of the decrepit hotel are really poor as church mice or rich as General Motors.

The general construction of the direction seems to be that of building to the great climax at the end, but with an ending at which even a zebra would be surprised. There is every indication that all the characters will live happily ever after, more or less, and the audience is left in a mood of thoro satisfaction of humor.

Perhaps because of the "strong" political overtones, it seemed necessary for the program to state the 'Girls in 509' is a comedy for Republicans, Democrats, Independents — in fact, for any voter who wants to laugh!" Which may be a proper warning in an election year, since the action is played out in the sitting room of a suite, and in the hallways of a not-now fashionable hotel in New York City "in the present." For the atmosphere, of scenic design the credit goes to Bishop Nash, with his assistants; and for lighting to Tom Smith and Wayne Roper.

Local Students Rated Tops in Spelling Contest

Guy Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thomas of Route 1, Box 131, and Nancy Rider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rider of 2101 Eagle View Drive were rated as top spellers Dunday, in the Denver Archdiocesan Spelling Contest held at All Souls School, Englewood.

These contestants from Divine Redeemer School are now eligible to compete in the Denver-Cheyenne-Pueblo Diocesan Contest and the Rocky Mountain News Contest to be held in Denver April 5 and 11 respectively.

David Pettinari, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pettinari of 821 North Hancock won first place in the junior division.

Every school in the Archdiocese was permitted to enter only four participants in each division-junior and senior. Divine Redeemer won the distinction of having all 8 contestants spell in the finals.

Rita Thomas, sister of Guy, was one of the three students to score 100 per cent on the written test used as a preliminary for the oral contest in which 25 competed from each division.

Cub Scouts Guests Of McDonald Drive-In

Six cub scouts of Den 4, Pack 9, Whittier School, were guests of McDonald's Drive-In when they toured the establishment recently.

The boys were shown how the food was stored, prepared and served to the public.

Opening lead: Ace of ♣ West literally beguiled South out of his birthright in today's hand. The latter is not entitled to our sympathy, however, since he had available a ready means for exposing his opponent's deception.

In the hope of obtaining a ruff, West chose to open the ace of clubs against the final contract and, seeing no good reason for shifting, he continued the suit. South won with the jack, and started to draw trumps by leading the king of spades. West was in with the ace, and he paused to assess his prospects.

East could be counted on for, at most, one trick—the king of hearts, if, indeed, he held that card. It was obvious that no further tricks were available in the black suits and since king of diamonds was readily finessable, it appeared that the defense was near the end of its rope. Declarer might not realize how close he was to success, however, and on this desperate note West evolved his plan.

He shifted to the jack of diamonds, knowing that this would give South something to think about. The latter saw at once that, if he took the finesse and it lost, East might well be in position to give his partner a club ruff for the setting trick. South accordingly put up the ace of diamonds and proceeded to draw the rest of the trumps.

By this time, declarer had mentally allotted the king of diamonds to East and, since he felt certain that West had the king of hearts for his overcall in that suit, he proceeded to take the heart finesse. His surprise when East won the trick was surpassed moments later when West showed up with the king of diamonds to defeat the contract.

Our quarrel with the declarer does not concern his refusal to take the diamond finesse, for going up with the ace was the proper play. What he failed to do was to lead diamonds subsequently before trying the heart finesse. If, by some chance, West does have the king of diamonds, then North's queen can be established for a discard, thus relieving the declarer of the necessity of taking a heart finesse. The latter play can always be held in reserve should East turn up with the diamond king. It will be observed that the same play is available if West shifts to a heart at trick four. Since the threat of a club ruff is impending, declarer should play the ace from dummy and pull trump. Thereafter, he can play up to the queen of hearts in dummy with the object of establishing a discard for his losing diamond. When East turns up with the king of hearts, declarer has no recourse but to take the winning diamond finesse.

Movie Director John Ford Is Given Honors

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — John Ford, who has made more movie classics than any other director, made one of his rare public appearances this week and received the homage that is due to him.

He showed up at UCLA for a program in the extension division's series of tributes to American directors. He turned out to be warm, human and lovable, in contrast to his reputation as an irascible bear.

His arrival caused university and Directors Guild officials to sigh with relief. Ford seldom showed up to collect his own Oscars—"The Informer," 1935; "Grapes of Wrath," 1940; "How Green Was My Valley," 1941; "The Quiet Man," 1952.

Ford seemed delighted with all the attention, watched with interest clips from films like "The Informer"—not one of his favorites—"They Were Expendable" and "My Darling Clementine."

Only at his introduction did he seem his peppery self. When described as having been everything in the film industry including actor, he shouted, "I deny it."

Later, however, he wouldn't go along with Alfred Hitchcock's jest that "actors are cattle."

Said Ford: "I would never say that actors are cattle. A good many of them are real pros. I have never run into any temperament in 45 years of directing."

If members of the Ford stock company had been present they might have added they wouldn't dare show temper around the old man.

Ford was asked what message his films carry. He turned to director George Sidney and asked "What was it Sam Goldwyn said about messages?"

Sidney supplied the answer: "Let Western Union carry them."

Ford added: "I am of the proletariat. My people were peasants. They came to this country (from Ireland), and I belive they served it well. I am basically apolitical. I don't believe in messages. If you put one in a picture, nobody will want to see it."

He confirmed a legend which demonstrates his disregard for scripts and for the meddling of executives. He said that the son of a very rich man came down to his set one day and complained that the picture was four days behind schedule. Ford tore out a handful of script pages and gave them to the young man.

"Here," he said. "Now I'm three days ahead."

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

For those emergency ironing jobs of clothes that should have been sprinkled but somehow were not—iron them "dry" to remove the worst of the wrinkles.

Then wet a small terrycloth towel or wash cloth (not dripping wet) and rub gently over each area just before ironing it for the second time.

A bonus to this method is that the piece of clothing ironed dries much more rapidly than if it had been sprinkled and is therefore ready for wear almost immediately. —Sandra Maenz

Dear Heloise:

I learned how to keep my waffle iron from sticking. Clean it any way you prefer then make up your favorite waffle recipe. Remove just enough of this batter to fill the waffle iron once.

Add three or four tablespoons of "unsalted" fat to this small amount of dough you have removed from the bowl. This is only enough to make one waffle. Fill the waffle iron and let it brown — real brown." This waffle will not be eaten, of course. It should be discarded.

I don't think anyone will have sticking waffles again. The unsalted fat in the extra batter seasons the iron. The dough will hold it together and keep it from burning in spots. At least, mine never sticks any more. —Mrs. A. Campbell

Letter of Laughter

Is there a reason for bakeries packing eight buns per package, while meat companies pack ten weiners per package? If not, what can be done? What's a hot dog on plain bread? —B.F.

You're so right! —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

If you like to bake, as I do, but hate the mess of cleaning up all the bowls, utensils, spoons, etc., then do this:

When you have finished with the largest mixing bowl, put it in the sink, pour in a little detergent, plenty of hot water.

Then add the small bowls, utensils, spoons and let soak.

While you are waiting for your cookies or bread to bake, you can do up these things in a hurry without getting out the dishpan or loading up your sink. Makes for a quick, clean kitchen. —Mickey

Dear Heloise:

I hope this will help many frustrated housewives.

I have a four-piece sectional sofa. Around the arm rests, the material on the cording had worn thin . . . in fact the cord showed through. (Doesn't this always wear out first?)

This was such an eyesore that it broke my heart. I finally decided to invest in one dollar's worth of yarn. I covered this worn cording by stitching around and around and around until it was completely covered.

This takes perhaps a day's work, but you can do it at your convenience and it is worth every minute of the time. This may be done in either a contrasting or matching color.

As my yard was a contrasting color, I bought some corduroy to match it. I made sofa pillows from this for the huge sofa and it's beautiful. —Evelyn Wambolt

Dear Evelyn:

I think you're real tricky.

Once, I took a razor blade and slit open the cord binding and then removed the cord.

After removing the cord, I used a heavy thread and made a lock-type stitch such as is ordinarily used on buttonholes. This took much less thread, the work went faster and it made a beautiful matching binding.

Dear Heloise:

When I pour a can of coffee into the canister, I wrap some paper towels around the can of coffee and let it extend just past the top of the can.

Invert the can and the paper towel will act as a funnel! Presto, no spilt coffee. —Martha Poleo

Atlantic Alliance Breakdown Is Blasted by Nixon

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon says a breakdown in the Atlantic alliance is the underlying cause behind what he called U.S. foreign policy failures.

Nixon, who lost the presidency to the late John F. Kennedy in 1960, said Monday President Lyndon B. Johnson lacks the understanding of foreign affairs possessed by Presidents Kennedy and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Nixon, vacationing here, answered questions posed by Miami Herald newsmen. Herald publisher John S. Knight sat in on the interview.

Nixon predicted foreign policy would be the main issue in the 1964 presidential campaign. He reiterated that he is not a candidate for the nomination, but would run if the Republican National Convention names him.

The former vice president said the Atlantic alliance "can be rebuilt" only by a determined effort by the United States to restore close working relationships with Britain, France and other Western European nations.

Nixon also said "we must show we will accept leadership in isolating Cuba" and added: "President Kennedy said after the Bay of Pigs invasion that U.S. policy was and would continue to be getting rid of Castro."

That policy, Nixon said, has been relegated to the background.

Soviet Union Agrees To Give Cuba Credit

HAVANA (AP) — The Soviet Union signed an agreement Monday to give Cuba a $15.5 - million credit in 1964 and 1965 for equipment and spare parts to be used for irrigation and draining programs in Oriente Province.

The Russians also will supply technical assistance, including Soviet technicians.

New Question in Cyprus Dispute

By THOMAS A. REEDY

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—There's a new character in embattled Cyprus and his name is "terms of reference."

As a United Nations peace force assembles to keep Greek and Turkish Cypriots from killing each other, senior officers say they will be bound by their "terms of reference." But no one is prepared to say what those terms will be.

Terms of reference are in fact orders. Specific orders to United Nations commanders are up in the air.

Questions being asked are:

1. Are the Greek Cypriots who control the government of Cyprus and the Turkish Cypriots who are boycotting the government both to be disarmed?

2. Are the United Nations forces, including at present Britons and Canadians and eventually Irish and Swedes, to be the only armed police force on the island?

3. What is to be the status of the small Greek and Turkish army garrisons on Cyprus?

4. Where does United Nations authority start and where does the authority of President Makarios' government end?

Such pointed questions all come under "terms of reference." No one seems to know what boundaries have been defined, if in fact any have been.

The Security Council told the peace force to end the fighting and keep Cyprus quiet while a U.N. mediator tries to work out a political settlement.

British Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys said Monday U.N. Secretary-General U Thant is holding talks to set up "clear and effective terms of reference." Sandys said he feels that the peace force "cannot come into being and cannot begin to operate until its terms of reference are settled."

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

WORK WEEK: The U.S. Chamber of Commerce has rejected as unworkable a demand by organized labor for a 35-hour week to spread jobs and reduce unemployment.

"Unless labor is immune to economic law, a shorter work week with higher pay would tend to create unemployment," the chamber said Saturday in a new publication, "Economics of the Shorter Work Week."

The report by the Chamber's Economic Policy Committee contended that cutting the work week would boost production costs by from 14 to 29 per cent, increase prices and reduce consumption.

AFL-CIO President George Meany has set the 35-hour week as the major goal of his federation.

BYRD: Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., a veteran of 31 years in the Senate, says he'll seek a new six-year term in November.

Byrd, 77, chairman of the powerful Senate Finance Committee, had indicated six years ago that his current term would be his last.

In his announcement Saturday he said "this has been a difficult decision for me to make." He said he had been "influenced by numerous requests from all parts of the state that I run again for the office to which the people of Virginia have so generously elected me on six previous occasions."

HIDDEN MILLIONS: Two Republican senators have charged that defense and space officials may be secretly spending millions of dollars without knowledge of congress and taxpayers.

Sens. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Gordon Allot of Colorado, appearing Sunday on a program taped for Pennsylvania radio stations, cited as evidence President Johnson's recent announcement that the 2,000-mile-an-hour A11 aircraft had been developed secretly.

"It was indeed a shock to me," said Allott, a member of the Appropriations Committee. He said he had learned that only four of the committee's 27 members knew about the project.

Scott said Congress was treated like "a little boy you feel something isn't good for him to have."

New Counter For TV Sets, Shows, Shown

By RALPH DIGHTON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Discovery of a new way of counting how many sets are turned to what television shows could revolutionize the controversial program-rating industry.

Its inventors say the system, which involves trucks with revolving circular antennas that pick up signals from each home set, will make obsolete rating methods using telephone interviews, diaries kept by preselected viewers and recorders attached to sets.

James L. Tanner, who with his brother Thomas and his father Charles operates a small electronics company in suburban Wilmington, says negotiations are under way to sell the survey system to a program rating company.

Current rating systems, frequently the deciding factor in whether a show stays on the air, have been criticized because they are based on samplings from a few hnudred so-called representative homes.

Tanner says his system can sample thousands and that no viewer will know he is being sampled.

He figures the cost will run $10,000 to $15,000 per truck, depending on the number of trucks purchased.

One of the few outsiders who has seen the device, Frank Champion of ABC Television's transmission engineering department, says "I haven't felt so strongly about anything since the advent of video-tape. There is no question about it working —it is very accurate.

"It should have a profound effect on the industry, and it should revolutionize the rating system."

The device works on the principle that each home television set is in a sense a transmitter as well as a receiver. The signal the set picks up from the broadcasting station is converted into a beam of electrons that activate the srceen in the tube.

The make-up of this beam differs according to the program.

The revolving antenna on the truck is so sensitive that it can pick up scattered signals from the beam of electrons at a distance of 100 feet or more, Tanner says.

By electronically comparing signals given off by the set with signals transmitted from the station the device instantly identifies the channel to which the set is tuned.

Television sets in an apartment house are just as easy for the device, called a comparator, to read as one set in a residence, Tanner says, because it makes its identification in seconds.

Tanner said one truck can count 106 sets a minute cruising at 15 miles an hour. Fifty trucks, he said, can survey 160,000 sets in 30 mintues.

"It should end all controversy about program ratings and enable the television industry to determine exactly what the majority of viewers like," he said.

Sen. Byrd to Seek Reelection to Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., announced Saturday he will seek re-election in November.

Byrd, a veteran of 31 years in the Senate, had indicated six years ago that his current term probably would be his last.

Byrd, an avowed conservative, is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. He will be 77 June 10.

U. S. Pre-Eminence in Space Will Be Sought

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has a charter from Congress calling for establishment of U.S. pre-eminence in space.

To reach this goal, NASA will have the spending of something between $35 and $50 billion in the decade 1960-70.

Whether the space agency is exercising wisdom and foresight in the spending of such vast sums is a matter of considerable debate in and out of Congress.

The experiences to date—plus congressional reaction to them —undoubtedly will influence the scope and direction the space programs take in 1964 and thereafter.

A tendency to give NASA less than it asks has already appeared. Congress cut the agency's budget request for fiscal 1964 by $600 million to $5.1 billion.

Since the space agency was formed in 1958 out of the old National Advisory Committee for Astronautics, its impressive scientific achievements and plans have been widely reported.

Relatively little has been told about how NASA spends its money and whether the agency receives a dollar's worth of goods and services for each dollar spent.

The House Committee on Science and Astronautics has assembled figures which show that between July 1, 1961, and March 31, 1963, NASA awarded 68 contracts involving more than $5 million each.

During that period 40 of these contracts were renegotiated and the amount of work to be done for NASA was expanded about $900 million.

In awarding the initial contracts NASA says it fully realized that the work would have to be expanded and the original contracts were just to finance a start.

There were "cost overruns" on 19 of the contracts and they added about $200 million to the bill.

A "cost overrun" involves expenses beyond the initial estimate by the contractors. All NASA's major contracts are on a cost plus fixed fee basis.

A classic example of what can happen when costs exceed estimates and when NASA changes its mind on engineering requirements is the NASA contract with McDonnell Aircraft Corp., of St. Louis for the production of Project Mercury space capsules.

The initial $19.5 million contract called for production of six space capsules of a single design.

Ultimately NASA decided it needed 20 capsules and they should be progressively modified to improve design after each launch and on the basis of new information.

This additional work came to $70 million and cost overruns came to $50 million.

The Western Electric Co., signed a $33-million contract to provide the Project Mercury tracking and ground instrumentation systems.

NASA asked for additional work amounting to $20.7 million. The cost overruns came to $15.2 million.

In discussing contract procedures generally before the Senate Space Committee, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo. said: "as everybody knows some of these companies have deliberately quoted tens if not hundreds of millions below cost in order to get contracts, knowing that after they do that, and once they have the contract, there will probably be a minimum of 10,000 engineering changes."

NEW COAL USES

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — New technology within the past decade has contributed to development of processes to convert coal into other fuel products, the American Institute of Chemical Engineers was told at a recent meeting.

"If the costs could be reduced by utilizing advanced process technology, there is no reason why the conversion of coal to liquid fuels could not become feasible economically, assuming that the 'spread' in value between liquid fuels and coal continues to be as satisfactory as it is presently," said a paper presented by S. B. Albert, E. S. Johnson and S. C. Schuman, of Hydrocarbons Research, Inc., Trenton, N.J.

Indonesia Summons Youth for Army

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)— President Sukarno answered Malaysia's conscription order today with an appeal for Indonesian youth to volunteer for military training.

Sukarno told a conference of provincial, military and civil officials this was his answer to Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman's ordering of conscription March 10 and "his refusal to negotiate with me at the summit."

Rahman has refused to agree to a summit meeting with Sukarno and Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal until Sukarno withdraws guerrillas from Malaysian North Borneo.

Sukarno has about 350,000 men under arms. Malaysia is defended by an army of 15,000 and about 10,000 British troops.

ENGINEERS WANTED

NEW YORK (UPI) — An increased demand for young engineers as result of increased production and higher metals prices in the minerals industry is predicted by Dr. Sanford S. Cole, president of the Society of Mining Engineers.

"The mineral industry, one of the four basic industries by which wealth is created, requires engineers with training in several disciplines," Cole told a recent meeting of the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical and Petroleum Engineers. "As a result, the current shortage of engineering students and graduates is a matter of grave concern to the Society of Mining Engineers.

COLORADO SPRINGS
GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

A Matter of Vision

"Where there is no vision, the people perish."

That motto has been emblazoned on scores of court houses, libraries and other government buildings across the land. What does it mean?

It points to one of the unique facets of human - experience. Man is a product of his own ideas. When man has vision, he looks ahead and plans his life as a conscious, self-responsible individual. When his vision leaves him, he becomes indifferent, apathetic, listless. He can make no plans, let alone great plans.

Ordinarily, men and the vision of what they can be, are inseparable. But when government gains an upper hand over the affairs of men, it substitutes its own plans and its own programs for individuals' desires. When this occurs, the vision of individual men is dimmed and finally eclipsed. It isn't that their vision has just died a natural death. Rather, it is that their vision has been taken out and forcefully exterminated by the enervating influence of an all-powerful state.

Shall we recite a few instances where vision has been forcefully taken away from us?

Consider the plight of virtually every young man as he reaches toward maturity. Certainly, he has visions. He dreams of the girl he will make his wife; of the family he will raise, of the vine-covered cottage in which he will live. He dreams of the jobs he will do; the things he will create; the places he will travel and the friends he will have.

But he cannot move forward to make his vision materialize, for the draft board stands squarely in his way. He is compelled to spend two or more years of his life in involuntary servitude. To those in later life, two years may not seem like a great period of time. But to the neo-adult, two years is an eternity. His plans are thwarted. He MUST obey and stifle his own visions and his own chance to fruitfully fulfill his objectives.

But, let us suppose that he passes thru this period as, indeed, most do. Then what? He would like to go into business for himself. This takes vision and resourcefulness.

But again government bars his way. He may not simply select a business of his own choosing and devote himself to it. Instead, he must first be licensed. And once licensed he will be regulated as to what he may do and what he may not do. Innovations he might have glimpsed in his visualizing of his future are barred to him. He must follow a set of standards woefully inadequate, refrain from over-pricing or under-pricing his products. He must kowtow to labor bosses who create nothing but trouble for him.

But suppose he is unusually resourceful and, in spite of obstacles, braves the lone path of the business entrepreneur. Will he be permitted to earn money commensurate to his ability? No, he will not. Even tho he may long to be a rich man and to provide for himself and his family in exemplary fashion, the more he earns, the more he will be harassed and plundered.

After these countless rebuffs, where is his vision? Is he not apt to content himself with half a loaf rather than no bread? Is he not likely to succumb with the words, "You can't buck the system," on his lips? Indeed, it is true that where there is no vision, the people perish.

It is not that the people die a physical death. They die a moral and a spiritual death. They get to the place where the only thing open to them is self-indulgence, pleasure and the gratification of their senses, since these things are always available.

A great people have great vision. A miserly people have a miserly vision. But an overly governed people have no vision at all. They become automatons in a super-state. And so thoroughly have they become convinced of the all-knowingness and all-rightfulness of their state that they lose the ability even to imagine what life could be like if they were still free.

'Fair' Tax

A truly equitable tax has never been devised. Were it truly equitable it would not be a tax, but a voluntary payment for goods or services rendered.

Knowing What to Read

Is knowing what to read important?

There are many means of gaining information. The best possible means, of course, is to talk with someone who has convictions and who can answer questions about these convictions without evasion or contradiction. This, however, takes time and, therefore, is very limited.

This ability to stimulate other people to want to understand what liberty is, and how to promote peace, is greatly increased by putting things in print. The question then is: what to read? There is so much to read and much of it will not enlighten the individual.

If one only reads what he agrees with, he has little chance to correct his errors.

If it is a book, and if the premise is wrong and you can't find any informed person who has convictions and will answer questions, it is really a waste of time to read such a book. About the same thing is the case with magazines. They invariably will not answer questions.

The big advantage of a local newspaper, that will answer questions about what it is advocating, publicly or privately, is that this makes one of the best methods of stimulating the individual to want to learn.

Every person should try to learn two things. One is his own particular work in which he will make a living. The other is to try to understand what liberty is and how impossible it is to have peace without liberty, or liberty without peace.

A newspaper, however, that is worth its salt as far as economics is concerned will answer questions on anything it advocates, or will permit its readers to ask questions about anything which puzzles them that the newspaper is advocating.

Some newspapers, very few, will publish all questions that pertain to what will promote the well being of mankind on this earth. Too many discard embarrassing questions. They do this because they are advocating some forms of collectivism to please their readers. They would not be able to rationally answer all the readers' questions.

A paper that does not make its convictions known is a poor paper to depend on for enlightenment. Everyone needs more enlightenment, because what you are is what you believe.

The Gazette Telegraph will not sidestep questions that might be embarrassing, if the questions are limited to what will improve the well being of mankind. Your name need not be signed to questions submitted to the Question Box. Most any newspaper can answer questions if it selects only those that it wants to answer. The test is, whether it will answer all the questions asked without even requiring the questioner to sign his name.

We can think of nothing that would stimulate more the development of the Pikes Peak area than to have more and more people take an interest in better understanding liberty and peace. With liberty and peace, morality and prosperity will automatically follow.

Lesson in Sociology

From National Observer

Ordinarily, pupils don't go around hitting their teachers. But the situation in New York City plainly isn't ordinary; the president of the United Federation of Teachers (UFT) disclosed last week that there is an average of one attack a day by pupils against their instructors in the city's public schools.

That this is possible and tolerated is incredible — incredible, that is, unless one is to swallow whole some of the more extreme versions of the sociological dogma that "problem" children in "overcrowded" schools can do no real wrong.

New York, it might be noted, has come close to doing so. Some educational authorities there have protested loud and long. But the prevailing view, in recent years, became one that schools are less for educational purposes than for sociological ones. All sorts of plans for "leveling" the population were propounded and some accepted. Plans for integrating the schools are more sociological than educational.

Despite efforts of many conscientious teachers in the city's schools, discipline has often crumbled. Where parents can scrape together the money, they have abandoned the public schools for private and religious institutions. They have not cared to subject their children to the hazards — physical if not psychological — of association with an undisciplined minority of children that the authorities will not control.

As Charles Cogen, the UFT president, said last week of the assaults on teachers, "In many cases incidents are not reported, the teachers are intimidated, and the principals are likewise discouraged from making reports." As one 59-year-old woman teacher, attacked for the second time in recent months, said last week of one of her attackers: ". . .all that would happen (when she complained about the teen-ager) would be that she would talk to a guidance counselor or a grade adviser and then return to class."

It is always easy for outsiders to criticize events in a strange city. Certainly there are many decent people in New York City, who are sorely offended by such events. But New York holds itself up as the intellectual capital of the nation.

So it is hard to understand how a climate can arise where such things go unpunished, where children are permitted to adopt the habits of criminals amid such self-righteous official complacency.

I Don't Beat My Wife

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

Every so often a number of readers of this column seem to get the same idea at the same time and no matter how hard I try to avoid a situation, they back me into a corner. The answer to the double - edged question, when did you stop beating your wife? is simple. I don't and never have made a practice of beating my wife. Unfortunately, there was a time when I had the mistaken idea that something could be accomplished by political action and this makes me vulnerable when several readers ask the same kind of question — all six or seven of them. Separating all the words and adding them together makes the question look like this: Do you mean to say that you would refuse to shake hands with the president of this country or any of our great elected senators or congressmen? Don't you mean you wish they would seek you out and improve your status by talking with you, and I wonder what Mr. G. or even Mr. Johnson would need to do to shake your disdain for our great statesmen and dedicated political representatives of the people?

In the first place, letter writers who back me into a corner in this manner make any number of inferences with which I do not agree. In the second place, I have no resepct for politicians whether they are winners or losers. In the final analysis, if I ever sell my vote or my support it will be for $50,000 or more, and if I do that I will never again mention such words as freedom, responsibility or respectability because I will have completely discarded my right to use those words in connection with the principles in which I believe.

The matter of shaking hands with people has been a matter of interest to me for many years. The act implies respect and trust in the person with whom you shake hands. Your right hand has no weapon and decent people do not shake hands using their right hand, while holding a knife or gun in their left hand. During the more than 30 years I lived in Hollywood, I managed to get out of the habits which included careless and unthinking handshaking.

Now, politicians, including public office holders, want certain things. They want support at the polls and support for their campaigns. They want a share of my earnings and intend to get as great a share as possible and they want my obedience, my supine, unresisting obedience to the laws they make to control my life.

Under no circumstance can my association with any politician or public office holder improve my status as a responsible person. Shall I try to keep him in his place as a public servant by pretending a servant is an equal? Sure, he was born with the equal opportunity to earn a living and be a responsible person but some place along the line, he decided he could pretend to be my servant, while taking my money and trying to run my life.

To tell you the truth, if I see an acquaintance talking with a public office holder, shaking hands, smiling, appearing to be on friendly terms with the politician, I make a careful note of the fact and watch my step the next time I talk with that man, while I try to find out what special favor or privilege caused the apparent friendliness.

Public office holders are among the first to admit that politics is a dirty game and any politician who decides to get out of the dirty game of his own volition, earns my respect.

Gradually, politicians and political parties and political actionists, generally, have discovered what my attitude is to such a degree that I have not been asked to join a committee for some candidate in almost a month. In each case I always ask those who solicit my support to remove my name from their mailing lists and occasionally I make it stick.

Sure, I watch what's going on and chuckle at some of the silly antics and the expensively contrived "images," but that's as far as I'll go and you can depend upon that. I will not become embroiled in arguments about which politician is worse than the other or which socialist will steal less than some other socialist. I will not attempt to influence your vote. Just help yourself to your favorite poison, while I decline.

Good health and good luck to you, in Freedom.

Saint Patrick Rides Again

By RUFUS L. PORTER

Saint Patrick on a summer day
From Ireland drove the snakes away
With prayer and whip and shepherd's rod,
And for success he thanked his God.
The snakes were drowned in Irish Straits,
Saint Peter, at the Pearly Gates,
Welcomed Patrick home at last
And Gabriel blew a tuneful blast.

When Patrick neared the Golden Throne
Jehovah claimed him for his own.
The angels gathered round and cheered,
Saint Patrick stroked his flowing beard,
Said, "I'm in Heaven, that is clear,
I hope there ain't no snakes up here.
But if there are, I will demand
A safe return to Irish land.

I like it here but still, you see,
Ireland's Heaven enough for me."
Because Jehovah loved him well
He gave Saint Patrick leave to dwell
In Heaven near the Throne of Gold
Or leave to travel, we are told,
To Ireland when he felt the need
Upon a famous flying steed.

And ever since then, every spring,
And just as sure as anything,
Saint Patrick does his robes fresh starch
And on the Seventeenth of March
Returns to Ireland once again
To celebrate with Irishmen.
This tale is true as true can be,
My Granther told it oft to me.

It is said that there are only two kinds of people in the world — the Irish and those who'd like to be. This is especially true in America, where nearly everyone claims some Irish ancestry. And for several generations the Irishmen came to our shores in droves. Bog Trotters built the Erie Canal for wages of 50 cents a day. But they didn't stay ditch diggers. They went into politics, became policemen, railroaders, lumberjacks and miners. The population of Cripple Creek and Victor, and other towns in the Gold Camp in the early days, was at least half Irish.

There was a long stretch of years when nearly all policemen everywhere were Irishmen; when nearly all section foremen on all the railroads in America were Irish, as well as the roadmasters, yardmasters, and even the railroad presidents. The Irish certainly did their share in building the West. And at the same time practically all prize-fighting champions were Irish.

What has been termed as the period of Irish rule in America started shortly after the Civil War and lasted well into our time, including the gay nineties. The Irish were in the saddle then and everybody turned out for Saint Patrick's Day celebrations and claimed to be from the "ould sod" or at least not more than one generation removed.

The Irish were the first bosses of political machines in the United States and many of them were top gangsters during prohibition (bad cess to 'em). But they have furnished many of our greatest statesmen and soldiers, also.

And the Irish had their hand in building up the Pikes Peak Region. There were the two Colorado Springs firemen, Jimmy Burns and his brother-in-law Jimmy Doyle who, along with another Irishman, John Harnan, discovered the greatest and richest mine of them all on Battle Mountain above Victor. Their Portland mine, named after their home town in Maine, produced more than $65,000,000 and a good deal of it went to benefit Colorado Springs. Jimmie Burns built the fabulous Burns Theatre (now Chief Theatre) and an equally fabulous mansion on Wood Avenue. And much of Stratton's wealth came from the Portland mine, where he held a third interest.

And many other Irishmen have had a hand in building the region. Today we have Martin J. Murphy passing out his shamrocks every Saint Patrick's Day — and I just counted 73 listings in the phone book under the name of Murphy. And there is a whole raft of other Irish names there as well.

These Days

What's the Use of Our Strength?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

So we have a new secret jet aircraft that can fly two thousand miles an hour at 70,000 feet. But does that make Khrushchev, Mao Tse-tung, Fidel Castro or Sukarno shake in his boots? How could it?

The fact is that the more formidable our armaments become, the more powerless we are. The reason is that we are desperately afraid of our own strength. We are fearful of undertaking even the smallest of military operations lest we "escalate" the skirmish into something which might require the use of a couple of our big sticks. So we continue, as the saying goes, to be nibbled to death by two-bit countries that can hardly offer an airforce of DC-3s to counter our new three - times - the-speed-of-sound plane.

It is a fantasy world in which a military budget of fifty billion dollars a year can't cope with the likes of Zanzibar, North Vietnam, and Cuba. Fidel Castro laughs at our atom armory and our mighty air fleet. What would really cause him to flip would be the news that we had sold some old condemned planes and some sawed - off shotguns to anti-Castroites in Nicaragua, meanwhile granting belligerent rights to a democratic Cuban council situated somewhere in the Caribbean.

NEGLECTED

We live in an age in which all of the old military axioms are neglected. In the old days, a power such as Soviet Russia would think twice before committing some twenty thousand of its trained military men to an island that could be blockaded by a great naval power with bases only a few miles away. But today, islands are all the rage. The Communists have moved in on Cuba and Zanzibar, and are making eyes at Cyprus. And this despite the fact that they control the seas nowhere. The late Admiral Mahan, the great American theoretician of sea power, would turn in his grave if he could know what is going on.

Since the investigating committee of the Organization of American States has authenticated the report that Fidel Castro landed a cargo of submachine guns and automatic rifles in Venezuela in an attempt to disrupt the recent presidential election in that country, there would be perfect reason for the American blockade of Cuba that would dry up all commerce with the island. Maybe such countries as Mexico and Brazil wouldn't commit their ships and airforce to the blockade. But if some of the Latin American countries are willing to follow the lead of Venezuela's Betancourt in promoting a quarantine of Cuba, why should Washington desist? It would not be a matter of unilateral action by the possessor of the biggest armory of atom bombs and the fastest jet plane in the world.

One supposes, however, that we are too fearful of our own strength to lend or lease a bit of it to a small nation like Venezuela. In South Vietnam we have not dared to train a counter-guerrilla force capable of giving the Communists a dose of their own medicine in North Vietnam. We act neither by the old military axioms nor by the new ones. And the mice continue to nibble us to death everywhere around the cold war periphery.

PRIOR CRISIS

Just recently I dipped back into the history of the Cuban crisis of the late eighteen nineties. Even before we became formally embroiled with Spain over the sinking of the batteship "Maine" we recognized the belligerency of the exile government of the Cuban patriot Jose Marti. We permitted him, as a legally justified belligerent, to buy arms, to recruit volunteer troops, and to do other things which Khrushchev always permits his recognized "forces of liberation" to do wherever they are. The Spaniards, knowing that we had the preponderance of naval strength in the Western Hemisphere, did nothing by way of retaliation until we declared war on them.

Why doesn't the Johnson administration brush up on the history of our recognition of Jose Marti? With the help of Venezuela, and the recognition of belligerent rights, the anti-Castro Cubans might still win their own fight without requiring Washington to dust off any of the classic military axioms of Clausewitz.

The American Way

Whom Can We Believe?

By HARRY BROWNE

The report of the United Nations Fact-Finding Mission to South Vietnam has just been released. It reveals that once again the American people have been hoaxed.

Last year, the wire services and TV networks told us how the Diem government was persecuting Buddhists. In fact, the hate-Diem campaign was built so effectively that few people were upset when the CIA-aided revolt ended in Diem's assassination.

Now, however, the U.N. report reveals that most of what we heard thru the press cannot be substantiated. Even the suicide burnings by Buddhist monks were apparently "rigged." Many who burned themselves had been deceived as to actual conditions and expected to die anyway. One intended suicide testified to the U.N. committee that he was given prepared statements to sign and was promised drugs to resist the pain of fire.

EXPECTATIONS

Although the U.N. has not distinguished itself as the source of all truth and wisdom, the current report gains credence because it had been expected to heap further abuse on Diem.

So we can add the Vietnam hoax to the many others we've suffered at the hands of our opinion molders. Remember how Mao Tse-tung was an "agrarian reformer?" Remember Fidel Castro, the "George Washington of Cuba?" Even now, it appears that many of Barry Goldwater's campaign speeches are being deliberately quoted out of context to discredit him.

What does all this mean? Can we believe no one? Are we to distrust the wire services, networks, politicians? To whom can we turn for the truth?

LOOK TO YOURSELF

We must look to ourselves. When we stand on principles that we honestly understand, we do not need to rely upon persons or groups for truth. For the ups and downs, the lefts and rights, of various news items will not concern us nearly so much.

With regard to Vietnam, for example, the Constitution forbids the use of American tax money and American lives to settle a purely foreign war. So what difference does it make whether Diem was a "good guy" or a "bad guy"? If our government were to stick by the Constitution and end all foreign aid, it is doubtful the Communists would have enough strength to attack in Viet - nam or anywhere else. So why wonder who's friend and who's foe?

FUNDAMENTALS

If we believe in freedom and the Constitution, then we should demand that the U.S. government quit trying to be the policeman, Santa Claus and big brother to the whole world.

On the domestic scene, if we compel government obedience to the Constitution — then we'll no longer have to worry about the good or bad intentions of men in office.

Let's sever our reliance on the "news" reports — by sticking to principle.

Whom should we believe? We should believe our own principles, our own convictions that a free society provides the best opportunity and security for all. Working for that freedom should be our number one concern!

Wit and Whimsy

Today's cars are supposed to be mechanically perfect and smooth-running, but it seems there are still a lot of jerks in them.

Man: "I want a pair of stockings."

Sales Clerk: "For your wife, or shall I show you something better?"

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 466: "Is it just as immoral for a small local government to force an individual to pay for something he does not want as it is for the federal government, or one world government to do so?"

Answer: It seems just as wicked for three people to force a fourth person to pay for something he doesn't want as it is for ten million to force a person to pay for something he doesn't want. The size of a crime does not make it a virtue.

It is just as wicked for three people to go together and form a party of three and have two vote to make the third party pay for schooling that he does not think is beneficial to his children as one hundred million to force one million.

It seems strange that people do not see that. But on the other hand it is not so strange because the youth of the land have been grabbed in the local communities year ago and the majority forced the minority to pay for something the majority regarded as schooling or education. Then the local government didn't have enough power so they went to the state, and now they are going still further to the federal government to help determine how their children should be educated.

To do this, whether it is two people forcing a single person is the beginning of tyranny. It spreads out to include larger and larger groups. This has been done so gradually that people do not know the crime of not respecting the individual's right to choose how his life shall be developed so long as he respects the equal right of other individuals to do the same.

So when the schools have had control of the minds of the youth of the land and dulled them and dwarfed their ability to reason, it should be plain that this is confusion and the growth of socialism and collectivism in the United States.

Socialism and communism and collectivism starts in each community and there is where we should concentrate in trying to get local people to realize that true liberty exists to the degree that each and every individual respects the equal rights of every other individual to plan his own life.

LIBERTY

If the true spark of religious and civil liberty be kindled, it will burn. Human agency cannot extinguish it. Like the earth's central fire, it may be smothered for a time, but at some time or other, in some place or other, the volcano will break out and flame up to heaven.

Montgomery Ward Offers Charm Center for Teens

Junior and senior High School counselors were guests of Montgomery Ward at luncheon Saturday in the Pourtales Room of the Broadmoor Hotel.

Hostesses were Mrs. R. E. Carrol, manager of the firm's five fashion departments, and Mrs. Delores Gibson, director of the Wendy Ward Charm Center for teenage girls, which will be incorporated into the many features of the new store that opens here Wednesday.

The eight-weeks Wendy Ward Course available for girls from 13 thru 19, gives intensive training in poise, manners, grooming, fashion and usefulness.

Mrs. Gibson, a former Powers model, talked to the group, illustrating her remarks with colored slides. Three of the students from the Denver Wendy Ward Charm School were among the guests at the luncheon.

Denver Wendy Ward students have served as usherettes at the Denver Civic Theatre, and worked on the Leukemia Telethon. The Denver Wendy Ward Charm Center sponsored the Mrs. America Contest recently.

Mrs. Gibson states that she will be available to talk to school groups and clubs who wish further information.

Each guest was given a beautifully bound volume, completely illustrated, which is the text book for the entire course.

University in Kansas Bans Cigarette Sales

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — The sale of cigarettes was banned Monday on state-operated university and college campuses.

When the rule goes into effect in 30 days there will be no effort to prevent smoking—only the sale. Cigars and pipe tobacco are not affected.

The order applies to the University of Kansas, Kansas State University and colleges at Emporia, Pittsburg and Fort Hays. Wichita University won't become a member of the state system until July 1.

Lady Audrey Elworthy, a native New Zealander who is now wife of the British Royal Air Force Chief of the Air Staff, will be a visitor to Colorado Springs Wednesday.

Educated in New Zealand and possessor of a Bachelor of Arts Degree in English and History from Auckland College, University of New Zealand, Lady Elworthy is well known for her "Bundles for Britain" work during World War II.

At that time she worked closely with Mrs. Edward R. Murrow, wife of the recently resigned director of the United States Information Agency.

As did all British people from every walk of life, Lady Elworthy made many contributions to the all-out war effort of that beleagured Island during World War II.

In addition to her "Bundles for Britain" work, she was employed in various factories involved with the war effort and finally worked in an operational research section for aircraft production.

She married Sir Charles Elworthy in 1936 and they have three sons, the oldest is Timothy, a Flight Lieutenant in the RAF.

Her busy schedule as wife of the Chief of the Air Staff involves many and varied duties. Her interests include welfare and art. When a busy schedule permits she finds time to visit hospitals, schools and art galleries.

Her visit to Colorado Springs will be a highlight of the trip around the U.S. During the afternoon, in the company of Mrs. John K. Gerhart, wife of the NORAD commander, she will visit many of the outstanding scenic beauty spots in the area.

The Rev. and Mrs. Theodore Runyan of New York City recently announced the engagement of their daughter, Suzanne, to William Hamilton Moore III, formerly of Colorado Springs. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Moore of Dallas, and the grandson of Mrs. Lucy Paxton of Colorado Springs.

Mr. Moore holds a bachelor's degree from Southwestern University and a master's and doctor of philosophy degree from Harvard University. He is an instructor at Duke University, Durham, N.C.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The handshake stems from peaceful desires of primitive civilizations, reports Encyclopedia Americana. Men began the custom by extending their hands to show they were not going to use their weapons.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Freeze Her Out!

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor whose husband travels. I have always suspected that she liked my husband, but I didn't pay much attention to it because he never encouraged her. One night, when her husband was out of town, she called here and said she was hearing strange noises, was afraid to stay there alone, and could she run over and use our couch. I said, "Sure, come over." Well, she came over dressed up like she was going to a ball. I fixed coffee and the three of us sat around watching TV. Meanwhile, she didn't take her eyes off my husband. The next morning, when I came into the kitchen to make breakfast, there she sat all made up, wearing a nightgown you could read a newspaper through. I heard my husband coming, so I threw her an overcoat. I said nothing. How should I act toward this neighbor from now on? —WANTS NO ENEMIES

DEAR WANTS: You may not want enemies, but you don't want any friends like your neighbor, either. Avoid her. Should you accidentally meet, be polite, cool, and distant.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and my brother is 13. Our job is doing the supper dishes every night. We have a system. He is supposed to clear off the table and wash, and I wipe, put away and sweep the floor. This is an equal amount of work, isn't it? Well, he always picks a fight about whose job is harder, then my mother gets disgusted and chases us both out of the kitchen and she ends up doing it herself. My brother just runs off and watches television, while I sit around feeling guilty. Can you solve my problem? —GUILTY GIRL

DEAR GUILTY: If your brother thinks YOUR job is easier than his, and YOU think the work is "equal," switch jobs with him. And if he must complain, tell him to keep his voice down. Kids have been ducking work that way for years because they know that mothers would rather do it themselves than referee a fight.

DEAR ABBY: Our single, 32-year-old son has threatened to leave his father and me and get his own apartment. He claims he wants to "live his own life." Nobody is living his life for him while he is making his home with us. I tell him he should live at home until he gets married. He says he will never get married if he stays here with us. What kind of thinking is that? —A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I think it's sound. He should quit threatening and move.

CATHOLIC EXHIBIT

NEW YORK (UPI) — The story of Catholic education in America will be told in a 300 square foot display in the Hall of Education at the New York 1964-65 World's Fair, according to Archbishop John P. Cody, New Orleans, President-General of the National Catholic Educational Association, the sponsoring agency.

Color slides and a taped narrative will portray the purpose of Catholic education and what Catholic schools are doing in contemporary American education, Archbishop Cody said.

Dust Storm Strikes At Travel on Highway

SELIGMAN, Ariz. (AP)—Travel on busy U.S. 66 was halted for five hours Monday by a dust storm that reduced visibility to zero and caused three accidents involving 15 vehicles.

Nine people were hospitalized in Williams, Ariz.

The Arizona Highway Patrol closed a stretch of the highway between 10:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. because it was impossible for drivers to see the hood ornaments of their own cars.

AIKEN COLLECTION—These birds — four Passenger Pigeons and one Arkansas Flycatcher—are among 5,000 specimens in the Charles E. H. Aiken Bird Collection, which was transferred from Colorado College to the University of Colorado Museum. The now-extinct pigeons were obtained in 1886 in Chicago, and the flycatcher came from along the Platte River in 1864.

CC Sends Study Collection to Colorado U

Colorado College has transferred two historical study collections of birds and mammals to the University of Colorado Museum.

They are the Charles E. H. Aiken Bird Collection, containing about 5,000 specimens, and the Edward R. Warren Mammal Collection, which has about 3,500 specimens.

Both collections are well known to American naturalists, according to Dr. Hugo Rodeck, CU Museum director, and each was created and built by a famous Colorado Springs wildlife expert.

Colorado College has owned the collections since their beginnings. Dr. Fritz Kramer, director of the Colorado College Museum, said the collections are being deposited in the CU Museum because the museum at the independent liberal arts college is being reorganized, and he felt they could be more effectively administered at CU.

Aiken, who came to the Colorado Springs area in 1871 from Chicago, was a commercial taxidermist. In 1906 William Palmer gave Colorado College the money to purchase Aiken's collection, which was catalogued and labeled by William L. Sclatter, author of "A History of the Birds of Colorado."

Aiken's publications, all published by Colorado College, include "Birds of the Southwest" and a two-part work, "The Birds of El Paso County." The latter he wrote in collaboration with Warren, creator of the mammal collection.

Among the specimens in the collection are four now-extinct Passenger Pigeons, obtained in 1886 in Chicago, and an Arkansas Flycatcher, obtained in 1864 somewhere along the Platte River in what was then Nebraska Territory.

Warren, a longtime member of the Colorado College faculty, lived from 1860 to 1942. He gathered mammal specimens throughout the Rocky Mountain region. His collection includes at least two specimens of the Black-footed Ferret and several Colorado Wolf skulls. Both types were obtained at the turn of the century and are now nearly extinct.

"We are indeed fortunate to have these collections," Rodeck said, "and we are grateful to Colorado College for letting us use them. Such collections are especially valuable to science, because they furnish a permanent record of the fauna of the past for comparison with the constantly and rapidly changing conditions of the present and of the future."

DEDICATED

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Lester B. Dill, owner of Meramec Caverns, a tourist attaction on Route 66 at Stanton, Mo., is so intent on promoting Missouri as "The Cave State" that he is promoting his competitors.

Dill has pictures and brochures on all caves in the state in a room in his cave and members of his staff are available to answer questions on them. There are about two dozen state and commercial caves in the state. For years, Dill also has been trying to get the Missouri legislature to okay putting the tag, "Cave State" on car license plates.

Prayer Service Planned by Integrationists

By SY RAMSEY

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A group of integrationists planned a prayer service today after spending their first night in the gallery of the Kentucky House of Representatives as part of a sit-in and hunger strike.

The desperate move to force passage of an integration bill in the dying days of the legislature took state officials by surprise.

The House chamber was locked after representatives adjourned but the gallery doors remained open and the upstairs lights stayed on.

The 23 biracial demonstrators —mainly ministers, housewives and students — ranged in age from 16 to 71. A few reinforcements were expected today.

The main group arrived from Louisville shortly after noon Monday and vowed to starve to death if necessary, until the legislature enacts a bill granting Negroes equal access to places of public accommodations.

That eventuality appeared distant. As the demonstrators watched, the House for the second time rejected an attempt to get a civil rights bill out of the Rules Committee and onto the floor for a vote.

Technically, it still is possible for the House to pass such a bill by Wednesday and send it to the Senate, which theoretically could pass it by Friday, adjournment day for the regular session.

"Either they're going to kill us or pass the bill," said Frank Stanley Jr. of Louisville, general chairman of the Allied Organizations for Civil Rights, which has been spearheading the effort for a public accommodations bill.

"Ours may be judged a desperate and foolish act," he said in a statement later read to the House by a member, "but we feel it would be irresponsible passively to accept the defeat of human dignity by this legislature."

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt and House leaders all but welcomed the demonstrators, defended their right to free assembly and said the Capitol belongs to the taxpayers.

The governor has tried unsuccessfully to bring out an integration measure from the House Rules Committee.

DEFECTIVE DOGS

LONDON (AP) — The British Kennel Club is waging a campaign to reduce inbreeding of dogs which is producing too many canines with physical and mental defects. A club survey showed that of 120 breeds inspected by 100 veterinarians, only 17 were without hereditary defects. The major problem has been dogs which are excessively neurotic.

Kidney Surgery Newest Hope in Medical World

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Kidney disease struck hard at young Allan Scott Pert Jr. last summer. A doctor told the boy's parents to take him home to the house in Garden City, Mich., and make him comfortable. There was nothing else they could do.

"They told us there was nothing that could be done, that he was going to die within a couple of weeks," said Allan's father.

Today Allan and his parents have renewed hope. Developments in medical science and generosity of scores of people willing to donate kidneys and blood have given Allan a chance to live.

Ernest Locsei, director of the Northern Ohio chapter of the Kidney Disease Foundation, issued an appeal for donors. By Monday night 63 persons had offered kidneys to the freckle-faced, 11-year-old youngster who was brought unconscious to Cleveland Clinic Feb. 1.

There were three-score offers to donate the blood needed during an operation.

The clinic is one of a handful of hospitals around the country that now do kidney transplants. In the last nine months of 1963, 17 such transplants were attempted here for patients who were given no other hope of survival.

Seven survived with transplanted kidneys. An eighth man survived even though the transplanted kidney failed. That man, a company executive, was able to live without kidneys by virtue of regular visits to the clinic's artificial kidney.

The artificial kidney is a machine that cleanses poisonous waste products from the blood, taking over the function of the diseased human kidney. Young Pert responded readily when he was rushed here and put on the artificial kidney six weeks ago.

Now he beats the nurses at rummy and is looking forward to getting out of the hospital. A successful kidney transplant is the boy's only hope, doctors say.

One of those offering a kidney was Paul Hamilton, a prisoner in the Clark County jail at Springfield, Ohio.

"I've been healthy all my life," Hamilton said. "I've lived hard but always kept my health. Now I feel I might help someone else."

Hamilton, 39, is awaiting sentence for assaulting his wife and a stepdaughter with a hammer. He pleaded guilty, saying he was in a drunken rage and didn't know what he was doing.

The elder Pert, a Ford Motor Co. pipefitter, and his wife each offered one of their kidneys. Mrs. Pert said they were turned down because of their obligation to the other children.

SPECTACULAR SHRINE

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A cable car system is being set up in Lebanon to lift tourists to a holy shrine 2,000 feet up a steep mountain. The shrine is a small chapel next to a huge statue of the Virgin Mary called Our Lady of Lebanon. According to legend, any sacred pledge made in the chapel will be fulfilled.

At the top of the climb visitors have a spectacular view and on a clear day, can see Cyprus, 160 miles away. The $750,000-project is being undertaken by a Lebanese firm and a West German company is handling construction which will be completed in mid 1965.

ON THE LEVEL

MEDFORD, Mass. (UPI) — A platform which is not affected by random tilting of the earth has been designed at Tufts University to test high precision instruments.

Demonstrated to remain level over a six-hour period, such a stable platform will permit the calibration of high precision instruments such as gyroscopes and serve as a base for many geophysical instruments. It was designed by Prof. Kentaro Tsutsumi, associate professor of civil engineering at Tufts.

COYLE A. DAVIS

One-Stop and One-Floor Service Offered by Ward's Big New Store

Ward's new store at 2420 E. Pikes Peak Ave., to open Wednesday, combines the best and the newest in merchandise and customer conveniences, according to Coyle Davis, store manager.

With more than 100,000 square feet of total space, the Colorado Springs store will be the second largest store on the Eastern Slope, exceeded in space only by Denver Broadway. It will provide the very latest in one-floor shopping conveniences, according to Davis. A partial second floor will be used for warehousing.

The store will present 48 departments in modern settings, with wide aisles and the very newest in lighting and visual displays. A 12-car auto service will provide the latest in car-care and installing facilities. An outdoor seasonal sales area will present garden and nursery goods, playground equipment, and related "outdoor" lines.

INTERIOR DECORATING SERVICE

Ward's new store provides broad assortments and complete decorating services. Of special interest is Home Decorating Shop, where even an amateur may plan anything from a window drapery to furnishings for the entire home with full confidence.

Keyed to basic colors developed by Wards nationally known decorators, are carpeting, furniture, drapery materials, upholstering fabrics, area rugs, paint, bath sets and tailored draperies. Decorating is made simple for even the beginner thru use of color charts showing proper coordination and balance of harmony and accent shades.

"Wards experienced decorators at the Colorado Springs store offer their advice and services without charge and without obligation," Davis said. "A telephone call brings them to the home with samples of carpeting or drapery material to allow customers to see the colors and the textures in the very rooms where they will be used."

Ward decorators offer a choice of 1,200 drapery fabrics, available within 48 hours. Another services provides fast delivery on 336 sizes and colors in ready-made draperies. Carpeting, tile, wall paneling and ceilings are offered on an installed basis.

"It's all one big package for the home decorator," said Davis. "Thru our low-price policy we prove that good taste need not be expensive. Convenient credit with no down payment adds to this service."

YOUNG JUNIOR FASHIONS

ALL OFFICES ON MAIN FLOOR

Wards customers accommodation center combines all offices and services in one convenient main floor location. Included are the cash office, credit department, will call department, repair service, and gift-wrapping department. A large catalog order department is only a few steps away.

"We invite all our friends and customers to our Grand Opening," said Davis. "We have many fine things to offer, but nothing finer than the warm welcome from more than 200 Ward people who will be trying so hard to be of real service to their neighbors and customers."

Ward Catalogs Require Big Production Job

Montgomery Ward mail order catalogs are printed in Chicago and require the combined facilities of three of the world's largest printing plants. The general catalog is issued twice a year. In addition the company issues two semi-annual sale catalogs, a Christmas book, a travel catalog and many special catalogs devoted to such merchandise as cameras, garden supplies and equipment, wall paper, woodworking machinery and radios.

If all the paper used in one year for Ward's catalogs were manufactured in a single strip 10 inches wide, it would reach 1,308,712 miles, enough to encircle the earth 52 times at the equator.

If all the large general catalogs produced by the company in one year were piled flat on top of one another, it would make a column 256 miles high. More than 222 carloads or 5,500,000 pounds of ink are used annually in printing Ward's catalogs.

For the Love of Mark

Cleopatra, according to Egyptian history, once filled the imperial throne room knee - deep in rose petals, in anticipation of the arrival of Mark Antony.

Check Garden Tools When Weather Is Bad

Should the weather prevent your working outdoors, take the opportunity to check over your garden tools.

Sand any roughness on wooden handles, replace old handles with new, clean off rust and repaint the handles of small tools bright yelow or orange so they can readily be seen.

'Hard Sell' Used By Ward's Folk Way Back When

The "hard sell" in advertising is far from a modern invention. Montogomery Ward's 19[illegible] catalog sought to impress prospects with the low price of the company's cream separtor, compared with those sold by the traveling agents of other firms. So it phrased its argument in terms the prospects were sure to understand:

"If a good cow is worth $50, then every time you buy a cream separator off an agent at his high price, you give him one cow. Our lowest priced cream spearator is $29.90. The price of one good cow is $50. Thus, off us you get a guaranteed spearator and (off your neighbor) a new cow, both for $79.90.

"Why give the agent that cow?"

SLACK SET—Emilio Pucci created exclusive leisure-time combinations for the 1964 Montgomery Ward spring and summer catalog. This Pucci classic, a long-sleeved black on white eye-catcher, has the look of silk but is hand washable. The blouse has self-covered buttons, close front and cuffs. Spanking white ankle pants in the new, crisp straight-leg style in white or black are cotton lined with a princess waist, adjustable inside tabs and button-zipper side closing. The backless slippers with a chain bead thong add drama to the ensemble.

Top International Designers Created Fashions for Ward

New, exclusive pace - setting fashions and accessories created by the formost fashion authorities and haute couture leaders of Paris, Italy and London give the 1964 collection of catalog fashions the new youthful look being sought by American women of all ages.

And for teenagers and junior misses, today's catalog, always an indicator of fashion plans and desires, introduces a nationally significant program to help young girls become young ladies through personal guidance and counselling.

A 20 - lesson charm course, the only one of its kind developed by a national merchandiser is offered in Motgomery Ward's new spring and summer general catalog now being distrubuted to more than six million customer families throughout the United States.

High school and junior high school girls, using the illustrated Wendy Ward charm booklet, long playing records, and personal correspondence service can learn the secrets of fashion, personal appearance and charm — from toes to coiffures, from cosmetics to chapeaux, and from fashion rightness and use of accessories to correct posture and rules of etiquette.

Or, for those who are near any of 80 large retail stores of Montgomery Ward, the course is offered with professional instructors to guide young girls in the arts of femininity and good manners.

The nine famous names of fashion who have created exclusive styles for Ward's Brentshire Designers Collection are:

Emilio Pucci of Florence — repeating his success in the company's 1963 fall catalog with an all all-new dramatic esemble of a Pucci classic long-sleeved shirt with a bold geometric black and white print, and spanking white ankle pants in the new straight-leg style. Also, featured in Pucci's reptilian look is a flattering, gently fitted overblouse. A matching necklace and cuff links in Pucci's jeweled look emphasize his new shirtwaist sleeve.

Smonetta of Paris — welcoming spring with the new linen look in crisp, cool rayon, nylon and acetate ensembles, so versatile for the coming year. Her multiple wardrobe creation can be a coat or dress in blue or pink or worn with a soft-look feminine - sleeve polka dot blouse and a slim smooth skirt suitable for mixing with any blouse or shirt.

Avagolf of Italy — triumphant with the classic three-piece all - wool double knit costume featured on the cover of the new catalog. The rib textured jacket is sparked with a white notched overcollar and a white cuff trim insert. Just a hint of a sleeve is achieved in the pullover wool blouse in fine gauge single knit.

Alexon of England — adding a new dimension in knits with a sculptured surface in an all - wool chevron weave two-piece cardigan and skirt combination.

Mr. John, Jr. — presenting a fascinatingly chic bubble - crown cloche in narrow - sewn synthetic straw with grosgrain ribbon band.

Ward's Young Junior Fashion Shop for the growing teenage market, is presented dramatically in 10 pages of full color. Featured are the sportive look, an array of party dresses and skirts, capri pants, cardigans, jamaica shorts, shifts, pullovers and V-neck tops in brightly colored, all - cotton knits.

Swimwear, in the largest collection ever featured in a Ward catalog, highlights two - piece flower drenched cotton suit has adjustable shoulder straps and cotton - lined boy shorts with a back zipper. A hodded black or red striped shift of wash-and-wear cotton ticking has roll sleeves and a brass button closing.

Exclusive wash - and - wear sportswear, styled by Leonard Fischer, brightens the maternity shop. His stylish shifts, stretch pants, shorts, popovers, smocks and skirt are expandable for the lady in waiting.

Ward Sponsors 4-H Program For 40 Years

Montgomery Ward has supported the 4-H Club program continuously since 1922, longer than any other national company. Wards sponsors the National 4-H Home Economics Program, originally called the Girls' Record Contest, the first 4-H project to be sponsored by a business organization.

Every year Wards pays the expense of each Home Economics Program state winner from her home to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

In 1933, Wards began offering college scholarships to the national winners of the program. In the past 29 years the company has helped finance college educations of 159 girls from 40 states, through 4-H scholarships.

Wards also annually presents 7,300 gold-filled medals of honor for outstanding work in home economics to girls who win top county awards.

During National 4-H Week, many Ward retail and catalog stores pay tribute to state and national winners as special 4-H window displays feature the projects of state or national winners and their experiences at the Club Congress.

Children's Wear Top Feature At Wards Store

Ward's new store on East Pikes Peak Avenue gives special attention to children's wear, according to W. E. Campbell, merchandise manager. Sales space is large, allowing for large selections and clear-cut classifications for convenient shopping.

Everything from playwear to dress-up wear is being offered, Campbell said, with special emphasis now on Easter apparel. Playwear and sportswear will leap to prominence immediately after Easter.

"Our experience tells us that parents prefer the convenience of shopping centers in buying children's wear, and we have set up plans accordingly," said Campbell. "After-school store hours and adequate parking are important considerations for families who wish to take their children shopping."

Tourists Find Dam, Niagara Twin Sights

By TOM HEWITT

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) —A gleaming $3.8 million structure perched atop a buttress of the huge Robert Moses Niagara Power Dam has given tourism a new outlook and a new lookout at Niagara Falls.

The glass, stainless steel and concrete building, called the Power Vista, offers a commanding view of the famed Niagara River gorge and the world's largest hydroelectric power complex.

On opposite sides of the Niagara River, built into the canyons of the gorge, are the Mose plant (capacity 2,190,000 kilowatts) and the Canadian Sir Adam Beck No. 1 and No. 2 plants (1,800,000 kilowatts) of the Hydroelectric Power Commission of Ontario.

The Power Vista, one half mile upstream from the new Lewiston - Queenston Bridge, opened July 19. It is the crowning glory of the $760 million power development begun by the State Power Authority in 1958. James A. FitzPatrick, authority chairman, predicted that thousands of visitors to the Power Vista would "contribute in large measure toward the economy of the Niagara Frontier."

The construction program, correlated with express highways, parkways, extension of Goat Island, erection of an observation tower at Prospect Point, new parks and picnic grounds, has changed the face of the Niagara Falls area.

The broad open promenade is 350 feet above the Niagara River. The three - level structure atop the power plant is reached by a pedestrian bridge that spans eight lanes of highway. The facility can handle 10,000 persons daily.

The pedestrian bridge leads to the observation building via a lobby dominated by artist Thomas Hart Benton's 140-square-foot mural depicting Father Hennepin, a Jesuit priest, and Indians viewing the falls in 1678.

Near the mural is a huge diorama of the Moses Niagara power plant. The cutaway model, using water, shows how the flowage through the penstocks activates turbines and generators to produce electricity.

Enclosed in glass is a 20 by 28 foot scale model of the entire Niagara project and surrounding area, including the city of Niagara Falls (population nearly 100,000). Every building is reproduced.

On the middle level, reached by escalators, are three fan-shape theaters where guests may watch films of the power project and $1 billion Niagara public works complex. An automated cafeteria-restaurant there has tables to accommodate 320 persons.

On the lowest level are Power Authority storage and equipment rooms.

There are now about 2,000 cities in the world with over 100,000 population.

Grand Opening Will Feature Sale Specials

From the shoppers' viewpoint, the big attraction of Montgomery Ward's Grand Opening sale at 2420 E. Pikes Peak Ave., will be the hundreds of items at special prices.

W. E. Campbell, merchandise manager, reports that every department will have many such specials. He says that Ward's regular low prices are low because of the company's large scale buying and economical distribution, and the additional opening reductions insure every shopper surprising values.

Campbell says it was impossible to list all the sale specials in the Ward's advertising carried in today's issue of this newspaper. He added, "These are only representative of hundreds of others. Come and see for yourself."

Store opening is set for 10 a.m. Wednesday, following ribbon-cutting ceremonies at 9:30.

Evaluate '63 Garden For Better One in '64

Have you ever sat down with yourself and made an honest evaluation of your previous season's garden? It's more satisfactory than making New Year's resolutions, for you get results.

Which types of flowers or vegetables grew best for you? Which do you want to grow again and which not? Where are the places in your garden that need pepping up with colorful blooms? These are the kinds of questions you should ask yourself.

Then read the seed catalogs for suggestions to help you have a finer garden this year.

LONDON (AP) — Gales and blizzards left three persons dead in Britain today. Two Rover Scouts were missing in a howling snowstorm in the north Derbyshire moors.

Widespread floods covered farmlands in southern England.

WARD EXECUTIVE—Sidney A. McKnight, vice president and general manager of the South Central region of Montgomery Ward & Co. will attend the grand opening ceremonies of the new Colorado Springs store Wednesday.

Ward Executives to Participate In Opening Ceremonies Wednesday

Sidney McKnight, vice president and general manager, south central region, and Dwight Hershey, metropolitan district manager, will take part in the opening of Ward's new store at 420 E. Pikes Peak Ave., Wednesday.

As general manager of a 16-state region, McKnight has played a key role in the developing of 29 retail stores under Ward's program of expansion launched six years ago. The Colorado Springs store is one of four new stores to be opened in the south central region between now and March 19.

"There is nothing more exciting than a new store opening," said McKnight. "It's a chance to meet many new friends, and more important, a chance to introduce the new store and exciting new merchandise to many customers who have been with us thru the years. We issue a special invitation for our many catalog store customers to visit Ward's new retail store in Colorado Springs," McKnight said.

A few minutes' talk with McKnight impresses one with his deep interest in merchandising. He speaks freely of his first experiences with Wards, in which he served as manager of the hardware department at Joplin, Mo., in 1937. It was his belief then, as it is now, that the way to a man's heart is a well-stocked department of tools and hardware. He believes that a strong fashion department is key attraction for women shoppers.

McKnight's merchandising interests cover all departments with a surprising depth of knowledge of specific items and lines. He is a fashion merchant, a home furnishing merchant, and a children's wear merchant all in one.

He expressed his belief that the all-important requirement of a successful store lies in supplying the specific items and lines needed and wanted in its community. "While Wards is a national merchandising company," said McKnight, "our real strength lies in the individual stores that form the links of the chain."

Under Ward's merchandising policy, store manager and merchandisers are given freedom to stock the items and lines required in their respective communities. As new needs become apparent, the stores advise Ward's buying organization and the lines are made available on short notice.

The Colorado Springs store was merchandised with specific local wants in mind, including, for example a large children's department, a special department for young juniors, an outdoor garden shop, and many other lines. Of special interest are Ward's home improvement center and its modern 12-car auto care center. A snack-bar invites shoppers to relax and refresh.

Hershey, metropolitan district manager, will also participate in the opening ceremonies. Hershey maintains his office in Denver, from where he assumes responsibility for the operation of Ward's two large Denver stores and Ward's new store in Boulder. A staff of merchandisers and specialists provides assistance as needed by the stores in the district.

Young Junior Shop Caters to Teen-Agers

Statistics show that today's teen-agers are a vital force in shaping retail demand. They are perhaps the greatest influence in family decisions involving the purchases of furniture, automobiles, and many other items.

The above was the observation of James Dowdy, line merchandiser, of Ward's new store. He went on to point to the experience of the stereo record industry, and specifically to the teen-age response that helped skyrocket "The Beatles" to success and fame.

"Today's teen-ager has a mind of her own," Dowdy said, "and this applies double when it comes to choosing her own dresses and sportswear." Dowdy went on to point to the store's Young Junior Shop merchandised specifically for the junior crowd.

"The fashions are young and lively," Dowdy said, "and the sizes and proportions are youthful and flattering." Price lines are held at levels in line with teen-age budgets, Dowdy added.

Sportswear, playwear, swimwear, daytime dresses and formals form the backbone of this important department. Hosiery, slips, panties, and bras are also available in teen-age sizes and proportions.

Wood Chips, Shavings Help Control Weeds

Ordinary wood chips or shavings make an excellent weed control when spread about 3 to 4 inches deep on top of the garden soil.

The chips also serve to retain ground moisture by shilding against the hot summer sun. The chips or shavings quickly mat down to firm cover after a few waterings and tend to make any plant bed look tidier and more attractive.

Analysis of Soil Before Planting Will Save Money

The first and wisest step in starting a new garden or a new lawn usually doesn't cost a dime — an it can save you a small fortune.

A soil analysis, to determine the degree of alkaline or acid content very often is performed free of charge by local nursery outlets. And even if they charge for the service, it'll be well worth the money.

Your El Paso County agent also can accommodate you with a free soil analysis.

The findings of this simple but important test will guide you in preparation of a more productive soil, and more rewarding growing.

Made in New York Today, Worn in Springs Tomorrow

Thanks to this speedy tempo, said Mrs. Martha Carroll, fashion department manager at Montgomery Ward's new store at 2420 E. Pikes Peak Ave., current fashions are available to Colorado Springs women at the very time they first appear in New York.

To accomplish this seeming miracle of merchandising, the Ward organization, for example, maintains a complete buying staff in New York City.

These buyers are at work daily, watching trends in the fashion industry, selecting the new creations that are soon sure to become national favorites, seeking and guarding standards for quality.

Active in the center of the nation's fashion capital, these buyers work closely with the manufacturers to be sure that Ward fashions meet the exacting requirements of American women. The buyers know fabric and style and they know, too, the magic of the word "new."

That is why the Colorado Springs store, for example, will receive not monthly, but daily shipments from New York shipments from New York. plemented by on-the-spot special purchases which will be rushed to the store from New York.

Mrs. Carroll expressed her enthusiasm about Ward's newly-arrived fashions. "They're some of the most exciting designs I've ever seen," she said. "The lines are smart and modern. And there is such a wonderful range from the really elegant to casual models for comfortable everyday wear."

Flowers Make Outdoor Eating More Pleasant

Home economists claim that the appearance of food on a dinner plate has a great deal to do with how much a person eats of it and how good it tastes. A more attractice plate, with vegetables of contrasting color neatly arranged, results in a better appetite and a more satisfied diner.

The same principle should apply to the appearance of the immediate surroundings when a meal is served outdoors. In prettier and more colorful surroundings, a better appetite and more satisfaction should result.

A little corner in a small backyard near the grill and the picnic table will not call for a great many flowers to make it bright and gay. Just a few packets of seeds ordered now and planted when the time arrives in this area will reward you with the proper setting for many a good meal, even though there's nothing fancy about the food that is served.

Sailor Supports 10 Foster Kids On Half His Pay

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A Navy chief petty officer stationed on bleak Kodiak Island, Alaska, has created a unique living memorial to a younger brother killed in the Korean War.

Navy Chief Norman Weiss supports 10 children around the world through the Foster Parent Plan, Inc., of New York City. It costs $150 of his Navy pay of $268 a month.

Weiss has been making foster children happy for the past six years, but always he asked the New York agency not to publicize his undertaking.

Recently, in the hope that others might become interested in supporting foster children he told his story to touring San Francisco Chronicle reporter Jack Foisie.

"When my brother Mel was killed in Korea in 1952," Weiss said, 'I decided I would do something worthwhile in his memory.'

"He was three years younger. We were in an orphanage when we were little, and I looked out after him before we were taken by a wonderful couple.

"We learned a little bit of goodness from everybody who was kind to us."

Growing up, Norman joined the Navy, Mel the Marine corps. As a corporal, Mel was killed on Bunker Hill in Korea.

"I thought of a statue," Norman said. "But how does statuary help other people? A boys, club — but I would have to entrust its management to others.

"Then I dug up my brother's last letter, enclosing a picture of children on the streets of Seoul in Korea. And he wrote: "Look at the faces of these kids — are they so different?"

"That decided me — the memorial would have to do with children."

On Thanksgiving day, 1958, Weiss sent his first check to Foster Parents Plan. At first he was able to support only three youngsters. With Navy approval he "moonlighted" on civilian jobs.

He increased his "family" until now there are 10: a boy in Italy, a girl in South Korea, a boy in Greece, a girl in South Viet Nam, a crippled boy in South Korea, a girl in Greece, a girl and boy in Hong Kong, a girl in the Philippines, a boy in Colombia.

"The letters I get . . . the snapshots. To see them grow, to become healthy, to be happy . . ."

Parents See Pilot Son Die in Crash

OAKMAN, Ala. (AP) — "We stood in the front door and watched prouly as our grandson flew over the house," said Mr. and Mrs. John Holley.

Seconds later, and a few miles away, the Air Force T37 jet trainer crashed, killing its young pilot, 2nd Lt. Thomas C. Pierson, 22.

Plus Service Plan Speeds Shopping at New Store

DUANE GRAHAM

"Something new has been added to make shopping at Wards fast, modern and convenient," said Duane Graham, operating manager of Ward's new store on East Pikes Peak Avenue.

"Plus Service" is an accurate description of the addition, according to Graham. Under this plan, customers may be served by salespersons as usual — or they may make their own selections and take them to one of the conveniently located quick-wrap stations.

"To make 'Plus Service' really work, special care has been given to sizing and pricing merchandise on the counters," said Graham. "Customers can find the size or type of item wanted at a glance, and cards tell the prices story quickly."

* * *

"Plus Service" is especially suited for shopping center stores, where sales peak sharply at certain times of the day or week, according to Graham. The quick-wrap stations are able to handle peak traffic quickly and efficiently, and shoppers may be on their way. Credit sales as well as cash sales are handled thru these stations.

Four Times Speed Of Sound Is Routine

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Streaking four times the speed of sound in an X15 rocket ship has become routine for pilot Jack McKay.

The veteran test pilot rocketed 3,239 miles an hour Friday and hit a maximum altitude of 76,000 feet.

Friday's flight was additional research on the effect of the X15's new dagger-edged tail on skin heat and friction built up by air resistance. Results will have a bearing on design of space vehicles for reentry into the earth's atmosphere.

A WHOLE NEW "STOREFUL" OF FRESH SPRING BARGAINS!

Saratoga Hotel Corp. Elects New President

RAWLINS, Wyo. (AP)—Henry Van Schaak Jr., Denver, has been elected president of the Saratoga Hotel Corp.

He succeeds W. A. Swan of Casper, who sold his stock recently to a group of Denver and Greeley, Colo., men.

At a reorganizational meeting of the board of directors, Robert W. Noffsinger, Greeley, was elected vice president of the company and John Crow, Rawlins, secretary - treasurer. All were named to the board of directors.

New owners of the company, which operates a plush resort at Saratoga, also announced that Willis C. Walker of Cheyenne has sold his stock. Walker founded the Saratoga Inn and operated it for several years.

Nearly 35 per cent of all retail necktie sales occur during the Christmas shopping season.

Thorough Testing Assures Customer Of Top Quality of Ward's Products

Weather-O-Meter and mattress pounders are used by men whose job it is to get carpets dirty and to scuff floor tile for Montgomery Ward & Co.

Such unusual equipment and activities are found in Ward's testing laboratories where scientists and engineers team up to insure quality and top performance of the company's merchandise.

The weather-o-meter exposes sample material to simulated sunlight and rain, to check their reactions to weather. Roofing tile, plastic products, paints, enamelled finishes, woods, ceramics, and auto polishes and waxes are among the items tested by this devise.

Mattress durability is tested by a device which pounds a mattress with heavy rotating weights while the results are checked by laboratory staff members.

To check the effectiveness of rug shampoos, samples of various carpet types were sewed together and placed down as a runner. After being subjected to heavy duty wear, the runner was dirty enough and was shampooed in sections using the various products.

And, after building a plywood floor in their lab, staff members laid various types of tile and then gave the floor the "treatment" given the carpeting, as they checked the tiles' durability and ability to be recleaned.

These are but a few of the many testing activities carried on at Ward's two testing laboratories. One in New York City concentrates on textile and clothing while the Chicago lab primarily tests home furnishings appliances, and heavy goods lines.

The company's testing is aimed to prove:

Each article will perform as advertised.

It will continue to perform properly for long periods.

It measures up to basic operating and safety standards.

Comparison tests are also made, to help buyers in their selection of merchandise. Specifications of items being considered by Ward's buying staff are checked in through tests by lab staff members.

Part of the lab staff checks items of Ward's electronics department, including TV sets, hi-fi's and portable radios, exclusively on a year-round basis. Both buyers' samples and production samples are checked.

Montgomery Ward opened its Chicago laboratory more than 45 years ago primarily to test the foods and drugs then sold by the company. The laboratory job later was expanded to textile testing and finally to testing all lines of merchandise sold by the company.

One wall of the office is lined with case histories of products put thru the mill by the company's technicians as well as reports of scientific mysteries that the laboratory has solved.

"One such mystery was the case of the plastic dolls, who acquired a deep brown "tan" while sitting on the shelves of a company warehouse. Though the dolls looked life like, the test-case of the plastic dolls, convinced technicians that the sun was not responsible for their deepening brown hue.

The trouble was traced to sulphur fumes coming from a nearby railroad roundhouse, which reacted unfavorably with one of the chemicals in the plastic. This chemical was replaced and the dolls kept their peaches and cream complexions.

ZOOLOGICAL FIREMEN

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — C. W. Yeats' regular job is to put out fires. But in his off-hours he might babysit with a Komodo dragon or figure out a fair price for a snake. Yeats is a fireman at Station No. 41 in Houston, and is an animal trader in his time off. Periodically, he travels to other cities to make a trade.

A customary day's work in the animal market for Yeats might be to trade off a small tiger for a few medium-size monkeys and a six-foot dragon. Yeats' idea of house guests is a brace of snakes and a group of white rats awaiting purchasers.

CLOSE CALL

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) —Patrolman Gerald Halverson is thankful that the pastor of the Open Door Baptist Church does not aim at prowlers. Halverson parked his patrol car and walked down an alley to answer a complaint of a barking dog at the parsonage of the church. Suddenly a shot rang out. Halverson scurried back to the street and contacted the Rev. Audrey Corder at the front door of the parsonage. With smoking shotgun in hand, the minister told the policeman he just scared off a powler by firing the weapon into the air.

INSURED

NEW YORK (UPI) — Women are buying one out of every five new life insurance policies issued by life insurance companies nationwide.

In dollar amounts, women now account for nearly one tenth of the life insurance purchased each year, according to the Institute of Life Insurance.

THE TIRE GAP

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—American tire manufacturers could produce enough tires in less than three days to supply all the new cars produced in the communist bloc countries in a year, according to Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

U.S. daily passenger tire production capacity has been estimated at about 560,000 units, or enough to supply 112,000 cars with sets of five tires. Recent estimates put communist auto production at approximately 300,000 units annually.

Shortage Found in Colorado Bureau

DENVER (AP)—State Auditor John Proctor said today a shortage of $220 had been found in collections of the Colorado Parks and Recreation Department.

Proctor said a department employe, whom he declined to identify, reported the loss apparently occurred when a safe in the agency was left unlocked overnight. This was in 1962.

The department was merged with the State Game and Fish Department last year.

The auditor said he is reporting the shortage to Gov. John A. Love and Harry Woodward, director of the department.

BABIES' RIGHTS

VATICAN CITY (AP) —Every child born in the city of Rome has a right to be baptized in St. Peter's Basilica instead of in his parent's local parish church. Each Sunday an average of 40 infants, including many non-Italians, are administered the Roman Catholic sacrament in the huge Basilica.

Liquor Stayed Only Briefly In MW Catalog

It was advertised in the 1875 catalog with this note of explanation: "We beg to state that we allow these quotations at the request of many of our customers."

A wave of protest from Prohibitionists followed, and liquor was dropped from the next catalog.

The climate hadn't changed by 1941, when, by accident, a can of beer appeared among other foods in a photo of a Wards refrigerator and drew 300 complaints from customers.

Sequoia National Park, California, includes 32 groves of sequoia trees, largest and oldest living things on earth.

Customer Service Keynote at New Ward's Store in Colorado Springs

Numerous customer service facilities including merchandise repair and installation are available at Montgomery Ward's new Colorado Springs store. These complete services, often not obtainable elsewhere, do their part to make Wards a more neighborly, convenient place to shop, according to Coyle Davis, manager of the store.

The repair service department provides speedy, efficient repair and testing facilities for all types of major appliances. A complete stock of spare parts assure fast repair jobs should it become necessary.

In this way, the company indicates its interest in the customer, not only when the purchase is made, but also at any time afterward.

Complete facilities are available for installation work. Among the many items the Colorado Springs store is prepared to install are cabinets, bath fixtures, boilers, air conditioning units, water pump systems, gas and electric water heaters, stokers, attic fans, tile house siding, insulation, roofing and floor coverings.

Expert treatment is given to all installation work, providing that important "professional" touch so necessary to a finished job. For customer convenience, department managers handle estimate and design work.

An important segment of the Colorado Springs service organization is Ward's telephone unit of the catalog order department. This unit is set up to make it convenient for Ward shopping to be done by phone.

People who haven't previously shopped by telephone invariably are pleasantly surprised at its effortless ease. Selections may leisurely be made from over 130,000 items featured in the big general catalog.

Once Ward customers discover that their shopping center is no further away than their telephone, the take advantage of this convenience again and again. Often overlooked in the general hustle and bustle of the large retail store is the very important section known as "will call." Ward's will call department provides the customer with another easy and convenient way of shopping.

He can buy anything he wants at his convenience, place merchandise on "will call," and pick it up when he needs it.

Another customer service, free of any charge, is the interesting and informative literature available in many departments thruout Ward's new store.

Thru multi-colored illustrated pamphlets, patrons "get the complete story" on such varied merchandise lines as hi-fi's and TV sets, draperies, major electrical appliances, auto accessories, and farm equipment. These concisely written folders and booklets are available for the asking.

Ward's new auto service station at Colorado Springs can house 12 cars at one time, and offers installation of Ward tires, batteries, mufflers, brake shoes, and seat covers.

The special engineering facilities in the Kansas City office are also available to Colorado Springs area customers.

Extension Service Lists Shade, Ornamental Trees

The Extension Service of Colorado State University has listed a number of shade and ornamental trees which are considered satisfactory for growing in Colorado.

Experience has shown that no shade tree can be labeled the best under all conditions. Each tree has certian known advantages and disadvantages in regard to total height, shape, insect pests, diseases, cost of upkeep, and other factors.

Realizing that the average homeowner wishes to plant a tree that produces good shade at low cost, the following varieties of trees are considered the most worthy for general consideration:

SHADE TREES, 40 TO 60 FEET — American Elm, easy to grow but has controlable pests such as scale and bark beetle; Augustine Ascending Elm, the selection of American elm that is tall-growing and vase-shaped to replace the bolleana poplar; American Linden, beautiful symmetrical tree, slow-growing, very permanent; Cottonless Cottonwood, fast-growing, durable, large shade tree, tolerates wide range of soils, is larger than any others listed; European Sycamore, adapted to heavy soils, has unusual bark and leaves; Green Ash, a well-shaped tree that has few pest problems and is tolerant of mediocre soil. Seedless forms also available.

Hackberry, resistant to drouth and poor soil conditions, quite free of pests except the harmless leaf gall, difficult to transplant at sizes above 8 to 10 feet; Honeylocust, thornless, a fine tree of slightly irregular growth that makes light shade and has seed pods but no thorns and is very resistant to drouth and average soils in this area; Patented Honeylocust, selections of the Thornless Honeylocust generally without pods; Sunburst Honeylocust, a patented tree with yellow-to-golden growing tips, is subject to winter burn; Western Catalps, beautiful tree with attractive large leaves and clusters of showy white flowers; Soft Silver Maple: fast growing shade tree, likes local conditions but is subject to yellowing from highly alkaline soils.

SHADE TREES, MORE DIFFICULT TO GROW — Bur Oak: the only oak adapted in alkaline soils that performs slowly but dependably; Horsechestnut and Ohio Buckeye: deep-rooted trees with beautiful flowers, difficult to transplant and establish; Norway Maple: beautiful slow-growing, permanent shade tree requiring light soil; Red and Pin Oaks: slow-growing, good fall color, special care needed for transplanting but will not tolerate alkaline soil; Kentucky Coffeetree: hardy, pest-free, slow-growing, with very good shade but difficult to transplant; Schwedler Maple: like Norway Maple, but with red foliage in spring and requires light soil.

ORNAMENTAL TREES, 15 TO 30 FEET IN HEIGHT—Russian Olive: very hardy, alkali and drouht resistant, interesting gray foliage, fruits annually; Flowering Crabapples: good varieties are Hopa, Dolgo, Redsilver, Bechtel, Almey, Radiant, Jay Darling, some round, some upright with flowers ranging from white to red; Little Leaf Linden: excellent slow-growing tree, readily available, beautiful shade, little expense of maintenance, very permanent; Hawthorne: variety Downy very hardy, Washington, English and Paul's Scarlet needs sheltered spot, have good fall color and some have red fruit.

Purpleleaf Plum: interesting foliage color, small pink flowers in spring; European Mountainash: neat, upright, attractive fruit in fall, subject to fireblight disease and winter burn; Goldenraintree: small informal tree, flowers in July, interesting seed pods in fall; Weeping Birch: a graceful, upright tree with interesting white bark, difficult to transplant: Clump Birch or European White, have become popular also but require special care.

Color Coordination Plan Guides Proper Selections

"Recognizing the fact that color is a powerful element in all home decoration, Montgomery Ward has devised its Style House color coordination plan to give customers an occurate and consistent guide to proper color selection," Coyle Davis, manager of Wards new Colorado Springs store, said.

"Color can give sparkle and charm to an otherwise unattractive room," he declared. "It can make a room seem larger, more friendly, more harmonious."

Ward's Style House color coordination plan features 12 "first families of color" — hues which are in tune with one another. Within a family are shades and tints which offer a complete range from soft pastels through clear, bright colors into vibrant darks, assuring good taste and color harmony.

The Style House color coordination plan assures color harmony. The starting point for color harmony is selecting the basic color to be used for the color scheme. "Color harmony may center about a lovely picture the person owns and wants to feature in a room", Davis stated. "Some color arrangements may be based on the rug, draperies, or wallpaper in the room, or any favorite color the customer has in mind."

When the major color is selected, the balanced color scheme can then be chosen. The color scheme gives the general character to the room which the customer desires.

"The three basic methods of color schemes are contrasted, related, and monochromatic," Davis said. "Contrasting colors prove interesting, active, informal and size-decreasing, while related colors are subtle, surprising combinations that create a restful, spacious, elegant atmosphere.

"Monochromatic colors, which are different shades and tints of one color, bring the maximum in spaciousness, unty, and tranquility," he said.

With the basic color or colors selected, and the color scheme developed the customer will find a wide and varied selection of top quality merchandise at Ward's new Colorado Springs store which utilize Style House color coordination hues.

The color coordinated merchandise ranges from appliances to wall tile and also includes bathroom fixtures, bedding, bedspreads, blankets, curtains, decorative accessories and piece goods, dinnerware, draperies, floor covering and tile, laminated counter tops, lamps, linens, paint, rugs, slip covers, toss pillows, towels, upholstered furniture, and wallpaper.

"Our Style House decorator shop has utilized a program which offers all of the color in the world for every room in the house," Davis said.

"Style House is Ward's exclusive name and it guarantees that in home furnishings, interior finishing materials, and decorative accessories, the color, design, complete blendability, and outstanding quality," he declared.

Thanks to Ward's Style House program every home furnishing item may be selected for reasons of its relationship to another. Using the color guides new purchases, planned future purchases, and presently owned furnishings can be used to create outstanding, workable decorating ideas for your home.

"Ward's outstanding values, low prices, and convenient credit terms help customer's turn their home decoration plans into reality," Davis said, "And of course, Ward's time honored policy of 'satisfaction guaranteed or your money back' continues to back every purchase made."

People In the News

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—The Distinguished Citizen Award of the Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers annually goes to someone who launched an outstanding career by answering a classified ad.

This year's winner, receiving a bronze plaque in Beverly Hills, Calif., recalled the 1905 ad in the old New York World that made the big difference in his life. It read: "Boy singer wanted for star vaudeville act. Room, board, $4 week. Apply in person."

Johnson stayed 30 minutes with Douglas A. MacArthur, 84, at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington where the five-star General of the Army is recuperating from a gall bladder operation. MacArthur was reported doing fine but there was no word when he could leave the hospital.

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—Lady Bird Johnson, the nation's First Lady, will visit West Virginia within the next few months, says the state's governor, W.W. Barron.

Barron said in Charleston that President Johnson had assured him of Mrs. Johnson's trip during the President's flying tour of the flood-stricken Ohio River Valley.

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP)—Sen. Edward Kennedy, D - Mass., spent a good deal of time with the younger set during his two-day speaking tour of Montana.

The senator, 32, addressed a high school audience at Missoula, Mont., went horseback riding with youngsters, attended a trout dinner given by college students, and was given a wild reception in a Billings, Mont., hotel where tournament basketball players were staying.

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex., gets where he's going, even if it is a bit round-about.

Purcell went to Helena to address the Montana governor's annual prayer meeting. He left Washington in a commercial airliner, landed in Dallas, took a car to Fort Worth, flew to Denver by commercial airliner, switched to an Air Force jet that brought him to Great Falls, Mont., and then a plane assigned to the governor took him to Helena.

Ward's Customers Offered Credit Plan to Suit Needs

"Whether you're buying a pair of shoes or a houseful of furniture, Wards has a credit plan to fit your purchasse and your budget," Don Francis, Credit Manager at Montgomery Ward's new Colorado Springs Store, declared.

Customers may pay $3 or $300 a month, complete their payment in 30 days, or take as long as 7 years to pay, depending on the plan chosen.

"Just as no two customers needs are alike, no two credit situations are alike," Francis said. "That's why Wards offers a choice of terms."

The most popular plan with Ward customers is the revolving charge. An account of this type gives the customer 10 months to pay and requires no down payment. A monthly payment of from $5 to $35 allows the customer to make purchases totaling $50 to $350.

This play also serves as a monthly charge account since there is no service charge if purchases are paid within 30 days after the billing date, Francis said.

Under a second plan, credit may be obtained on any purchase totaling $20 or more to establish the account, and smaller purchases may be charged thereafter. Customers have up to 18 months to pay for general merchandise in this Ward credit plan, he stated.

Major purchases can be made under a plan calling for no down payment with up to 36 months to pay. The minimum amount charged is $50. Home improvement purchases are covered by a plan calling for no down payment and allowing customers up to seven years to pay. The minimum amount chargeable is $100.

"It's easy to open an account at Ward's," Francis said. "The customer can either come to the credit department of our store to fill out the credit information slip or he can use the form on the reverse side of the order blank in Ward's catalog."

Once a customer's account has been opened, he may continue to order with no down payment. A Ward's charge account card is honored in any of the company's 1,200 stores in 49 States.

Smaller Refunds Than Usual Are Expected

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Because of changes and delay in enacting the tax cut law, the taxes withheld from paychecks will fall about $800 million short of meeting the actual 1964 tax bills of Americans

Millions of taxpayers will get smaller refunds than usual a year from now, and a good many—especially in middle and upper income brackets — will owe Uncle Sam more money.

The Treasury and the Internal Revenue Service are being bombarded with questions about why this "under-withholding" happened, what it means to individual taxpayers and the economy in general, and why steps were not taken to avoid the discrepancy.

Here are some of the questions and the answers given by tax officials and other experts:

Q: Are all taxpayers being "under-withheld"?

A: No, not nearly all. For the great majority of taxpayers, especially at lower-income levels, the withholding will cover tax liability. More people will get refunds than will have to pay extra.

Q: Which ones are likely to feel the pinch?

A: In general, those with incomes upward of $9,000 to $10,000 a year. The higher the salary, the less likely that withholding will be adequate.

Q: How will under-withholding be felt?

A: Many of the 40 million taxpayers who usually get refunds will get smaller ones. Some will get none. Others will end the tax year owing Uncle Sam money. Nearly all those who now have to make additional payments—about 20 million taxpayers—will make larger ones.

Q: How hard will it hit?

A: At $15,000 income, a married taxpayer with two children and $2,500 of itemized deductions was underwithheld $5 for 1963. For 1964, even though his taxes are lower, he will be about $165 under-withheld.

Q: What about higher incomes?

A: At $25,000 income, a couple with two dependents and itemized deductions totaling $4,000 will be under-withheld by $1,020; they were $780 under-withheld in 1963.

Q: What about single persons? And those who don't itemize but take the standard deduction?

A: As always, the under-withholding is more pronounced for those with fewer exemptions or lower deductions for interest, state taxes, medical care and so on.

Q: Is this because the tax cut is smaller than was announced?

A: No. But many will find it is not as big as it looks on their paychecks.

Q: Why does it happen?

A: The withholding rate is now only 14 per cent. The actual tax rate is higher; and since it becomes progressively steeper at higher income levels, the gap widens as income increases.

Q: Wasn't the gap foreseen?

A: In the original tax cut plan it was not so large. That called for reducing the old 18 per cent withholding rate to 15 per cent in the first year and 14 per cent in 1965.

Q: Why was it changed to 14 per cent from the start?

A: Congress didn't move fast enough to get the reduction started at New Year's. For two months of 1965 taxes were withheld at the old rate, 18 per cent. President Johnson proposed that the rate be dropped to 14 per cent for the last ten months of the year.

Q: Why?

A: So that taxpayers, over the full year, would get about the same tax cut as was originally planned for 1964; and the economy would get the same amount of stimulus in spite of the legislative delay.

Q: Couldn't the rate have been set at 15 per cent, with refunds at the yearend to make up the difference?

A: $It could have. But then millions of taxpayers have been overwithheld. The would not receive the full benefit of tax reduction until a year from now. The spur to business and employment would have been lessened.

Q: Couldn't some fractional rate have been set, to come out closer to even? Or couldn't the lower withholding rate be applied to low-income taxpayers and a higher rate to high-income taxpayers?

A: Theoretically either would have been possible, but there are practical difficulties. Employers are used as tax collectors under the withholding system, and many would find it difficult and costly, if not impossible, to administer fractional or multiple withholding rates. And there's another reason.

Q: What's that?

A: The wide discrepancy lasts only one year. In 1965 the second stage of the tax cut takes effect, and the income tax rates will move down somewhat closer to the withholding rate.

Q: Was there a political reason to under-withhold in an election year, making the first year tax cut look bigger than it is?

A: Some Republicans have charged that Johnson wants to heat up the economy to insure re-election. They contend it may be overheated, with resulting risk of inflation and a recession in 1965. Administration officials deny there is either political motivation or grave inflationary threat. The full benefit of tax reduction will not be felt for two or three years, they contend, and serious price pressures won't be felt until much more idle machinery and manpower is put to work.

Q: But isn't there danger of a business letdown next year, when people have to write checks for the taxes not withheld?

A: The business advance could be slowed up if a lot of people who planned to buy cars or refrigerators are sending extra money to Uncle Sam instead. But government economists foresee no setback; the upward movement should be strong enough to absorb this relatively minor flow of money to the Treasury.

Q. Some $800 million doesn't sound minor.

A: But many if not most of those seriously affected will have cushioned the blow by having their withholdings enlarged throughout the year, or by making quarterly tax payments big enough to offset the under-withholding.

Montgomery Ward Blazed New Merchandising Trail

This is a success story that would have dazzled Horatio Alger, and it's true. It's the story of a man who created one of the country's leading businesses and blazed new trails in retail selling.

Aaron Montgomery Ward was born in New Jersey in February, 1843. To help his poverty-stricken family, he had to leave school at the age of 14 and go to work in a barrel factory for only 25 cents a day. When he was 20, his family moved to St. Joseph, Mich., where he got a job as a shoe clerk for $5 a month and board. After three years of hard work, he was made manager of the store at a salary of $100 a month and board.

Several years later he decided there was greater opportunity for him in a larger city, and obtained employment in Chicago as a traveling salesman with a wholesale concern. This experience, plus the fact that the first transcontinental railroad had been completed, made Montgomery Ward believe the time was right for a greater merchandising service than had ever before been attempted.

In 1871, as he was about to start his new retailing plan, the Chicago fire wiped out his capital, and his job. But Ward was not discouraged, and a year later, in August of 1872, Montgomery Ward issued his first mail order catalog - the first published anywhere. He and his friend and partner George R. Thorne, operated this early business from a single room only 12 x 14 feet, on Chicago's near-north side.

This was the beginning of the mail order business, destined to have a revolutionary effect upon the merchandising methods of the time.

The attitude of the new firm toward the customer had much to do with its success. No sales were to be considered complete with the mere delivery of the merchandise. The customer had to be satisfied or he would return the goods and get his money back. The partners considered this a fundamental of fair merchandising. This was a new concept in business practice in the day when sugar was sanded and molasses watered.

Wards continued solely as a mail order business for 54 years before the first retail store came into being by chance rather than plan. In 1926 three "merchandise exhibits" — forerunners of today's catalog stores — were opened as an experiment to stimulate mail order buying. These exhibits were located in Marysville, Kan., Little Falls, Minn., and Plymouth, Ind.

In Plymouth, the people were not content merely to look, but insisted on buying the samples. Thus, Wards' first retail store was born. In 1930 Wards held their first Ward Week Sale. It has since become a traditional, twice-a-year, event, nation-wide in scope.

Today, the firm has grown into a nation-wide business with 516 retail stores, 712 catalog stores, nine mail order houses and five major distribution centers serving customers all over the world.

Not only did Montgomery Ward lay the foundation for one of the world's greatest merchandising successes, but he revolutionized retail trade throughout the country.

With Woolworth, who created the "five and ten," and Wanamaker, who originated the department store, Montgomery Ward stands out as one of the Big Three who changed the buying habits of the nation.

Mr. Ward died in 1913, but the company still follows the policies he laid down in 1872.

Ward's Has Airline TV In Black and White- Color

The greatest selection and variety of Airline television sets in history will be offered customers at Montgomery Ward's new Colorado Springs store, Alfred Dorner, manager of the applaince department, said.

"Ward's Airline brand is the second oldest continually used name in the home enectronic equipment industry," Dorner declared.

All Airline TV sets are individually designed by and for Montogomery Ward. The individual styling is evident in the different style - price groups which feature as many as seven different wood finishes.

"Airline consoles have the finest cabinet design and workmanship," he said. "Our wide selection of distinctive, tasteful period and contemporary models has been custom-build by experts."

To insure the quality of television reception, every model bearing the Airline label has undergone months of rigid tests for excellence in performance before arriving at Ward's new Colorado Springs store.

The factory which manufacturers Airline television for Wards is the largest television manufacturer in the country to make sets under private labels. The sets are tested both in the manufacturer's laboratories and in Ward's own Bureau of Standards Testing Laboratory in Chicago.

Ward's staff of experienced engineers and technicians test for about 100 critical performance factors, run comparision tests, and check new developments in the industry.

The newest addition to the airline family is a series of color television receivers. There are four styles and finishes available in both contemporary and Early American cabinets.

"Whether it is a console or a portable, black and white or color, the Airline name on a television set is a guarantee of quality, value, dependability, and service," Dorner said.

Airline quality is backed by Ward's 90 year old guarantee of "Satisfaction guarenteed or your money back." A year guarantee on the picture tube and all other tubes is included in Airline television sets, in addition to 90-day service on all parts and labor at no extra charge.

"And fast, dependable parts and service facilities are as near to Ward's Colorado Springs customers as their telephone," he said. "Our television service specialists have been trained by Ward's national service program, and are kept up to date on the latest developments through manuals, reports, and refresher courses," Dorner concluded.

MW Service Department Highlight of New Store

"If the day arrives when a space capsule is brought in for an overhaul, we'll be able and willing to handle the job," says Francis Daniels, service department manager at Montogomery Ward's new Colorado Springs Store.

All new with 100 per cent modern equipment, the service department is one of the highlights of the new Wards.

Ward officials say the local service facilities "incorporate the newest techniques in repair equipment and in analysis of appliance trouble, and will provide maximum service for customers in accord with the company's policy of 'satisfaction guaranteed or your money back!'"

Service capabilities in the new department range from the sharpening of rotary and reel-type lawn mowers to repairing complicated pumps on farms. A modern testing tank designed especially to test outboard motors under simulated lake and stream conditions has been installed.

Modern electronics testing equipment for television sets is now in operation and an automatic tube analyser will enable customers to test their own TV and radio tubes if they so desire.

The service department now has more than 4,000 different repair parts in stock. A complete assortment of TV and radio tubes, and hi-fi phonograph needles is also available.

The latest equipment makes it possible for Ward's servicemen to repair all types of gasoline engines. The new store's service department is an authorized BRIGGS & Stratton engine repair service center.

Modern facilities are on hand for repairs to heating and pump systems, and an expert crew is available to perform installation services.

The department also handles TV antenna installations as a special customer service.

Complete gun repair service is available from a crew of gun experts who provide maximum craftsmanship. Factory service is also available on specialized items.

In addition to the broad and complete service facilities offered by Ward's new Colorado Springs store, the service department draws upon the expert knowledge of engineers in the company's engineering centers located throughout the country.

And Ward customers are offered extended protection against unexpected repair bills through the purchase of Ward Service Contracts which include both parts and labor for repair jobs. Appliances which can be covered include refrigerators, freezers, clothes dryers automatic washers, air conditioners, TV sets, hi-fi's, and stereos.

"We are placing maximum emphasis on our service departments and are proud of the facilities we have in our new Colorado Springs store," Daniels states. "They will help us extend the type of expert service needed to assure customer satisfaction and back our own guarantee on our own merchandise."

More Miracles Expected From Remarkable Laser

In simplest terms, a laser is an electronic device which amplifies light and emits it in a narrow beam, with such control that it can take the film off your teeth without touching the enamel, strip paint off a piece of furniture without harming the wood.

It also has been used to drill teeth, burning away decay so fast the patient feels no pain, and to weld retinas back on to eyeballs before the patient can flinch.

The letters of the word "laser" stond for "light amplification by stimulated emision of radiation." It's a take-off from the earlier word "maser," which stands for "microwave amplification," etc.

Maiman gives full credit to the maser and its inventor, Dr. Charles H. Townes, for the principle that electromagnetic radiations can be emitted in close-packed parallel beams—instead of scattering in all directions as light and radio waves ordinarily do.

Townes succeeded in doing this with microwave—very short wave—frequencies, but neither he nor a number of other scientists could find a material that would do this with visible frequencies.

Maiman was the first to find a practical material.

It was synthetic ruby, crystal which many other researchers had rejected because, theoretically, it wouldn't work.

Early tests indicated that ruby was only 1 per cent efficient.

"But I had a hunch," says Maiman, "that other people were not investigating ruby thoroughly."

Maiman, working at Howard Hughes' big research laboratory at Malibu at the time, recalls: "There was a lot of pressure on me from my superiors because I kept working with ruby when recognized experts in the field said it was foolish.

"But those people were trying to stimulate ruby continuously, which meant a build up of heat that ruby couldn't stand. I thought of rapidly pulsing the light, exciting the material with flash lamps. This gave a higher peak power in bursts and let the ruby rest in between pulses.

"The result was a laser that didn't have to be cooled with helium or nitrogen, that worked at room temperature, a small device that was portable."

Under these conditions, ruby turned out to be 70 per cent efficient.

Maiman announced his laser in July 1960. In April 1961 he left Hughes to become vice president of a small research firm, Quantatron, and in October 1962 formed Korad, Inc.

Korad is a division of Union Carbide, whose Linde division is a major producer of synthetic rubies and sapphires.

"We're not stopping with ruby, however," Maiman says. "We know it has limitations and we are constantly hunting new materials, even those that have to be cooled."

Maiman was born Theodore Harold Maiman in Los Angeles. He won his B.S. at the University of Colorado in three years, switched to Stanford for his masters and took his Ph. D.

PAINTINGS STOLEN

PARIS (AP) —Four modern paintings valued at about $40,000 have been stolen from the Galliera Museum, police reported Friday night.

CATALOG TELETYPE—Marie Marker operates the Ward's Catalog Department teletype which will aid personnel of the new store in securing the most rapid delivery possible of items ordered by customers. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

New Ward Store to Offer Quick Delivery on Orders

"For the first time in this area, customers are offered same-day delivery on most of the 130,000 items available thru Ward's catalog," Don Graham, operating manager, said in discussing some of the services of Ward's new store on East Pikes Peak Avenue.

Orders placed before 11 a.m. at the store's catalog sales department or by telephone are relayed to Ward's catalog house in Denver by teletype. Minutes later they are being filled, placed on waiting Wardfleet trucks and rushed to Colorado Springs.

The trucks arrive at Colorado Springs at 3:30 p.m. The merchandise is checked in and ready for customers by 4 p.m. the same day the orders were placed, Graham reported.

Orders placed after 11 a.m. are also handled by teletype, ready for customer pick-up by 4 p.m. next day, Graham continued.

"This places the world's largest store only a few hours away," said Graham. "In fact, customers may make their selections right at home, telephone them to Wards before 11 a.m. and pick them up by 3:30 p.m. the same day. I believe that all of Colorado Springs will welcome this streamlined convenience."

New Demonstrations Feared in Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The death of an antidiscrimination state executive order—prompted by a civil rights stall in the legislation—drew word today that demonstrations are virtually set in Kentucky.

The order, issued by then Gov. Bert Combs 8½ months ago, barred discrimination in state-licensed places of public accommodations. Almost no concrete integration move was taken under it, but it brought a storm of controversy.

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt rescinded the order after a last-ditch attempt had failed to get a public accommodations bill out of the House Rules Committee in the state legislature. Breathitt had said he would kill the order when the Legislature acted on the bill which he backed.

Frank Stanley Jr., general chairman of Allied Organizations for Civil Rights, major backer of the rights bill, said demonstrations are fairly definite throughout Kentucky.

Stanley said that although the executive order had not been enforced widely, "it did represent some legal protection to Negroes in Kentucky" and did set out a state policy opposing discrimination.

Eisenhower Will Visit, Colorado, Gov. Love Reports

DENVER (AP) — Former President Dwight Eisenhower plans to visit Colorado, Gov. John Love said Monday as he returned to his desk from a 10 day vacation.

Love saw the president in California during the trip.

"He will be here," the Republican governor said at a news conference, "but I don't know when. He has a great feeling about Colorado."

Denver was the girlhood home of Mrs. Eisenhower. It was the place where the president launched his 1952 drive for the Republican presidential nomination and it was in Denver that he suffered his 1955 heart attack. He recuperated from the illness at Fitzsimons General Hospital.

The former president, Love said, is interested in the political scene but Love declined to quote any of the comments about politics made by Eisenhower.

The governor said his own feeling is that the Republican presidential nomination now is a wide open race. He declined to comment when asked if he felt Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona may have lost ground in Colorado as the result of finishing behind Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge in the New Hampshire primary. Love pointed out that he has been outside the state since the New Hampshire vote last week.

He also offered no comment when reporters asked him if the New Hampshire result strengthened the drive for a first ballot favorite son vote for Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado.

Love said he still is thinking of a special legislative session in mid April and emphasized he wants to hold it to consideration of realigning the state's congressional districts.

Responding to another question, Love indicated he has little choice but to sign the three cent a package cigarette tax despite protests from municipalities who claim it will shut off a potential source of revenue from them.

The governor said he would look at correspondence from cities protesting the tax but added, "I don't have any plan to veto it, certainly."

Love indicated that when the Legislature refused to extend the state tax on property—expiring after this year — that there was no alternative but to get money from some source.

Buffalo Papers Hike News Stand Prices

The Buffalo Courier-Express said Sunday its Sunday edition will be sold for 25 cents a copy starting March 22. The current price of the morning newspaper is 20 cents.

The Courier-Express joined the afternoon newspapers, the Buffalo Evening News, in raising daily editions from 7 to 8 cents. The Courier-Express will begin selling daily copies for 8 cents next Monday.

The News today put into effect the 8-cent price and has announced that the weekend (Saturday) editions will be sold for 15 cents—a 5-cent boost—starting March 21.

AUCKLAND — Foreign investment is on the rise in New Zealand.

LATEST FASHIONS — Women in the Pikes Peak Region will have no problem in securing the latest New York fashions at the new Montgomery Ward Store. Buyers for the company are constantly on the alert for new fashions and keep them flowing in a steady stream to the Colorado Springs store. The fashion department's slogan might well be, "Made in New York today, worn in Colorado Springs tomorrow." Mrs. Martha Carroll, right, fashion manager, shows some of the latest styles to Edith Biehl, another store employe.

Ward's Catalog Store Closes Its Doors Today

Ward's Catalog Store, located at 10 E. Pikes Peak Ave., will close as of today, Coyle Davis, retail store manager, announced. All of the services of the catalog store will be transferred to Wards new retail store on East Pikes Peak Avenue, effective with the opening of that store.

Time payment accounts will be transferred, and credit customers may make payments at the new retail store, or mail them to the store. Retail or catalog purchases may be added to the transferred accounts.

Repair service on appliances and other items purchased thru the catalog store will be handled at the new retail store. The same warranties will be honored, and Wards standing assurance of "Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back" will apply fully.

"Actually we are providing every service offered by our former catalog store, and more," said Davis. "The 'plus' is a large store full of fresh new merchandise for immediate selection. The catalog department is expected to be one of the most active departments in Ward's new retail store."

Arctic Ocean Expedition Lures Men for Six Months

By IRA DRYSDALE

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP) — Perhaps the lure of the north has found its way into the blood of surveyors and seamen who chart the waters of the Canadian Arctic.

This could be one explanation of what draws men to a job that separates them from civilization for half the year.

The hydrographic ship Baffin, pride of Canada's seven - ship charting fleet, has gone north each summer since her launching. Members of her 102-man crew are quick to tell of the drawbacks. It's goodby to the wife and kids, television, liquor and girls for five or six months.

The hours are long under the midnight sun. The work day is about 17 hours, seven days a week.

Russel G. Melanson of Ottawa, hydrographic officer in charge of the Baffin, and H. Barrie Macdonald, his senior assistant, say, however, this work load is one that helps maintain harmony aboard ship in the north.

Interviewed at sea while the Baffin charted waters off Nova Scotia's eastern shore, the senior officers tried to explain why they choose this sort of life.

Melanson, 40, says he would not be content working a five-day office week. The tall, dark-haired, pipe — smoking hydrographer is happy away from reports of the world's troubles.

Macdonald, 27, likes working in a land "where no man has surveyed . . . coming up with information no man has come up with before."

Hydrographic ships, operating under the Mines and Technical Surveys Department, sometimes survey areas at the request of interests contemplating industrial projects, perhaps the tapping of oil or ore deposits.

Charting also is done for defense establishments, to update maps of coastal areas for fishing and shipping industries and simply to give Canada information on water routes which someday may be used.

Recreation aboard the Baffin is largely self-made. The men play cards, throw darts, read and watch movies. The crew prints a newspaper called the Baffin Baffler and operates a radio with broadcasts two days a week.

Clean sheets each week for 102 bunks and the everyday wash takes a lot of water. The Baffin doesn't carry enough but D. F. Duggan of Halifax, 51-year-old laundryman, uses salt water mixed with chemicals and detergents to produce a wash he claims is cleaner than most done with fresh water ashore. The salt is blown out in the drying.

The Baffin must carry all her food since only Eskimos may hunt northern animals.

"Sometimes we drop nets over the side and catch fresh fish but you can't depend on that," says chief steward Tom Boyd of Dartmouth, N.S., a seamen for 45 years.

The stores he's responsible for getting aboard include 6,000 pounds of steak and 4,000 loaves of bread.

Recreation Pool Authorized by Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed today a bill authorizing use of water from the San Juan-Chama unit of the Colorado River project for a recreation pool at Cochiti Reservoir in New Mexico.

The bill would authorize the secretary of the Interior to make available 50,000 acre-feet of San Juan River water for the initial filling of a pool of 1,200 surface acres in the Cochiti Reservoir. It would also authorize the use of 5,000 acre-feet of water annually to offset evaporation.

Allott, Scott Blast Government Secrecy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sens. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa., annoyed over the secrecy surrounding development of the A11 jet interceptor, said Sunday the Administration was treating Congress as if it were a little boy who should be told only what's good for him.

The senators, in a television interview, questioned how the Pentagon could hide in its budget development funds used for four years to produce the 2,000 mile-an-hour aircraft.

"I wonder how many more secrets there are," Scott said, "where the Congress is treated not as the authorizing and appropriating body, but is treated like you would treat a little boy when you feel that something isn't good for him to have."

Complete Planning Service Is Available to Customers

Complete planning and engineering assistance for persons will be available thru Montgomery Ward's new Colorado Springs store, according to Coyle Davis, manager.

Customers will have a one-stop shop for the merchandise and services needed in home improvements. The work may be financed by Ward's own home-improvement plan or thru FHA loan arrangements.

The home-improvement service staff uses the full facilities of Ward's customer engineering service staff of Kansas City. There, work drawings, blueprints, and methods are checked and approved. All approved plans will comply with local and state regulations.

Here's how the customer engineering service enters into the home improvement plan: Ward's local representative goes over the materials and work needed in installing the home improvements.

A Ward's man then measures and sketches the job for the home owner's approval.

The approved measurements and sketches, with a complete report on the job, are sent to the Kansas City customer engineering service office where the technical staff examines the plans and prepares the work drawings, materials, lists, and methods.

Key Committee Chairmen Are Appointed

DENVER (AP)—Two veteran Republican state senators, Paul Wenke of Fort Collins and Frank L. Gill of Hillrose, were named chairmen of key committees today as the Colorado Legislative Council organized for the coming year.

Wenke was named to head a 13-member committee which will study the funeral industry and also will determine whether state laws are strong enough to protect consumers against promotional activities.

Gill was named to head a 22-member committee which will study the state's water problems, including both surface streams and underground water.

The possibility was opened up that the water committee may be enlarged still further.

Rep. Ruth Clark, R-Fort Collins, was chosen to head a 12-member committee studying all phases of education, including possible revision of the basic law for state aid to schools. The committee is, in effect, an outgrowth of the committee which she also headed last year which studied codification of school laws.

Rep. William O. Lennox, R-Colorado Springs, will remain as chairman of the council's committee studying state institutions, Rep. Norman Ohlson, R-Colorado Springs, will head a committee studying motor vehicle driver licensing and Rep. John Nichols, R-Simla, will head a group studying uniform commercial codes.

Several of the council's committees were appointed last year on a 2-year basis. Sen. Floyd Oliver, D-Greeley, will continue as chairman of the Committee on Administrative Organization of State Government; Sen. Ed Byrne, D-Denver, will remain as head of the Criminal Code Committee; Rep. Clarence Quinlan, R-Antonito, will continue to head the Local Election Laws Committee; Rep. Clark remains in charge of the educational endeavor committee; Gill will be in charge agin of a committee studying tax exempt property; and Nichols stays as head of the Lien Laws Committee.

Rep. C. P. (Doc) Lamb, R-Brush, remains as head of the council.

Probation Is Asked In Marijuana Case

BOULDER (AP) — Mrs. Karolyn K. Stark, 20, pleaded no contest today to a charge of using marijuana.

Three other counts were dismissed by Dist. Judge William E. Buck. Her attorney asked for probation and the court set a hearing for April 20.

Nine of 11 other persons charged with possession and use of marijuana heard their cases continued to March 30. One is David G. Stark, 19, husband of Mrs. Stark. They said they were married Feb. 26. Most of the defendants are University of Colorado students.

CUSTOM MIX COLORS — The new Montgomery Ward store which opens Wednesday features a completely new concept in interior and exterior paints which gives the customer the exact shade he wants. With its Style House custom mix color program, Ward's can match your color choice exactly from a selection of exterior and interior paint products. Robert Vitale, paint department manager, looks over some of the material which will enable him to meet customers' requirements.

Paints Feature Custom-Mixed Fashion Colors

New walls and woodwork can complement furnishings perfectly thru Ward's paint department which offers 1650 custom-mixed fashion colors, according to department manager, Robert Vitale.

Ward's selector and harmonizer books take all the guesswork out of selecting the proper tint or shade. The books show decorator - approved combinations and offer suggestions based on room areas, ceiling heights and lighting,Vitale said.

When a customer selects any of the 1650 colors, they are precision-mixed immediately on Ward's color mix machine. Record cards are prepared, and the customer may return at any time and get the exact shades purchased originally.

Ward's large paint department offers a complete selection of finishes, assessories, extension ladder, and other needs of the home decorator. Expert advice is available without obligation.

The paint department is adjacent to Ward's large home improvement center.

By SHEILA WALSH

ROME (UPI) — About 1,800 years ago the young daughter of a Roman official died in Egypt and was brought back to Rome to be laid to rest with her toys and jewels in a marble tomb.

Police were called and, on a legal technicality, the small mummy was taken to the morgue.

Doctors and archeologists pieced together part of the riddle posed by the construction workers discovery. The find was unusual since the ancient Romans did not follow the Egyptian practice of mummifying their dead.

The mummy, less than four feet long, a delicate gold necklace around her neck, a gold ring on the withered little finger of her left hand, lay on a table in the lecture theater of the Institute of Forensic Medicine where the experts held a press conference.

Prof. Cesare Gerin, director of the Institute, said that from x-ray evidence on the bone and tooth development, the girl was eight years old when she died.

The mummy's arms were swathed in double layers of fine bandages which, after 1,800 years, still gave off a strong odor of eucalyptus from the aromatic substance used in the mummification process.

Gerin said the aromatic, resinous substance was being analyzed "but we expect it to be one already known to Egyptologists."

He said there were no signs of wounds or injuries on the body. X-rays showed thin white lines on her leg bones that might be interpreted to mean she once had suffered from rickets.

Gerin said the cause of death was unknown and would probably remain unknown as he had no intention of dissecting the mummy.

"This child would want to return to the shadows and peace," he said.

The body was remarkably well preserved, according to Gerin, and it still was possible to see, despite the brownish color of the mummy, the structure of a delicately beautiful face.

Rome's Superintendent of Antiquities, Prof. A. L. Pietrogrande, said the child had been buried in the Roman manner and that her tomb was in the style of the second century A.D.

The ring on the girl's little finger was of gold, carved with a figure of Victory. Her delicately designed necklace was of gold alternated with dark blue stones. Her ears were pierced and she wore tiny gold rings in them.

Gerin said the theory that she was the daughter of a Roman official serving in Egypt seemed to fit the facts. Although Romans did not usually use mummification, it might have been necessary in order to transport the body back to Rome.

Gerin said the body would be turned over to the Superintendent of Antiquities and probably would be displayed in a museum.

Hoffa Takes Case to Court of Appeals

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —James R. Hoffa now takes his case to the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals, having gone through the technicality of asking for, and being denied a new trial on a jury-fixing conviction.

U.S. Dist. Judge Frank Wilson denied Hoffa's new-trial motion Saturday. But the president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters already had announced he would appeal all the way, if necessary, to the supreme court.

Hoffa has been sentenced to 8 years in prison and fined $10,000 for trying to fix the jury that heard his 1962 Nashville conspiracy trial.

Many Thousand Items Available At Ward Store

It would take a store about the size of Grand Central Station in New York, according to Coyle Davis, manager of Montgomery Ward's new store on East Pikes Peak Avenue, to stock the thousands of different items that shoppers can purchase at Wards.

Making this number of items available to Colorado Springs area shoppers is the province of the modern catalog order department.

"Should a customer fail to find what she wants on our counters," Davis says, "she merely has to go to our catalog order department and make her selections with the help of trained clerks, from the company's general and special catalogs."

The catalog expert will take the order and sent it by teletype to Wards catalog order house in Denver. Orders placed before 11 a.m. will be delivered to the Colorado Springs store and ready for the customer to pick up the same day.

Legionnaire Faces Trouble Over 'Reds'

DENVER (UPI)—A Boulder, Colo., Legionnaire was in trouble with the commander of the Colorado Department of the American Legion today because of his campaigns opposing a sale of Communist-made goods.

E. Dean Hunter of Peetz, the department commander, said he would move to have Legionnaire John A. Gay of the Boulder post removed "for disloyalty to the American Legion."

Gay, 37, already has been fired as chairman of the post's Americanism committee and co-editor of the post newsletter because of his stand against the use of Yugoslavian-made cable at a Titan I missile site near Denver. He also sponsored a motion to survey Boulder businesses which sold Communist-made good, the results of which were to be publicized.

Hunter charged Gay with seeking publicity and self-aggrandizement and said such a resolution was impossible to implement and not in the best interest of the American Legion.

Wallace Says Segregation Will Continue

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Gov. George C. Wallace says the Justice Department's request for a statewide school desegregation order was expected. But he said he believes Alabama will continue to have segregated schools.

"They have done only what we expected them to," he said Friday. "But I think we are going to have segregation in the public schools in Alabama as they have in most states in the union. I see where they are marching in New York."

Wallace's statements at a news conference came after the Justice Department had asked a three-judge federal court to require Alabama to desegregate its school system.

The Justice Department, in addition to statewide desegregation, asked the court to:

1. Enjoin Wallace from interfering with court-ordered desegregation anywhere in Alabama. In the past the governor has used state troopers to delay the enrollment of Negroes in previously all-white schools.

2. Rule that the state's school-placement law is illegally administered because, the Justice Department said, local boards use racial criteria in enforcing the law.

3. Prohibit the state from giving tuition grants to white pupils who attend private schools rather than go to public schools with Negroes.

UNUSUAL ART

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Kurt Lehman sorts through thousands of pieces of driftwood each month in search for forms or likenesses that can be made into other replicas of nature. To him, driftwood is an art — and his tiny shop bears witness to his talent. It is filled with birds, animals, ornaments and storybook characters — each one an intricate combination of several pieces of driftwood.

Lehman will not tell how he puts the pieces of driftwood together. He says only that it took many years to perfect. Art experts have appraised "The Crucifixion," a driftwood reproduction made from three separate pieces of wood at $10,000 . . . but it's not for sale.

Times Have Changed

The 1882 Montgomery Ward catalog offered a two-pound canned ham for only 50 cents. Salt, in 1882, sold for $1.25 a barrel and pepper was 19 cents a pound in 115-pound sacks in the Ward catalog.

Models Became Stars

Several models who have appeared in Montgomery Ward catalogs have gone on to stardom in Hollywood. Among them are Susan Hayward, Mona Freeman, Lauren BaCall, Joan Caulfield, Sandra Dee, Tuesday Weld, Millie Perkins, and Linda Christian.

Staffing Store Major Task For Personnel

"When Ward's new store opens on Wednesday, more than 225 persons will be on duty, trained and ready to welcome and serve customers," said Mrs. S. Seyfried, personnel manager. This includes 175 regulars and 50 or more part-time extras.

Mrs. Seyfried has been on the job since Jan. 1, interviewing applicants and setting up the selling and non-selling organization of the new store.

Of the people selected, more than 95 per cent are from the immediate Colorado Springs area, according to Mrs. Seyfried.

All persons employed have gone thru two weeks of specialized training under the direction of James Dowdy. As a result, they are well infomed on Ward policies, methods and merchandise, ready to supply prompt, efficient service, Mrs. Seyfried added.

New Uncertainty Seen in Wheat Market of U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reports from producing areas indicate there may be considerable grower uncertainty as to how the nation's wheat markets would operate if the administration's wheat-cotton bill is enacted into law.

The bill was passed by the Senate lats week and is awaiting House action on Senate amendments to an earlier House-approved measure.

If the new plan becomes effective, markets would operate solely on the basis of the basic price support, which would be $1.30 a bushel on a national average for all wheat compared with $1.82 for the 1963 crop.

Wheat grown by a farmer who did not cooperate with the new program would compete freely with wheat grown by a cooperator. A cooperator would be one who planted within his Agriculture Department - assigned acreage allotment. The non-cooperators' wheat could be bought by a domestic miller for milling into flour along with wheat grown by a cooperator. Premiums and discounts prevailing in the markets for various grades of wheat would apply equally to grain produced by both.

The only difference would show up in their dealings with the agricultuer department. Cooperators would get supplementary payments from the department on their share of the wheat earmarked for domestic food use and export. The payment on domestically used wheat would be 70 cents a bushel and that on export wheat [illegible] cents.

Funds for making these payments would be collected by the department from millers and exporters. Millers would have to buy 70-cent-a-bushel certificates — a method of paying a processing tax—for each bushel used for domestic food markets.

Exporters would have to buy 25-cent-a-bushel certificates on the amount of wheat designated for export under the program. The certificates would be bought from the department.

Paris Avenue Named For John F. Kennedy

PARIS (UPI) — A broad stretch of tree-lined road along the River Seine, formerly the Quai de Passy, was officially named "Avenue du President Kennedy" today in memory of the late President of the United States.

Mrs. Rose Kennedy, John F. Kennedy's mother, was among a crowd of about 300 persons who stood silently in cold, overcast weather, as Mayor Jean Auburtin of Paris unveiled a simple sign to re-name the street.

11 Persons Sentenced In Morocco Conspiracy

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Eleven persons were sentenced to death today by a court trying 102 Moroccans on charges of plotting to kill King Hassan II and seize power. The government announced last August that the plot had been uncovered and blocked the previous month.

FLOWERS FOR MEN

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — An ingenious Durban florist came up with a new gimmick — bunches of flowers for men — and the idea is proving surprisingly successful.

Mrs. Vida Waggott got the idea when she was asked for some flowers to send to a man in the hospital. She decided to make up special "masculine" arrangements in sturdy beer tankards, novelty bottles and giant ashtrays that could never be considered "sissy."

Some of the younger male patients didn't like the idea and thought it was effeminate to receive flowers.

Turkey Claims Tourists Were Too Many

By JOHN LAWTON

ISTANBUL (UPI) — Turkey is in the possibly unique position of having had too many tourists last year. So this year, while still welcoming the tourist dollar, it is not going all-out to attract visitors.

A 90 per cent increase in the number of foreign visitors during 1963 was too much for the country's facilities. The State Planning Organization had prepared for 200,000 tourists last year. Instead, 300,000 — the estimated total for 1966—turned up.

For this reason, Turkey has decided to soft-pedal its publicity abroad this year.

"An all-out publicity campaign would have unfavorable results on our touristic development," explained Minister of Tourism Ali Ihsan Gogus. "To attract too many tourists before we have adequate facilities will not serve our purpose."

Development of the tourist industry has become a top priority in Turkey. Although the country has all the natural ingredients of a tourists' paradise, there are still too few hotels, good roads and other facilities. To speed up touristic development, a co-ordinating committee of the ministries concerned is to be set up at cabinet level.

The Ministry of Tourism which is not yet a year old, is Ankara's fastest growing Ministry. "Our aim is to set an example and act as vanguard to the private sector," said Gogus.

Easier credit facilities and tax exemptions are proposed to encourage private investment in tourism. By the end of this year tourist sleeping accommodation is expected to have increased by 70 per cent. Two vacation villages, costing $333,333, are to be set up at Edremit and Marmaris, and camping sites are being prepared in hundreds of other coastal villages.

Plans have been drawn up for improving roads and ferry services in the coastal regions of Marmara, Aegean and Antalya, and laws drafted to prevent destruction of beaches and beauty spots.

Tourism also presents Turkey with a national social problem. Outside of the major cities tourists are something new to the Turks. One of the main tasks of the Government is to educate the people in their attitude towards foreign visitors who no longer are only the rich.

Radio programs on tourism are broadcast regularly, and a brochure entitled "Who and What is a Tourist?" has been distributed throughout the country. Some Turkish tourist associations are assisting in the education program by giving lectures and loud-speaker addresses in towns and villages in their locality.

The training of hotel and restuarant staffs also is being tackled at national level. Hotel schools are being set up at Toleyis, Sinop, Kizilcahamam and Denizli, and American experts are helping extend the curriculum at existing training centers. The National Student Federation is doing its bit by organizing amateur guide - interpreter courses, and providing visitors to Istanbul with a free guide service.

The Tourist Police are being re-organized and strengthened, and crimes committed against tourists carry a severe punishment.

Festivals are being organized and the Government is encouraging the development of local handicrafts, folklore and cuisine.

THE COMMON COLD IS COMMON

The season for sore throats and runny noses is still with us. The incidence of colds is no joking matter, considering the statistics on absenteeism. The American people have a billion colds a year, which cause a loss of 80 million work days in industry and more than 110 million school days annually.

The common cold often includes a large group of upper respiratory infections. There are remedies galore but no cure. More is known about ways to avoid colds and how to treat or prevent complications such as pneumonia, ear infections, and sinusitis.

The cuasative agents exist in the throat and nasal secretions. They are transmitted to others through sneezing, kissing, and the common use of towels, drinking glasses, and other freshly contaminated objects. The disease is most contagious just prior to and during the first few days of the illness. This means the victim can pass on the infection before he realizes he has it.

We hear much about preventive vaccines but those developed for upper respiratory infections are not as effective as the vaccines against other contagious diseases. The same applies to preventive medications. Other ineffective recommendations include gargles, vitamins and cold baths and other toughening procedures.

Our best bet is to avoid those suffering from colds. This is not easy but with a little luck we may be successful. Keep your distance when anyone coughs, sneezes, or pulls out a handkerchief to blow the nose. When colds are rife, stay away from crowds, particularly those in places of amusement. Wash the hand frequently, especially before eating and after touching a person with a cold. Don't use a towel or an eating utensil that might have been contaminated with the causative virus.

Maintaining good general health also helps. Eat a well balanced diet, get ample sleep, and avoid fatigue. Too much smoking and drinking increases susceptibility. Should these measures fail, and the bug gets you, go to bed.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

Barometric Changes

Mrs. E. S. writes: What would cause terrific earaches prior to rain or snow? They disappear when the storm arrives.

Reply

In many persons with chronic congestion in back of the throat, the infected tissues swell with changes in weather. This in turn blocks the eustachian tubes of the ears and is responsible for aching.

Doesn't Matter

C. M. writes: Is it better to have the menopause come suddenly or gradually?

Reply

Both have their advantages. The body adjusts better to a gradual change. The beauty of an abrupt menopause for many women is that "it is over," especially when there are no side effects.

Teary Farewells

J. T. writes: Can an emotional person do anything to keep from crying when she says good-by to visitors?

Reply

There is no harm in bidding your friends an emotional good-by. But crying can be minimized by developing more poise and sophistication.

Valve Surgery

Mrs. O. writes: Is it safe for a woman with a rheumatic heart to start having a family?

Reply

Yes—thanks to heart surgery, in which the scarred valves are replaced or reconstructed.

Achievement Finalists Named by Quarterbacks

The eighth annual Sports Achievement Award of the Colorado Springs' Quarterback Club will be given next Monday at the club's regular meeting at the Candlelight Inn.

The list of candidates was trimmed to five finalists by the club's board of directors, amending the original list chosen by a selection committee. The directors deleted former World Boxing Champion Charles (Sonny) Liston from the semi-finalists after the Denver resident was arrested for speeding.

The winner will be named next Monday noon from the finalists. Those five in alphabetical order are as follows:

JUDY BELL, local golfer who won the Trans-Mississippi tournament in Denver last summer and who is listed eighth in the country among amateur women.

TERRY ISAACSON, Air Force Academy quarterback who set 14 school records last fall and a two-time All-America in collegiate wrestling.

BILLY JOE, Denver Bronco's fullback who was "Rookie of the Year" in the American Football League last fall.

BEN MARTIN, A former winner of the Sports Achievement Award, who surprised many fans by coaching the Air Force Academy football team to a 7-3 season this past fall.

RUSSELL (SOX) WALSETH, University of Colorado basketball coach whose teams have won the Big Eight Conference title for two straight years before this winter. This season he was picked as "Coach of the Year" in the Big Eight as his Buffs finished second.

Winners of this award over the past seven years have been the Jenkins brothers, Hayes Allen and David, who won in 1956 and 1959 respectively after completing a sweep of figure skating titles in the National, World and Olympic championships; Bob Stransky, All-America halfback at Colorado U. and 1957 winner; Martin, who coached the Air Force Academy to an undefeated season in 1958; Joe Romig, All-America guard at Colorado U. and the only two-time award winner with victories in 1960 and '61; and last year's Sports Achievement winner, Jack Faulkner, coach of the Denver Broncos.

The club Monday voted to donate $400 of a reserve savings fund to help the summer American Legion Junior Baseball program which is desperately looking for sponsors. The Legion league is expected to have four regional teams this year in the "A" division and the money from the Quarterback Club will be used to help pay for new uniforms.

Businessmen who wish to contribute in sponsorship to the program were urged to contact either Ed Richardson at the Legion or Moe Rollert at the City Recreation office.

The money is to be taken from a savings account which was accumulated several years ago when the QB Club held an annual Service Bowl football game between teams from Ft. Carson and the Air Force.

"Since I did most of the work to raise this money," club president Don Kupfer said, "I think I should have something to say about using it, and this seems like a good cause."

Kupfer also asked that the annual dues for the Quarterback Club be increased from $1 to $5 since all the money in the current treasury has been depleted for running expenses under the recent administration. The couple dozen members in attendance voted in favor of the increase, deciding for the more than 200 members of the club.

In the past three years the membership has slipped to about half of what it had been and regular attendance has been similarly low.

Hornung, Karras to Try To Fill Voids They Left

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Halfback Paul Hornung will get a second chance to show his second effort for the Green Bay Packers.

And Alex Karras gets a crack at filling the big hole in the defensive line of the Detroit Lions that he left there last year.

Both Hornung and Karras, set down indefinitely last April 17 for betting on National Football League games, have been renstated.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who handed down the suspensions, lifted them Monday with a statement that emphasized that neither man had been charged with betting against his own team or not giving his best in every game.

Rozelle added that the conduct of Hornung and Karras was taken into consideration in the lifting of the suspension.

Hornung said he would start in May to get his legs back in shape for the 1964 season. The Packers, three-time Western Conference winners until last season, fell to second behind the Chicago Bears in the 1963 campaign.

Hornung's shoes never were filled satisfactorily. The former Notre Dame Golden Boy, famed for his second effort running, sharp blocking and threat as a passing halfback, also was the team's leading plaec kicker.

He led the league in scoring for three straight seasons and holds the scoring record.

The Lions also fell off with Karras out of action. The 250-pound tackle was the standout in what was probably the league's best defensive line. The Lions never did find a replacement.

Hornung had said all along that he had done wrong and deserved to be punished. He continued to fill speaking engagements and broadcast some high school games in his home town of Louisville, Ky.

Hornung said he now weighs 221 pounds, about six pounds over his playing weight.

Karras at first was bitter about his suspension, and he balked at suggestions that he sell his interest in a Detroit bar which police said was a hangout for hoodlums. Eventually he sold, and moved his family to Clinton, Iowa.

"I don't feel like I used to feel about the suspension," he said Monday. "I'll be a real tiger out there on the field this fall."

George Wilson, the Detroit coach, said Karras was ther 2''best defensive tackle in the league," and h'ell be glad to have him back.

Vince Lombardi, coach of the Packers, said he would be happy to have Hornung back, and added he "will not be traded." There have been several rumored trades for Hornung, but Lombardi has denied all of them.

The new season will be the seventh pro campaign for Hornung, who is 28, and the sixth for Karras, who is 29.

Liston Slated For Court Hearing, June 9

DENVER (UPI) — Deposed heavyweight champion Sonny Liston has a date in Denver Municipal Court June 9 to answer four traffic charges and one accusing him of carrying concealed weapon.

Liston pleaded innocent to the charges Monday through his attorney and asked Judge Dan Diamond for a jury trial. Liston was not present in court, but made his plea through attorney Donald L. Lozow.

The four traffic charges include speeding, careless driving, reckless driving and driving without a valid operator's license.

Strong Rebounding Clubs Clash In NIT Quarter-Final Contests

NEW YORK (AP) — Something has to give when Drake and New Mexico collide tonight in a National Invitation Tournament quarter-final test and it may be the Madison Square Garden ceiling.

The Drake and New Mexico jumping jacks, tallest of the NIT's original 12-team field, figure to do some fancy leaping in tonight's basketball doubleheader opener. Army tackles Duquesne in the nightcap, with the survivors joining New York University and Bradley in Thursday night's semifinals.

The Bulldogs-Lobos summit has the makings of an ideal match-up. Drake, from the classy Missouri Valley Conference, and New Mexico's Western Athletic Conference co-champions have much in common — including the tourney's strongest backboard arrays.

"We grind 'em down," Drake Coach Maurice John said last Saturday after 6-foot-4 Gene West (27 points), 6-6 McCoy McLemore (19 rebounds), 6-10 Larry Prins and Co. hurtled Pitt 87-82 in a first-round game.

"They (Drake) have a big, strong club," said New Mexico pilot Bob King, an Iowa native and one-time Drake graduate student, after watching the Bulldogs outscore Pitt. "But we should be able to rebound with them."

The Lobos, in fact, can rebound with anybody. Utah was the only regular season foe to beat New Mexico off the boards and the Lobos buried the Utes under a 52-18 rebounding bulge in a return meeting.

Ira (The Large) Harge, a 6-8 pivotman whom WAC coaches have compared favorably with Bill Russell, is the Lobos' leader. Harge heads up a starting five whose average height of 6-5 is an inch shorter than Drake's.

Both clubs are defense minded and both work off a deliberate offensive pattern. The Lobos led the nation defensively, allowing opponents an average of 56 points per game. Drake's average yield was 61 points.

Terrors' Cinder Squad To Open Season Friday

(Editor's note: This is the fourth in a series of articles reviewing spring sports prospects among the local high school teams.)

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Palmer's defending South Central League track and field champions will be first off the starting blocks this spring and may finish the same way when conference competition concludes, at least according to rival SCL coaches.

Bill Westbay, who guided the Terrors to the conference crown a year ago, has nine lettermen to build around in his quest for a second straight title. Palmer will open the campaign Friday afternoon in a dual meet at Longmont.

Westbay predicts that his 1964 edition will not have the balance of the squad a year ago, which was one of the finest all-around groups to represent the league in recent seasons. The Terrors will probably be suffering from a lack of sprinters which is a disease which threatens to affect the entire conference this spring.

The Terrors have four top returnees from last year's champions in pole vaulter Bob McCoy, high-jumper Dennis Rice, 440 man, Alan Snyder, and hurdler Bobby Joe Williams. Another standout, distance man Ed Ventsam, moved away after lettering last year.

Other lettermen are Dennis Bair, who competes in the broad jump and hurdles; distance man Jesse Martinez; Ken Nelson who runs the distances; and Tom Risbry who is also a distance man.

In addition the Terrors have a pair of talented brothers who should add considerable depth to the team's long distance running, one of the weak spots in recent seasons. Gene and Jim Sietz transferred in from Illinois where they competed in the distance events with above-average success.

Losses from the fine squad of a year ago were considerable. Sprinter Gene Small was one of the tops in the area at 100 and 220 yards. Broad - jumper Charlie Newton was third in the state meet last spring and those two, plus Precious Thomas and Doug Swayne, made up the Tribe's outstanding sprint relay teams. Also gone is weight-man Fred Gloss, quarter-miler Jim Lindsey, pole-vaulter Norm Murray, distance-runner Ed Ornelas, and hurdler Dave Steward.

Westbay said this week that he had a turnout of around 80 for the squad but has not been able to come up with much of an overall picture of his prospects due to the limited opportunities to work outdoors recently. Help is expected from what appears to be a better-than-average sophomore group but just how much is one of the questionmarks at present.

Pikes Peak Relays to Have Finest Field in History

The Pikes Peak Relays, annually one of the premium track and field events in Southern Colorado, will have its finest field in history this spring when the 16 select teams converge on Wasson Stadium Sat., Apr. 4.

Coach Jim Hartman of Wasson has revealed that a new lineup of teams in the AA division will bring several of the state's finest athletes here. In an effort toward inproving the event, meet oficials dropped several of the schools who have sent only partial teams in the past and were then able to replace them with outstanding entires from the north.

Back after a two year absence will be Denver Manual, the defending state champion. Also back on the roles is East Denver, a team that won this event in its only appearance in 1960. Both are expected to be among the top track powers in Colorado this spring.

Other new entries in the AAA field are Iver-Ranum, a surging power in upstate track and field circles, and Aurora Hinkley, a school expected to make a strong bid for supremecy in the Northern League.

Joining these four will be the four top track schools from the South Central League, Palmer, Wasson, Pueblo Central, and Pueblo South. Centennial and Pueblo East, which have entered only partial squads in the past, will not return.

The A division will also have what appears to be its strongest field with the addition of Cheyenne Mountain, the defending Pikes Peak League champion. Joining the Indians will be regulars Air Academy High, Florence, Fountain, Harrison, Salida, St. Mary's, and Widefield.

The meet is limited to eight teams in each division so that the eight lane Wasson track can accomodate the entire field in one heat. As in the past all events will be scored on a relay basis. This includes the field events where each school will enter a four man team and the best combined performance will determine the winner. Records, however, are kept on both a team and individual basis.

Meet officials decided on the earlier date this year so as not to conflict with the big meets in the North which follow later in the month. This made it possible to bring the Denver schools back into the fold. The Relays will again be run on Saturday afternoon where ocld weather is not as likely to interfere. The PPR started as a mid-week nighttime affair.

As an example of the individuals who will be performing here, the field willw include J.D. Carig who led East Denver to the State basketball championship last weekend. Craig is also an outstanding high - jumper, having cleared better than 6-4 at the state meet last spring.

There will also be an exceptional field of distance runners, including state mile champion, Larry Sciacco of Iver-Ranum, Wasson's Jeff Berven, and state 880 champ, Don Cooper of Manual. Sciacca churned the mile in 4:32.6 last spring and Berven had a clocking of right at 4:33 while finishing third in that same event. Cooper won the 880 at state in 1:58.9.

The pole vault field will also be a fine one with Gary Gehlhof off Pueblo Central and Bob McCoy of Palmer as standouts. Both are capable of 13 feet.

AFA Hurdlers Set National Mark

Coach Arne Arnesen's Air Force Academy track team set school history Saturday as the Falcon shuttle hurdle relay team sped to a first place finish in the Kansas State Relays, in the winning time of :28.9 — and in doing so, established a new American record. It is the first time in the short AFA sports history that a Falcon squad has held a national record of any kind.

The Cadets' time of :28.9 broke theold record of :29.4 which was set by neighboring Colorado University in 1963.

In winning, Murphy outdistanced Emporia (Kan.) State Teachers' Ireland Sloan, who only a week earlier, won the National Federation two-mile Championship in Milwaukee.

To make Murphy's performance all the more outstanding, he won the two-mile shortly after running an anchor mile for the distance medley relay team in 4:16.1. It was the second time this winter that Murphy, a Chicago native, has been under nine minutes for two miles. At the Western NCAA Indoor Championships, Jim posted the nation's best indoor time of the season when he covered the distance in 8:50.5.

Other Falcon performances of note included a fifth place in the shot put by Ken Clark with a toss of 49-9, a second and fourth place in the 1,000-yard run by Dave Brown and Bob Foley, respectively; a third place in the 75-yard high hurdles by Dave Dick; a tie for third in the high jump by Bob Lambert at 6-4; and a fifth place in the pole vault by Greg Miheve at 13-6.

In relay events, the Falcons copped third in the distance medley and fourth in the two-mile, to cap one of the most successful indoor relay meets in AFA history.

Unranked Wildcats Like Role

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Kansas State is the only team in the semifinals of the NCAA basketball championship that didn't achieve a high national rating this season and Coach Tex Winter is just as happy it worked out that way.

"No, I don't complain about that," Winter said by telephone from Manhattan, Kan., today. "Let 'em have the high ratings —and the pressure that goes with it."

The others in Friday night's semifinals are UCLA, Michigan and Duke, who finished one, two, three in the final Associated Press poll. Kansas State was not ranked.

"We were No. 1 all season once," Winter recalled, "and I know the pressure that can put on you. There's enough pressure built into this thing (the NCAA championships) that we don't need any more.

"I'm glad to let 'em have the high ratings."

The year he referred to was 1959 when his Wildcats compiled a 25-2 record and finished in the No. 1 spot, only to lose to Cincinnati for the midwest regional championship.

This year the Wildcats put together a 22-5 mark in winning the Big Eight title and the Midwest Regional. They'll play John Wooden's swift, unbeaten, UCLA team, 28-0, in the nightcap Friday. Michigan, Big Ten co-champ, 22-4 plays Atlantic Coast Conference champion Duke, 25-4, in the first game.

None of the four semifinalists ever has won before. Kansas State came the closest, reaching the final game before losing to Kentucky 68-58 in 1951.

UCLA is making its sixth NCAA appearance. Its highest previous appearance was fourth in 1962. Duke was third last year. Michigan hasn't been in the tourney since 1948.

McIntire to Compete In Western Open

PENSACOLA, Fla. — Barbara McIntire of Colorado Springs and the Broadmoor Golf Club will be among the leading amateurs entered in the 35th annual Women's Western Invitational Open Championship here March 19-22. The nation's top-flight distaff golfers, both porfessional and amateur, will be competing.

The tournament will be played at Scenic Hills Country Club and will be the first western open ever held in Florida. It will also be the first major tournament for Scenic Hills, a comparative newcomer in Pensacola's complex of golf courses.

Leading professionals who have entered include Betsy Rawls, Kathy Whitworth, Clifford Ann Creel and Ruth Jessen. Patty Berg is expected, but has not formally entered here.

Many golfers from nearby areas will have Jo Ann Grentice and Marlene Hagge, of nearby Perdido Bay Country club, and Mary Mills of Biloxi, Miss., as gallery fans. Pros from various clubs in other parts of the South also will enter.

Other leading amateurs who have entered include Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Miss McIntire of Colorado Springs, and Nancy Roth, Florida amateur champion. Golfers from nearly all clubs in Alabama and West Florida, and many from Georgia, Mississippi, and several other states, also have entered.

Twenty-seven officers and directors of the Women's Western Golf association and 10 state representatives will be here, some to officiate, and all to discuss association business.

76ers Nip Warriors In NBA Play

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain's temper could prove costly to the San Francisco Warriors.

A technical foul on The Big Dipper gave Philadelphia's Hal Greer the opportunity to sink a free throw with one second left, giving the 76ers a 111-110 victory over the Warriors Monday night at the Cow Palace.

Chamberlain had bounced the ball down in what most of the crowd thought was anger over hitting only one of two free throw attempts in the waning seconds as he knotted the score at 110-110. It turned out Wilt was angry because a teammate called time out when the club had used up all six allowable time outs.

The Philadelphia victory kept alive the St. Louis Hawks' slim hope of winning the Western Division title in the National Basketball Association.

HOPE TO COMPETE FOR U.S. IN OLYMPICS — These are four long distance runners who will be in competition to represent the United States at the Olympics in Tokyo in October. From left are Gerry Lindgren, 18, of Spokane, Wash., a sentimental favorite in the 5,000; Buddy Edelen of Sioux Falls, S.D., in the 10,000 meter or marathon; Vic Zwolak of Villanova, the 5,000 or 10,000 meters; and Dyrol Burleson Eugene, Ore., the 1,500 meter. O'Hara, Beatty Give Yanks Olympic Threat

By DICK BARNES

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The United States hasn't won an Olympic gold medal from 1,500 meters up since 1908—but that string of futility could be erased in 1964 by Tom O'Hara or Jim Beatty.

O'Hara is the 21-year-old arm flailer from Loyola of Chicago who surprised with his 3:56.9 mile in the National AAU meet least year and has battered the indoor mile record this winter.

His rapid improvement causes some experts to foresee a world record by O'Hara this year—and that would put him among the favorites for the Olympic 1,500.

Beatty has been pointing for the Tokyo 5,000 ever since his flop at the 1960 Olympics. His spotty competitive record is balanced by his recently broken world two-mile record, strong 5,000-meter times and experience. If fit, he could win.

Veterans Dyrol Burleson, sixth in the '60 Games, and Cary Weisiger figure to give O'Hara strong backing—if not a beating — in the 1,500. That threesome is probably the toughest for any longshot U.S. Olympic hopefuls to crack.

The 800, by contrast, is a fairly open event for American candidates but not one likely to produce a U.S. medal winner. Jim Dupree missed making the 1960 U.S. team by two inches but as the consistent recent U.S. leader, he shouldn't miss this time.

The most interesting threat could be Steve Haas, an Occidental sprinter who moved to 880 yards last year and ran 1:47.6 despite limited experience. Oregon Staters Morgan Groth and Norm Hoffman, Missouri's Robin Lingle and perhaps 1960 Olympian Ernie Cunliffe also are in the fight.

Veterans Buddy Edelen and Peter McArdle probably can qualify in the 10,000 or marathon. Jim Keefe of Central Connecticut, hot-and-cold Ron Larrieu and possibly Villanova's Vic Zwolak are threats in the 5,000 or 10,000.

A sentimental favorite in the 5,000—and quite likely a team member — will be 18-year-old Gerry Lindgren, the Spokane, Wash., high schooler who astounded the track world with his indoor performances this winter at two and three miles.

Bob Schul and Charlie Clark in the 5,000 and former Hungarian John Macy in the 10,000 are other definite contenders. decathlon.

AFA to Compete in Mat Tourney at Western State

Western State College in Gunnison will host the second annual Mountain Intercollegiate Wrestling Association tournament this Friday and Saturday with nine of the top wrestling teams in the west competing.

Last year's tourney was held at Colorado State College in Greeley and was termed "most successful" by MIWA officials. Western State won the event last year and has two returning champs this year in Bob Hollingshead at 130 pounds and Joe Kuhn at heavyweight. Other 1963 champs are Don Neff, 123, Colorado State College; Jim Deutsch, 137, Adams State; Jim Crider, 147, Colorado State; George Bruns, 177, Air Force Academy; and Ken Hines, 191, Colorado State University.

The tournament includes 10 weights, with weigh-in at 8:30 a.m., Friday. First round will start at 2:30 p.m., Friday with the second session at 7:30 p.m. the same day. Consolations will begin at 2:30 p.m., Saturday, with the championships beginning at 7:30 that evening.

Eligibility is set up under the 1964 University Division NCAA rules; every wrestler is subject to these rules. Also each wrestler must be certified by authorized faculty representative of his college.

Teams competing are Adams State College, Air Force Academy, Colorado Mines, Colorado State College, Colorado State University, Denver University, Montana State College, Utah State University, and Western State College.

Two-time All-American wrestler and All-American football player, Terry Isaacson, will participate for A.F.A., along with Van Doughty, 1963 national champ, 130; Ken Hines, 1963 MIWA champ, 191; and Jack Flasche, 1962 national champ, 157. Flasche is undefeated in college wrestling.

The tournament will be held in the Mountaineer gymnasium in Gunnison.

Broadmoor Ski Club Takes Slalom Titles

Barbara Haser took first place in Class 5 for girls; in Class 4 for boys Jamie Knowlton was first, Arvie Lee Erickson second, and Rickie Erickson third.

In Class 3 for boys, Kenny Adams was first and Tracy Hames third. Gretl Kramer was first in Class 3 for girls. In Class 2 for girls, Debby Haser took second.

Big Horn Bow Hunters Tourney

Competing in the fourth and next-to-last week of the state mail-in tournament were members of the Big Horn Bow Hunters archery club this past week at the National Guard Armory.

The Archers have been divided into five classes for men and women. Men shooting scores up to 524 in the Chicago round are placed in the 450 class. Those shooting from 525 to 599 are in the 525 class. From 600 to 674 is the 600 class, while from 675 to 749 is the 675 class.

The toy class of 750 for those shooting 750 and up. A perfect score in the Chicago Round is 864. When an archer shoots two scores in a higher class, he is automatically placed in that new class.

The high scores shot in the various classes in the fourth week of the tournament were: Men's 750 Class: 1.Mike Steger, 810. Men's 675 Class: 1. Dave Higby, 728; 2. Terry Rickard, 718; 3. Chuck Wertz, 710. Men's 600 Class: 1. Tom Stanko, 623. Men's 525 Class: 1. Chuck Hubbard, 586; 2. Case Malmberg, 550; 3. Ken Stanko, 531. Men's 450 Class: 1. Frank Gimble, 536; 2. Leo Harlan, 506; 3. Jerry Totman, 215.

Women's 600 Class: 1. Barbara Steger, 566. Women's 450 Class: 1. Eleanor Wertz, 433.

Several archers have a leg on a new class and are striving to move up. All persons interested in competing in archery are welcome to attend the practice sessions on Tuesday nights and the tournament shooting on Friday nights at the National Guard Armory. Shooting starts at 7:30 p.m. Qualified instructors are available.

The 1964 USGA Women's Open golf championship will be held at the San Diego Country Club, Chula Vista, Calif., July 9-11.

THE DEPENDABLES: SUCCESS CARS OF '64

When it comes to convertibles, Dodge has 'em . . . in spades. These are just two of them.

The differences? Dart, the Dodge on top, is a compact. And if you think it doesn't look compact, here are a few other surprises: It doesn't sit, ride or take off like most compacts! Dart's the large economy size compact. Roomy. Powerful. Nifty. Yet thrifty.

How about the Polara, below it? Yeah, how about that. Full vinyl upholstery. A snap down center armrest in front. A selection of power plants few cars at the price can come close to. Price? That's the kicker! This full-size Dodge is priced model for model with Ford and Chevy.

BOWLING

Breaks Tourney Jinx

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Harry (Ike) Eichelberger, the foremost successful tournament bowler last season, is back in the limelight again after a five-month jinx.

The Air Force warrant officer led the field of nine Colorado keglers who won berths in the 96-man pro field for the forthcoming $25,000 Denver PBA Open Bowling Tournament, April 1-4, last weekend at Celebrity Lanes in Denver.

HARRY (IKE) EICHELBERGER
Back in Limelight

* * *

Eichelberger registered a 4755 for 20 games of head-to-head competition including 50 bonus pins for each game won. He posted 14 victories during the 20-game outing. Eichelberger hit for a 247 single high game and averaged 202 for the 20 games.

Others who qualified from an original field of 91 were Bill Eckhart, La Junta, 4649; Al Perry, 4642; Jerry Pluto, 4563; Mike Boulder, 4520; Hank Koonse, 4516; Kelly Watson, 4481; and Allen Hall, 4457.

The nine state bowlers will compete in the Denver PBA Open against the 86 touring professional keglers in the April 1-4 firing at Celebrity Lanes. The state pros include promoter Dick Archer, Les Schissler, Gus Deutsch, Jerry McClary, and Bob Poole of Pueblo.

Jim Pee, the best of the young bowler corps this season, fired a 1060 to win the Colorado Bowling Stars Association tournament a week ago last Sunday at Varsity Lanes for his first CBS victory. This was the Ent AFB airman's second attempt in CBS competition.

Three other Colorado Springs keglers paced in the money with Pete Kay placing fifth with 1009, followed by Bill Giese with 998, and Kelly Watson with 996. There were 83 bowlers entered in the tournament.

ABC TOURNAMENT — As of last Wednesday, the All-Coast team from Vancouver leads the American Bowling Congress tourney competition conducted Oalkland, Calif., with a 3055 series. In the regular singles, Nick Junker of Stillwater, Minn., leads with a 685.

George Fleischhacker of Phoenix hit for a 668 to pace the classic all-events with a 1928 Arizona bowler took the lead in the classic all-vents with a 1928 set. In the regular all-events, Frank Williams' 1945 series is the highest record while Pat Russo and Tony Russo of Paramus, N.J., hit for a 1343 to take the lead in the regular doubles. Ed Riggs and John Rebol of San Jose, Calif., paved the way in the classic doubles with 1242.

The tourney concludes April 26.

800 SERIES SHOOTERS — February was the biggest month of the season for the nation's 800 series shooters. Six of the 26 super sets were reported during the year's shortest month with Chicago star Pete Tountas setting the pace with 827, highest so far in 1963-64.

Tountas, who captured fourth place in the 1963 ABC Masters tourney in Buffalo, ended a draught of 800s in the Windy City when he pounded out games of 280, 268, and 279 on Feb. 17. This was the first 800 count for Chicago since 1958 when Don Ellis, now of Houston, rapped out 812 in the All-Star circuit.

TOP GAL SCORERS — Nine gals have beaten the 1,200,00-to-one-odds in posting the magic "300" perfect game this bowling season.

Janet Harman of LaMirada, Calif., leads the high individual series scored during 1963-64 with a whopping 792. LaVerne Carter, wife of the foremost professional bowler Don Carter, follows with a 741 set.

FOUNTAIN VALLEY BOWL —Van Adams, bowling in the Security Guys and Dolls League, fired a 289 single scratch game to record the highest tally last week thurout the local area.

Paul Cowden's 638 scratch set took the limelight while competing in that same loop. Other scores: Al LeCuyer, 255 and 629 series; Lew Sampson, 621; Ralph Eaton, 614; Murry Helton, 605; and Jim Hair, 617 paced by a 247 single tilt.

For the gals, Lori Thompson paved the way with a 226 game while bowling in the Fountain Valley Morning Belles League.

For the boys, Rich Anderson's 657 set took high honors followed by Don Fortman with 647. Fortman tallied a 262 game while Danny Brunson hit for a 252.

PEAK BOWL — There were three all-spare games recorded last week with Sis Knight leading the way with a 185, followed by Grace Tuttle with a 184 and Eta Diller with a 165. Nancy Fowler, bowling in the Early Risers League, posted triplicate games of 114.

Dot Kuhlman outpaced the gals with a 608 scratch series paced by a 235 in the Fire Ball League. Other scores: Merriam Johnson, 225; Glenna Maki, 608; Vi Steel, 210; and Mickey Brittian, 205.

Bill Boyd and Betty Bohn won the Scotch Doubles over a field of 28 entries with a 642 series.

CLASSIC BOWL — Glen DePriest fired a 246 single scratch tilt to highlight last week's bowling in the Eagles League.

CIRCLE LANES — Buck Varnell outpaced 134 bowlers entered in the handicap division when he posted a 681 set. Art Alirez placed second with 658, followed by John Duncan with 652.

In the scratch division, Jim Pee's 639 set topped the 69 keglers entered in that division. Chuck Starnes and Lew Vance tied with 622.

Pee fired a 259 to win the single scratch game division while he teamed up with Kay to win the optional doubles via a 1240 set.

In league competition, James Paulila hit for a 625 scratch series while bowling in the Circle Progressive League. Twelve-year-old Terry Smith blasted the tenpins for a remarkable 241 scratch game to highlight the junior bowling. Ronnie Haines posted a 214 single tally.

UTE LANES — Larry Berridge fired a 637 scratch series in the "900" League while Gary Coleman and Ben Carr each tallied that same score in the "850" League.

Tony Droter's 243 single game was high in the "850" loop. For the gals, Lois Coepland rolled a 235 game in the Ute Ladies Classic league. And Woody Gentzel posted a 222 single game in the junior league.

Otha and Irene Gish fired a 692 set to win the Scotch Doubles.

Luckless Roger Craig Receives No Support

By SHELDON SAKOWTIZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

The uniform read Cardinals but you couldn't blame Roger Craig for thinking he was back with the New York Mets.

Craig made his first outing of the spring training baseball season Monday with his new club and it was the same old story —good pitching on his part but no hitting support from his teammates.

Roger pitched three scoreless frames, allowing no hits, but the Cards failed to get him a run. St. Louis eventually won the game, 6-2, for its third straight Grapefruit League victory.

Over the winter Craig was hopeful that a change of scenery and uniforms might improve his record and his luck. With the Mets in 1963, Craig was victimized by lack of batting punch, something the Cards have in abundance but didn't display during his three-inning stint.

The 33-year-old hurler had a dismal 5-22 record last season, including 18 straight defeats, tying a National League mark. The Mets failed to score a run for him in 10 starts, five of which were 1-0 games. Eleven times he lost by one run.

Lew Burdette followed Craig to the mound and was the winning pitcher while Bobby Shantz finished up.

Craig didn't win, but Craig lost. The losing pitcher for Detroit was rookie Pete Craig, who gave up sixth-inning home runs by Gerry Buchek and Jeoff Long. Roger was taking a shower by then.

The Mets received outfielder George Altman and rookie pitcher Bill Wakefield in exchange for Craig, and Altman went on a batting rampage for New York Monday. The southpaw slugger lashed out three triples and drove in four runs as the Mets and Philadelphia Phils played a 9-9 tie, called by agreement after 11 innings.

Elsewhere on the citrus and cactus circuits:

Milwaukee turned in its second straight shutout, blanking Baltimore 1-0 behind the two-hit pitching of Denny Lemaster, Bob Sadowski and Bob Tiefenauer. . . The Yankees won their first game under Manager Yogi Berra, 5-0 whitewashing of Houston, with Bill Stafford, Rollie Sheldon, Steve Hamilton and Tom Metcalf holding the Colts to one hit. . . Washington nipped Kansas City 3-2 as Jim King homered.

Floyd Robinson hit a grand-slam home run with two out in the ninth to give the White Sox a 5-4 victory over Pittsburgh. . . Homers by Art Shamsky and Johnny Edwards triggered Cincinnati to a 7-6 10-inning verdict over Minnesota. . . The Angels won their third in a row and sixth in nine starts in whipping the Cubs 12-5 and Bill Monbouquette's six scoreless innings featured Boston's 5-4 verdict over Cleveland.

Look Ladies! Mets Will Give Stamps

By JIM BECKER

NEW YORK (AP)—When you lose 111 games, you've got to do something.

Like get some outfielders, a shortstop and a catcher or two. Or give away trading stamps.

Supermarket customers are going to get 2.5 million trading stamps in a big drawing in connection with the Mets opening game at their new stadium on April 17.

Another 5,000 customers will get free tickets for the opening game. And 24 will get season passes.

"I'll take two pounds of broccoli, a quart of slivivitz and three frozen pizzas, please. And don't forget the trading stamps."

"No trading stamps today, lady. You are the lucky winner of a ticket to the opening game of the New York Mets, instead."

"Either give me the stamps or take back the broccoli."

"Lady, I said you win a free ticket to the Mets instead of stamps. You are a winner in our big contest."

"That's second prize? What do you get if you win first prize. I'm almost afraid to ask."

"Why a season pass to the Mets, lady."

"I think they've got that mixed up worse than a Casey Stengel sentence. The losers should have to go see the Mets, not the winners. Last year they lost 111 games. The year before it was 120. They never should have farmed out Marvelous Mar Throneberry. Give me my stamps or take back the pizzas."

"Take it easy, lady. You can win stamps all during the season. We're running a weekly contest, too. All you have to do is guess what the Mets record will be every week."

"That's a contest? Last year they lost 22 straight on the road. If you run a contest like that, there is going to be a three million-way tie for first among all the people who guess .000."

"We're also running a contest for guessing the batting average for the week of the leading Met."

"Well, that's more like it. I'll enter that one. And I hope I win so I can give my stamps to Casey Stengel."

"Why Casey, lady?"

Denver Icers Play Rensselaer In Tourney

DENVER (AP)—Denver University seeking its fourth NCAA Ice Hockey championship, will meet Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at 8 p.m. Thursday in the opening game of the annual tournament.

Michigan and Providence College, the other two entrants, will play Friday night, and the two winners will meet at 8 p.m. Saturday for the title. Consolation finals will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Games will be in the Denver University arena.

Michigan, which lost to Denver Saturday in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association championships, has won six national titles. Providence is champion and RPI the other representative of the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference. Eastern teams have won only two titles in the 17-year history of the NCAA tournament.

BARGAIN

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals acquired Rogers Hornsby for $400 in 1915 and in 1929 he was acquired by the Chicago Cubs for five players and $200,000.

Check it out. You'll find Muirhead's price is so low it's almost unbelievable. The secret? Muirhead's is brought over in barrels! You save on taxes and shipping costs. Otherwise, you'd pay up to $2 more a fifth for this light, fine quality Scotch. Muirhead's. Try it.

Looking At Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

HOLLYWOOD — Hollywood's image — what's left of it — took a nose dive at the Foreign Press awards event, which was televised here and will be syndicated for distribution around the world. Nowadays when we disgrace ourselves, we let the the world watch. I've attended many of these things, but I saw this shambles on TV. Shirley MacLaine, who knocked herself out performing for Khrushchev on his visit here, must have dragged out an old can-can costume to wear when she distinguished herself again as she accepted an award for best actress in "Irma La Douce." She told how she went to Paris to research the part, liked what she saw, and almost gave up acting. They cut her off the air, but not in time. . . . Few of the winners were present. The stars who presented awards tried to pad their parts and act cute. It wasn't funny. They got envelopes mixed up; couldn't even pronounce the winners' names. One girl came shining thru with distinction Julie ("My Fair Lady") Andrews.

One of Cecil de Mille's unfinished projects was the story of Lord Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scouts. De Mille worked on the research five years. Now that property has been taken over by Sol Siegel, and the movie will be made in London and Africa (interiors here) with D. A. Doran assisting. The title is "The Sun Never Sets." Lord Robert gave up a successful military career to found the Scouts. I remember one jamboree in Yankee stadium where 75,000 boys assembled. Powell was a great man and his story will live in the hearts of boys grown into men the rest of their lives.

Bob Preston's parents are visiting their son in New York. His mother, who was longing for Bob to reconcile with his wife, called 1963 "the year that was." She's anxious to see him in "Nobody Loves an Albatross." In July Preston starts rehearsing "Ben Franklin' in Paris," a musical. "Isn't he a bit young for that 72-year-old?" I asked. "Yes," said his mother, "but he likes those parts. When he was 18 he played Gilbert to Dana Andrews' Sullivan at Pasadena Playhouse. They were too young then."

The producers of "Ride the Wild Surf," being made in Hawaii, were lucky to be able to sign the swimming champion, Murray Rose, who won three Gold medals at the Olympics in Rome and three more in Australia. You're bound to see some fancy swimming and surfing. He'll probably do the stunts for Fabian, Tab Hunter, Peter Brown and the rest of 'em. . . . Vincent Price goes to Richmond, Va., to be named collector of the year by the museum which is displaying 30 of his top treasures. They'll give him a gourmet dinner. Then to Worcester, Mass., to lecture about Van Gogh. He's set for three more films this year but they've been delayed. Vince is delighted because he and Mary are writing a gourmet cookbook. . . . Betty Bloomingdale (her husband is Mr. Diner's Club) entertained her 13-year-old daughter's Marymount school chums Saturday night at her home with dinner, "The Miracle of the White Stallions," and records of the Beatles.

Guild Sponsors Famous Artist's Lecture at FAC

The appearance, in a lecture, by the nationally famous artist, Henry Koerner, is being sponsored by the Colorado Springs Art Guild, at 8 p.m., Wednesday, in the Music Room of the Fine Arts Center.

The Art Guild officials announced that the Guild is honored in having the rare privilege of sponsoring a lecture with slides by the Vienna-born artist.

At the present, Koerner is artist-in-residence at the Fine Arts Center for the month of March, in order to lecture, teach and paint. This program was made possible under a grant by the Ford Foundation, administered thru the American Federation of Arts.

During Koerner's visit, 30 of his paintings and 20 drawings by the Time magazine cover artist are on exhibit in the Fine Arts Center.

REACTIVATION

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Alan Young, star on the "Mister Ed" CBS-TV series, has reactivated his film production company. He's opening offices and plans to film a feature movie, "Boswell Barclay."

A TYPICAL STORY...

"This was the first time we had ever had to call a funeral director so of course everything was new and strange to us.

"We called Swan Funeral Home because a friend of ours recommended you to us, and we were more than pleased with your services. You did a lot more for us than we expected you to. In fact, we were amazed that so many details were taken care of for us.

"We were especially satisfied with your charges. We had to watch the expenses and we were able to choose a service that cost exactly what we wanted to spend.

"We would recommend Swan Funeral Home to any of our family or friends."

Chicago Seminary Establishes CC Fellowship

Designed to enable a graduate of Colorado College to attend the seminary for one year, the Fellowship provides a stipend of up to $2,000.

"In recognition of the excellent candidates for the Bachelor of Divinity degree that our Seminary has received from Colorado College in the past and in anticipation that more such candidates will be appearing in this and coming years," President Schomer said, "the Seminary has voted to establish a Colorado College Prize Entrance Fellowship."

President Schomer said the seminary recently made a survey of the college background of outstanding Seminary graduates over the past 30 years.

He said the conclusion was that "Colorado College is one of the six liberal arts colleges to which the Seminary owes some of its ablest students of the period studied."

Serving on the selection committee with President Worner are Dean Kenneth J. Curran, Professors Kenneth Burton and Douglas Fox of the religion department, Professor J. Glenn Gray of the philosophy department and Professor Neale R. Reinitz of the English department.

Professor Burton, chairman of the department of religion at Colorado College, estimated that an average of two graduates each year embark upon post graduate work leading to the ministry, or other full time professional religious work.

Area Author Wins Second In Book Contest

Mrs. Marian McIntyre McDonough of Palmer Lake, Colorado has been notified that her manuscript, "Trot! Gallop! Charge!" has won Second Prize in Division five of the Juvenile Book Contest of the National League of American Pen Women.

This division is for book manuscripts written for young people from twelve through sixteen years.

Mrs. McDonough is a member of the Pikes Peak Branch and her prize will be awarded at the League's Biennial Convention at the Statler-Hilton Hotel in Washington, D.C., April 11-15, at the Letters Awards luncheon on the closing day.

A frequent contributor to the Colorado Springs Gazette Telegraph, Mrs. McDonough is the author of "Wagon Wheels to Denver" and six other juvenile books and has written for The American Home, Today's Family, Tradition, Montana, Contemporary, Twelve-Fifteen, Hi Way and other adult and juvenile magazines.

Serving as chairman for the Juvenile Book Contest was Marel Brown of Atlanta, Georgia, a long time member of the League who has served as a national historian and as national fifth vice president. She is the author of three books for children and over a period of years has written for all ages of young people.

Judges for the contest were three members of the Atlanta Library staff, all of whom have long years of experience in selecting books for young people for their library shelves.

Police Report Three Incidents Of Auto Damage

A $50 windshield in the car of Gary R. Cruts was broken Monday afternoon while the car was parked at 228 W. Cimarron St. Cruts, of 97 Norman Dr., Security, told police he saw three boys throwing rocks in the area where the car was parked shortly before discovering the damage.

Christ Capantos, 1324 N. Nevada Ave., told police the convertible top of his car was slashed Sunday night while the car was parked outside 121 E. Colorado Ave. Estimated damage was $56.

In the third case of vandalism, a pop bottle was apparently thrown from the Medalion Apartment Hotel onto the car of Sybil Estes, who lives at the Medalion.

The bottle hit the trunk of the car and dented it, police said. The damage occurred sometime between Saturday and Monday while the car was parked outside the building.

Girl Fined $6 For Driving Without License

A 15-year old girl, Freda Mae Atkinson, 3039 W. Bijou St. was fined $6 and costs by Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane Monday for driving without a valid operator's license. She was ticketed Wednesday on South Cascade Avenue by Police Officer A. W. Dalton.

Darwin Leslie Downey, 18, 2026 Eagle View was charged with driving too fast for conditions and not dimming his headlights on U. S. Highway 85-87 Feb. 23. The officer was State Patrolman Dan Morrissey and the fine $15 and costs.

Roland Alfred Therrien was fined $10 and costs for having expired license plates. Therrien, 21, of Holy Hall was ticketed March 3 by Police Officer E. L. Lans on North Nevada Avenue.

Cleveland Cue, 25, Ft. Carson, paid a $20 fine and costs for speeding. According to State Patrolman Carl Drake, the defendant was driving at 75 miles per hour in a 60 zone on Colorado Highway 115 Jan. 26.

Making a left turn from the wrong lane on Colorado Highway 115 March 1 cost Walter G. Ruppert, 34, 2613 W. Pikes Peak Ave. $24 and costs. The state patrolman was J. Fred Henderson.

State Patrolman Al Smith ticketed William Green Cruse, 28, Ft. Carson as he was knowingly driving a non-registered vehicle Feb. 16. The violation happened on U. S. Highway 85-87 and Cruse was fined $10 and costs.

Joseph Rogers Gurule, 22, 2328 W. Pikes Peak Ave. got a ticket from Police Officer G. Follmer for having expired license plates. The incident happened March 2 on West Colorado Avenue and a $10 fine and costs was imposed.

Parking on the paved portion of the highway on U. S. Highway 85-87 March 7 cost David Melvin Robery, 20, 321 S. 8th St., $10 and costs. The state patrolman was Arnold Ferrero.

John V. Oldnettle, 18, 1136 Rockwood Ave. received a summons from State Patrolman J. Fred Henderson for careless driving on Brookside Street March 8. He was fined $15 and costs.

James H. Ellis Dies At Local Hospital

James Hugh Ellis, a retired employe of Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Co., died Monday at a local hospital. He was 74.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday in Our Chapel of Memories with the Rev. George Smith officiating. Graveside services will be conducted in Evergreen Cemetery by Manitou Lodge 68, A.F. & A.M.

Pallbearers will be Charles Shadford, Bill Zorn, C. J. Norden, Hal Burnett, George Nankervis and Byron Thady.

Mr. Ellis was born Jan. 25, 1890, in Millersville, Mo. He had lived here since 1900. He was employed in switchboard maintenance for Mountain States for 35 years.

He was a veteran of World War I, serving from July, 1918, until May, 1919.

Mr. Ellis is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Georgia Jennings of Colorado Springs, and Mrs. Nancy Bement of El Monte, Calif., and cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George Cropley of Denver.

Mr. Ellis was a member of Manitou Lodge 68.

NEW DUTY—Illustrating the new use of Gray Ladies as dental assistants is Mrs. Anna Kralis on the right, who is working with Captain George Turner, Dental Corp, on Pfc. Joe Morgan at the Ft. Carson Hospital.

Gray Ladies, Nurses Aides Course Set by Red Cross

Another course for Volunteer Red Cross Gray Ladies and Nurses Aides will start on April 6 at the Pikes Peak Chapter House, 1600 North Cascade.

For the benefit of those not familiar with these volunteer programs, Gray Ladies assist in many capacities in the military hospitals, civilian nursing homes and in some cases, private homes.

Many opportunities are offered the volunteers, such as assistants in clinics, wards and offices.

They also visit military patients, many of whom are separated from their families and are particularly appreciative of the wards to help them pass the many hours of hospitalization.

The Gray Lady movement has been growing by leaps and bounds since it's inception. Patients in hospitals and homes have become used to seeing the pin-striped uniform and eagerly await their appearance to help with letters, books, shopping service and many other personal services.

Doctors, nurses and corpsmen also welcome the Gray Lady appearance since a patient's morale plays a vital part in his recovery.

A new addition to the Gray Lady program has recently become very popular. The dental clinics at the military installations have for some time been very short of dental assistants, which inevitably slows down their heavy schedules.

Some graduates of the last Gray Lady course were trained as dental assistants, but they are all too few in number.

There is an almost unlimited requirement for Gray Lady dental assistants, particularly at Ft. Carson, where there are three different clinics with a total of 43 dentists. Col. Bunnell, Ft. Carson dental surgeon, has expressed himself as highly pleased with the service rendered so far, and extremely anxious to have more Gray Ladies in this effort.

There are approximately 20 nursing homes in Colorado Springs and vicinity who are equally proud of their Gray Ladies. They perform essentially the same services as do the ladies in the military hospitals. In addition, their appearance at the homes is even a more welcome sight to the inhabitants since they tend to have fewer visitors and see fewer new faces.

In this endeavor, the Red Cross is particularly proud of it's two Gray Men who are enthusiastically welcomed by the men residents of the homes. These two men, who qualified in the last class have since started new jobs, but still find time to have piled up an impressive number of hours in visits to the nursing homes.

Men are more than welcome in this endeavor and seem to enjoy it tremendously. The geriatric program, as this service is called, could use many more of them.

Volunteer Nurses Aides mean exactly what the name implies. They are trained to assist nurses in taking temperatures, assist to move and bathe patients, give backrubs, adjust beds and perform any other varied duties.

Their course is, of necessity, a little longer than that of the Gray Lady and is somewhat more specialized. However, both services are of equal importance not only to patients but to hospital and nursing home personnel.

The Gray Lady course which starts on the 6th of April will be held initially at the Red Cross Chapter House at 1600 North Cascade and will run from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on the 6th, 8th, 10th and 13th. Thereafter, the on-the-job training will be conducted at the places where the graduates will work.

The volunteer Nurses Aides class will be held at the Ft. Carson Hospital with the same hours.

Interviews for persons who wish to attend either course will be held at the Chapter House or the Red Cross Field Director's office at the Ft. Carson Hospital on March 24 and 25 with one exception.

Interviews for Nurses Aides at the Chapter House will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on the 19th and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. on March 20. All other interviews will be conducted from 9-12 and 1-4 and will be by appointment.

All persons wishing to attend the course should call 632-3563 as soon as possible to arrange appointments, which should not take more than 15 minutes. Vacancies, with the exception of the dental program, are somewhat limited, so those interested should call as soon as possible.

April 2, a coffee will be held for all successful applicants at 9:45 a.m. at the Chapter House to allow them to meet our volunteer chairman and discuss the program more fully.

Vandals Damage Five Cars, Sheriff Reports

Five cases of malicious mischief, all involving cars, were reported to the sheriff's office Monday. Three of them happened in the vicinity of South Corona Steet.

The second incident was reported by Rose Witt, 2010 S. Corona St. One of the side doors in her car was also smashed.

Clovis Cates, 2014 S. Corona St. told Deputy Sheriff Bob Walters that the side window of his car had been broken with what appeared to be a hammer.

According to Deputy Walters, Ives heard a couple of thumps Sunday night and upon looking outside saw a car filled with boys pulling away. He thought nothing further of the matter until he discovered the damage Monday morning.

Bob Cicutte, an employe of the Ray Allen Manufacturing Co., 310 Tia Juana St. reported the final incident. He said the company's car had been parked on company property and that a rear-view mirror had been pulled off it.

LEONINE BEAR HUNTER

KELSO, Va. (AP) — Forty bears in 41 years of hunting. That's the record claimed by 72-year-old George L. Arrington, who recently bagged his 40th bear. Arrington says he used to bring in three bears at one time before there was a limit. Says his wife, "He has the nerve of a lion."

Judge Fines Man On Firearms Count Monday

Larr Kemper, 23, 428 E. Dale St., was convicted Monday in Municipal Court on a charge of discharging firearms and was fined $15 by Judge Allan Asher. The judge dismissed a disorderly conduct charge lodged against the man by Margaret Alderett, 746 N. Spruce St.

No disposition was made in a case of the barking dog violation filed against Dolores Douglas, 23, 519 E. Cache la Poudre St., by F. P. Hutchins, 515 E. Cache la Poudre St.

Instead, Judge Asher ruled that an investigation would be made by the Humane Society and ordered Mrs. Douglas to return to court on March 30.

Robert Johnson, 30, Ft. Carson, was found guilty on a drunk charge and fined $50. Johnson's attorney Jack Agee was given a 10-day stay of execution when he indicated he would appeal Judge Asher's verdict.

Graham offered his medical record as evidence that he was taking a "very strong tranquilizer" which he said had resulted in his condition when cited by Officer Donald Raney on Feb. 21.

He also offered as evidence a copy of Readers' Digest showing a marked article concerning the drug he was taking and its effects when combined with alcohol.

"I'm sure that's persuasive authority," Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac commented, "but we'll look at it."

Judge Asher advised the soldier that when taking any sort of drug, to find out first if he could drink also.

Graham said he didn't have a drinking problem, but had been on tranquilizers for the past two years.

A riotous conduct charge was dismissed against Floyd Galvadon, 24, 323 W. Fountain St., when Galvadon's wife Joyce failed to appear in court. The man said he knew nothing about the whereabouts of his wife.

Earnest Green, 29, 720 S. Corona St., disorderly and riotous conduct; Joseph Hunt, 24, 301 N. Walnut St., disorderly conduct, riotous conduct, breach of peace and drunk;

Jack Remington, 38, 1126 E. Moreno St., breach of peace and drunk; James Willy, 29, 1601 W. Vermijo St., riotous conduct and breach of peace, and Benjamin Sillix, 36, 2521 W. Cucharras St., riotous conduct, breach of peace.

Attorney George Silvola represented Sillix and entered a guilty plea to a charge of resisting police for Sillix who had previously pleaded not guilty.

Isaac recommended disposition on this charge be continued until a later date on condition Sillix seek medical aid. Silvola agreed to his recommendation and said his client would do so, and the judge set May 18 for Sillix's appearance in court to make a report on his treatment program.

Charges of riotous conduct, breach of peace and drunkenness were dismissed against Joseph Roy, 20, Carson, on the failure of the complaining witnes to appear in court.

Alice Sullivan, 40, 323 E. Boulder St., did not appear in court on charges of breach of peace and drunkenness and her $40 bond was ordered forfeited.

CU Receives Building Grant

The University of Colorado has received a $1,325,000 National Science Foundation (NSF) grant for use in construction of its new Engineering Center, President Joseph R. Smiley announced today.

It is the largest construction grant ever made to the University by NSF and is one of the largest made by NSF to any university for this type of facility. It was made on a matching basis with state funds and is to be used only for graduate and research facilities.

"This significant grant from the NSF is an indication of the national recognition of the progress made by the College of Engineering as an academic and research center," Dean Max S. Peters said.

He added, "The matching grant is an outstanding tribute to the stature of the engineering faculty, as well as the entire academic and administrative staff of the University."

Ground was broken in January for the $9.5 million Enginnering Center. The building is scheduled to be completed in 1965.

Judge Issues Warrants For Arrest of Three Men

Judge Allan Asher Monday in Municipal Court ordered warrants issued for the arrests of four men who failed to appear in court. He set their bonds at $25 each.

The four men are Eugene Mitguard, 40, The Timbers, charged with injury to private property and dunkenness; Johnnie Johnson, 23, 701 S. Tejon St., charged with riotous conduct and breach of peace;

Grace Johnson Dies; Rites in Iowa

Miss Grace D. Johnson, 90, died Sunday at her home, 1724 Wood Ave., following a three-year illness. For many years, Miss Johnson ran an interior decorating studio here.

Funeral services and burial will be in the Green Bay Cemetery near Osceola, Iowa. Webster Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements there and Swan Funeral Home has charge of local arrangements.

Miss Johnson was born March 8, 1874, in Green Bay, Iowa. She had been a resident here since 1900.

She attended Chicago Arts Institute and Simpson College. Miss Johnson was a charter member of Delta Delta Delta sorority at Simpson in Indianola, Iowa, and was a member of Kinnikinnick chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY

If you are willing to work hard for $200 and up per week, don't pass up this ad. If you are a person of average intelligence, neat appearance, own a car, and won't be satisfied with less than $200 a week, I want to talk to you. If you have previous experience selling vacuum cleaners, appliances, brushes, insurance, books or any other direct selling, we have an opening for you. Experience is not necessary. We give you a complete training. If you are able to open your mouth and talk to me, I will show you how easy it is to make up to $300 a week with this Company. If you are accepted, you will represent one of the best concerns in the country. You will be backed up by millions of dollars of advertising. You will be given qualified contacts to keep you busy constantly. This opportunity can create security for the rest of your life. Get in on the ground floor NOW. You owe it to yourself and your family to answer this ad. You have nothing to lose and everything to gain. Call Max Huff. 633-4649 9 to 12, 2 to 4.

CUSTOM SPLIT LEVEL
THE EXECUTIVE AND HIS FAMILY will be delighted with this prestige home. Only minutes from downtown Colorado Springs from its location in the NE area. The children can walk to Wasson High, Horace Mann Jr. High or Audubon Elementary School. It has 4 levels in all. On the main level you'll find the living room, dining room and large kitchen. Mom will enjoy the built-in dishwasher, wall oven with rotisserie, counter range top under hooded vent fan and the garabage disposal. The cabinets are finished in wood. The upper level with 3 large bedrooms is secluded for restful sleeping — and there are 2 colorful ceramic tiled baths to handle the morning rush. 7 steps lead you to the first sub-terranian level and the spacious family room with its wall of red and grey rock which accentuates the fireplace. For entertaining your guests there's the bar with built-in refrigerator and sink with hot and cold running water. A 4th bedroom and 3rd bath are also on this floor. The bottom level is Dad's hideaway, or the kids party room — this huge Poker room or Game room is also ideal for listening to Stereo. A Fallout shelter and storage room make up the remainder of this section of the house. The drapes stay and the wall to wall carpeting is of the finest quality. This is a total electrical home with radiant heat thermostatically controlled within each room. The extra lot is completely landscaped and is serviced by an underground sprinkler system. A 2 level patio is at the back. The features listed here are by no means all. To show this home to the family looking for value and pride of ownership would be our pleasure. This CUSTOM built Split Level goes for just $40,500.00 For more information call Ron Dostal at 392-8823 or

U. S. Aid Helps Red Poland To Convert to Industry

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

From 1957 through 1963 the United States sold Poland around $500 million worth of farm products, including sizable amounts of grain.

The grain went into Polish hams, which in turn went into Polish exports, becoming one of Poland's best earners of Western hard currency.

And in its turn the hard currency went into the machines needed by Poland in her headlong rush to convert an agricultural economy to an industrial one. That Poland has made progress under the system may be seen by a look at the nature of Polish exports.

In 1956, 75 per cent of Polish exports consisted of foodstuffs, raw materials and semi-finished goods.

By the end of 1963 the figure had fallen to 55 per cent with machines and industrial consumer goods increasing to 45 per cent. But the system depends upon an important "if."

WETHER BIG FACTOR

The "if" is the weather. A succession of two disappointing crop years and the severe winter of 1962-63 broke the cycle and the Polish economy began to slide toward stagnation. Transportation broke down, plants closed for lack of fuel and raw material. Unemployment rose and with it the discontent of Polish workers.

Consumer costs for coal, gas and electricity jumped 100 per cent.

The Central Committee of the Polish Communist Party has been wrestling with the problem of the troubled economy since last July and on June 15 is expected to present its economic plan for 1966-70 to a party congress. For the congress it will be the first meeting since 1959.

Major goals of the new five-year plan, according to party leader Wladyslaw Gomulka, will be creation of 1.5 million new jobs and elimination of the need to import grain for bread and animal fodder.

FAVORS STALINISM

Within the party he balances a right wing favoring a return to the hard line of Stalinism against "revisionists" arguing that to win the support of the masses the party must serve the popular interest.

The government opposes the Catholic Church, to which most Poles belong, and occasionally increases pressure against it but short of similar measures practised within the Soviet Union.

Free enterprise is permitted to an extent greater than in any other Communist-bloc nation. Official statistics show more than 15,000 privately operated retail stores in Poland.

Nearly 90 per cent of Poland's farmland is in private hands.

The Polish farmer is like the weather—easy to talk about but hard to change. Polish agriculture is the best of any Communist nation. But the Polish peasant is stubbornly fond of his own way of life.

Russ Reveals His Secret On How To Quit Smoking!

"By golly, there was a time when I would put on a freshly laundered shirt and the inside collar was so rough and scratchy I'd get so hot under the collar I'd start smoking," Russ Henninger, 117 Ely, Security, told us today.

"But then I discovered Sno-White's collar-comfort laundered shirts were tops . . cool, collar-comfort, man, AND only four-for-a-buck!" Russ added.

Bob Hope Succeeds Henry Cabot Lodge

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has named comedian Bob Hope to succeed Henry Cabot Lodge.

Hope isn't going to take over Lodge's job as ambassador to South Viet Nam.

He is succeeding Lodge as a member of the Distinguished Civilian Service Awards Board, which recommends winners for the Medal of Freedom for distinguished service to the country in various fields.

Technically Lodge has been ineligible to serve as a member of the board since he became ambassador to South Viet Nam. This is because the board is composed of five public members and five members from the executive department. Lodge was a public member and lost his eligibility when he became a governmnt official.

The White House just got around to filling the job Monday.

SMART JERK

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —It not only requires scientific ability to work at this space center, you have to be a linguist too. There's a complete space terminology which is almost another language. A dog house is a blister that houses an instrument on an otherwise smooth skin of a rocket. Beast is a term for a rocket and garbage refers to miscellaneous objects in orbit, usually ejected or broken from a launch vehicle or satellite. An ivory tower is a vertical test stand. And a jerk is a vector that specifies the time rate of change of an acceleration.

SEEING DOUBLE

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)— Ever since Holley Baugh, North Fulton High freshman, and Michele Mitchell, Dykes High freshman, both joined the Southern Ballet here, there's been confusion in the company.

The 5 feet 3 inch brown-eyed brunettes, unrelated and unacquainted until then, look so much alike that nobody can tell them apart.

TALKATIVE DRUGGISTS

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Florida Pharmicists not only know how to mix medicine they have become public speakers as well. The Pharmacists' Association has spent about $17,000 training their members in public speaking on such topics as poison preventitives and polio vaccine.

Prince Philip Tells About British Cooking

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth's husband, Prince Philip, said Monday night that it's unfair to make fun of British cooking.

"British food is something like a small child," he told an annual dinner party of the Cookery and Food Association. "When it's good it's very very good but when it's bad it's absolutely awful."

3½ Million Pennies Back in Circulation

More than 11 tons of coins collected by some 3,000 young people of the Seventh-day Adventist Church in Georgia and East Tennessee were brought to the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank Monday.

They had been saved by the Avertist youth in a three-month "two million penny" campaign to raise funds for a music building at the church's new Georgia Cumberland Academy at Calhoun, Ga.

About 4,000 persons assembled at the 604-acre academy site Sunday for a penny counting. The coins, 3,391,361 of them, were placed in 35-pound bags, loaded on a trailer truck and brought to Atlanta with a state patrol escort.

BAPTIST MILESTONE

NEW YORK (UPI) — When the first national Baptist organization was established in the United States, the British captured Washington and set fire to the Capitol, the Creek Indian Wars ended and the first steam-powered warship, Demologos, was designed and constructed.

These events were all unrelated, of course, but the year 1814 became a major milestone in Baptist history. It was the year of the first "Triennial Convention" of Baptist denominations in the U.S.

Now marking the 150th anniversary of the Triennial Convention, the number of Baptist churches in America has increased to 91,500—compared to 2,468 in 1814.

ALL AROUND THE CLOCK
ALL AROUND THE CALENDAR
ALL AROUND THE COUNTRY
ALL AROUND THE CAR

Just what do we mean "proved all around"? Simply that it takes all kinds of testing to know how every part of a GM car will work and hold up.

Like churning through the shifting sands of desert dunes to test a car's tractability—to find out how it handles and responds. Or speeding, spinning, screeching, squirming, turning, plunging and plowing our cars through one performance challenge after another on our 4,011-acre Proving Ground in Michigan. Around our desert test track near Phoenix. And over the gravel grades above our Pikes Peak test headquarters.

And it takes more testing: up snow-covered country sideroads, down tortuous San Francisco hills in the rain, and through Manhattan's streets in July. Testing GM cars' engines, transmissions, bearings and brakes—morning, noon and night. Testing how they ride, how they handle, how they respond.

In short, it takes testing the GM way: the long way, the hard way, the right way—on the world's truest proving grounds before they go into production. It's because of this that a GM car is so likely to be worth more to you: when you buy it, as you drive it, and when you trade it in.
